PARIS, May 14.—Everything is not going to be plain sailing for the majority bloc of the Left in the new Chamber, and already difficulties have arisen which are causing much discussion. Although there is a majority against M. Poincaré and the National bloc, this does not mean that it is by any means united within itself. There are five different shades of liberalism and socialism to be amalgamated and on two questions of great moment, relations with the Vatican and with Moscow, these five subdivisions of the Left all have very different, and sometimes very violently different, opinions.

These questions, far more than reparations, will be factors in constituting the new Cabinet, and until the ground has been somewhat cleared by party discussions and the framing of party programs next week, all forecasts as to the make-up of the Cabinet must be considered guesswork.

Clamor Against Millerand Kept Up.

The demand for President Millerand's resignation is still being kept up by the extreme Left newspapers, but M. Millerand is being advised from all sides not to take any such drastic action. His constitutional position is much more analagous to that of the King of England than to that of the President of the United States in that he is not the nominee of any one political party and it is customary for him to abstain from politics. From that custom M. Millerand has made slight departures in one or two speeches and newspaper communications in his desire to expedite revision of the Presidential powers for which he stipulated when he took office. His resignation now would, it is felt, create a precedent associating the Presidency with political issues, which would be very unfortunate for the country, and it is believed that in view of this argument the President will remain in the Elysée.

Next week will be given over to party conferences at which among other questions will be discussed the possibility of Socialist cooperation, in a Government more moderate, with the Radical Socialists. Among the Socialists themselves there is a very strong movement for participation in Government for the reason that they hope to obtain through Parliament a revision of the sentence for treason that deprived Caillaux, their former leader, of the rights of citizenship, and give him the benefit of amnesty. It is such internal problems which are likely now to cause far more discussion and heat than foreign politics.

Léon Blum, regarded as the most able leader of the advanced Socialist Party, announced today that his party, in common with the rest of the majority, would "accept sincerely the experts' reparations plan," and he added:

"The German Nationalists will commit a grave error if they count on the new majority in the Chamber providing them with pretexts for opposing the plan and avoiding their obligations."

Premier Poincaré had an interview today with Louis Barthou, President of the Reparation Commission, and it is understood that the work preparatory to putting the plan into operation will be pushed so that all will be in readiness for approval by the Governments when the French Chamber and the Reichstag meet at the beginning of June.

Anatole France, in a letter to the Oeuvre, the organ of the Liberal Socialists, expresses his joy at the result of the elections.

"I salute this great victory," he says. "France has manifested her desire for peace. I do not, as I have often said, believe that war is an eternal human necessity. I wish, I hope, I foresee a future of peace and concord among peoples equal in culture.

"Let us bring about this peace which is so greatly desired. Let us beware of the ancient adage. In reality, if one wishes peace it is necessary to prepare for peace.

"Such is our desire, such is our thought, such must be our work. Let us work for universal peace. Is it not a task worthy of the greatest souls, of the greatest courage? The Rome of the Caesars attempted it when she was queen of the universe. Let Europe of today accomplish it."

Herriot and Briand in Seclusion.

PARIS, May 14 (Associated Press).—The lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies took on an animated aspect today, numerous of the re-elected and newly elected Deputies resorting to what was supposed to be the fountainhead of information concerning the new trend in politics and the probable composition of the new Government, only to find that all the conspicuous leaders of the new majority were giving the Palais Bourbon a wide berth.

Both Edouard Herriot and former Pre-

Odds on Coolidge's Election Shift From 8 to 5 to 5 to 3

The betting odds on President Coolidge for re-election appear to be lengthening, according to the Wall Street betting commissioners. Considerable money has been received in the financial district during the last few days to wager on President Coolidge's chances of re-election to his office. There are very few takers, however. The present odds are quoted by most of the commissioners at five to three, against recent odds of eight to five.

PLANNING TO CLOSE CONGRESS ON JUNE 7

WILL RUSH PENDING BILLS

Last Effort of Coolidge to Soften Japanese Exclusion Fails—House Acts Today.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Adjournment of Congress by June 7 is the goal toward which the Democratic and Republican organizations in both the House and Senate are striving, President Coolidge was told today by a group of House leaders. They expressed confidence that the legislative program would be in shape to permit an ending of the session despite increasing talk, particularly in the Senate, that this is a remote possibility.

During a White House conference, Representative Garrett, the Democratic leader, and Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee, agreed to do their utmost to bring about adjournment before the June political conventions. Their views on the wisdom of such a policy coincided with those previously expressed by President Coolidge and Representative Longworth, the Republican leader, who participated with several other House Republicans in the discussion.

The President was informed that Senate leaders, Democratic as well as Republican, were in sympathy with the June 7 adjournment program and were hopeful that it could be carried through. It was admitted, however, that demand is growing for action on certain legislative proposals, and that a last minute hitch in plans might keep Congress in session through most, if not all, of the Summer.

Senators Demand Vote on Ford Bid.

On the floor of the Senate today, several Senators declared that Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals must be put to a vote before the close of the session, while Chairman Norris of the Senate Agriculture Committee said he saw little prospect of a windup early in June. Chairman Warren of the Senate Appropriations Committee, urging a speeding up of the legislative program, suggested that Congress either "fish or cut bait."

Tentative plans of House Republican leaders for the remainder of the session call for action on a variety of miscellaneous bills and for action on the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief bill, the postal salary measure and the McFadden bill to amend the National Bank and Federal Reserve acts.

The McNary-Haugen bill will get the right of way either the last of this week or early next week, with probably three days devoted to general debate. Several additional days, it is agreed, will be required for consideration of the measure under the five-minute rule with amendments in order.

Mr. Longworth said that while an opportunity would be given the House to pass on the merits of the McNary-Haugen proposal, which would set up a corporation to sell surplus farm products abroad, this in no way obligated the Republican leadership to support the measure.

Leaders of the Farm Bloc, however, declare they are satisfied with this arrangement, as they are confident they have the votes of enough Republicans and Democrats to prevent radical amendment of the bill or its defeat.

The Postal bill will be taken up despite unofficial indications that the President may disapprove it unless it carries a revenue producing provision to cover the expenditures authorized in salary increases. Members of the House Post Office Committee, which omitted

SENATOR WHEELER IS EXONERATED ON ALL CHARGES

STERLING DISSENTS IN PART

Majority Asserts Wheeler Never Appeared Before Any Government Department for Pay.

BORAH WILL REPORT TODAY

He Is Expected to Tell Senate the Committee's Opinion of Those Who Inspired Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana was exonorated this afternoon by the special Senate committee which was appointed to investigate his indictment by a Federal Grand Jury at Great Falls, Mont. The report was signed by Chairman Borah and Senators McNary, Swanson and Caraway. A minority report will be submitted by Senator Sterling, but it is understood he will not contend that Senator Wheeler is guilty. His report is expected to be of an argumentative nature, dealing with some phases of the investigation.

In submitting the report to the Senate, Senator Borah announced that he would discuss it in detail, probably tomorrow. In this speech he is expected to cover the case thoroughly, and there will be little surprise if some of the persons who were concerned in the indictment are subjected to severe criticism by the Senator. Some of the Old Guard are known to be apprehensive as to the effect of the Borah speech. Senators Caraway and Walsh of Montana also will speak.

After reciting the law in the case the report of the committee, which was written by Senator Borah, recites the following conclusions:

"That, during the months of January and February, 1923, after his election to the Senate, Senator Wheeler entered the employ of Gordon Campbell as his attorney, the said contract of employment including the firm of lawyers under the name of Wheeler & Baldwin.

Fee Only Partially Paid.

"That, according to the terms of employment by which he entered the service of Campbell as his attorney, the said firm of Wheeler & Baldwin was to receive a retainer fee of $10,000 per annum; that $2,000 thereof was paid Jan. 9, 1923, and $2,000 thereof on Feb. 16, 1923, and that the balance is still unpaid.

"That it was fully understood and agreed between all parties to said contract of employment that the services of Senator Wheeler and his firm related alone to the litigation then pending, said Campbell being at that time interested in a number of lawsuits, some nineteen or twenty at least in number.

"That said Burton K. Wheeler did not at any time agree to receive compensation for services before any department, court-martial, bureau, officer or any civil, military or naval commission at Washington, and did not at any time receive compensation for such services before any department, court-martial, bureau, officer or any civil, military or naval commission.

"That, on the other hand, the sole contract of employment which he had with Campbell related to matters of litigation in the State courts of Montana; that Senator Wheeler did not at any time appear for said Campbell, or his companies, before any of the departments in Washington under agreement to receive compensation, and did not at any time receive compensation for any appearance or services rendered before said Government departments."

Finds Wheeler Wholly Innocent.

"In conclusion," says the report, "the committee wholly exonerates Senator Burton K. Wheeler from any and all violation of Section 1782 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and finds that he neither received nor accepted nor agreed to receive or accept any compensation whatever, directly or indirectly, for any services rendered, or to be rendered, to any person, either by himself or another, in relation to any

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 14.—Bringing with him half a dozen lions and as many zebras for gifts to his hosts, Ras Tafari, Prince Regent of Abyssinia (Ethiopia) and heir to the title "King of Kings," arrived at Marseilles this afternoon to begin a round of visits in France, Italy and England.

Before him even the Casa Savoya, the oldest reigning house of Europe, must humble itself, for this dusky King of Ethiopia claims descent directly from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba and therefore, according to biblical genealogy, back to Adam and Eve.

As becomes the heir to the title, "King of Kings," the Prince Regent is bringing with him a suite of kings and princes, and Paris is eagerly awaiting the advent of these Ethiopian aristocrats. Their sonorous titles—Ras Hailou, Viceroy Godjam, Ras Seyoum, Ras Nado, Governor Ilubador—antedate the Christian era, and in bringing them the Regent has shown himself wise in his generation, for among them are some who are his rivals. He is bringing his Lodges and his Hiram Johnsons on a visit of thanks to those countries which last year at Geneva sponsored Abyssinia's entry into the League of Nations. Only Ras Tafari will be lodged in the royal suite at the Quai d'Orsay, but his whole collection of princes and kings will take part in the many ceremonious visits which are being prepared for them. Other royalties have laid flowers on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier below the Arc de Triomphe, but these Ethiopians will offer a palm branch wrought in ivory.

Only once before has so notable a visitor from Ethiopia visited France, and that was in the reign of Louis XIII. In an old book written after this occasion it is recorded that the Ras of that visit died here exhausted by his social success at court within a month after his arrival. That fate, it is hoped, will not overtake Ras Tafari and his suite.

The two lions which he is bringing President Millerand will be handed over to the Paris Zoo for lodging, but the pair of zebras it is the President's intention to keep, if possible, in the park at his country residence at Rambouillet.

THEATRE MANAGERS IN FIGHT OVER FUND

The beginning of a move to expel the Shubert bloc of producers from the Producing Managers' Association is seen in an announcement yesterday by that organization that these managers have been cited to appear before a committee to answer charges that have been brought against them. The basis of these charges, it is understood, is that in forming the Managers' Protective Association and signing a separate treaty with the Equity these producers have proceeded contrary to the majority opinion of the Producing Managers' Association and in so doing have violated the organization's by-laws and thus made themselves liable to expulsion.

The announcement of this move from the Producing Managers' Association was as follows:

"A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Producing Managers' Association was held today and a committee appointed which considered charges against the members of the Producing Managers' Association, who have formed the so-called Managers' Protective Association. The charges alleged that this action is contrary to a rule and regulation adopted by the association, and these managers have been cited to appear in answer to the charges at a meeting which has been called by Sam H. Harris for the afternoon of May 26."

Funds Are at Stake.

It is known that this move is certain to result in a bitter fight, since the treasury of the Producing Managers' Association is at stake, and the expulsion of a group of managers would mean the confiscation of all money that they had paid into the organization. Lee Shubert, when informed just after the formation of the Managers' Protective Association that steps might be taken to expel him and his colleagues from the older organization, ridiculed the idea.

All of the managers of the old Producing Managers' Association have contributed directly to this fund, which is known to be more than $100,000. A large part of this has been contributed by the Shuberts and their allies in accordance with a provision whereby each manager has paid into the treasury $25 weekly for each company playing under his management. Furthermore each manager has been called upon to pay annual dues of $500 and has filed a bond of $10,000 to guarantee his good faith as a member of the Association.

The Actors' Equity Association announced yesterday that Billie Burke had applied for Equity membership. The move came as a general surprise, since Miss Burke is the wife of Florenz Ziegfeld Jr., who has repeatedly voiced his opposition to the present aims of Equity. The Equity also announced that it had concluded a ten-year contract with the Managers' Protective Association on behalf of the Chorus Equity Association, in which several disputed points were agreed upon.

The prevailing sentiment on Broadway that the members of the round-robin group would soon find themselves required to accept the eighty-twenty plan of the Equity, as have the Shuberts and their allies, was discussed privately yesterday by one of the standpat managers, who refused to permit his name to be made public.

"Those who can see no other solution to the present situation except a capitulation by the round-robin group are simply refusing to look at the other side," declared this manager. "If this group of producers will stand firm in their opposition to the proposed arrangement I do not see how they can lose. I will admit that there are some in the group who are weakening, and the sooner they are permitted to drop out the better it will be for all.

Predicts Shubert Mastery.

"This strike will not be like the one of five years ago. The actors were striking than to remedy certain abuses, but there are no abuses to be remedied now. The important point is that the actors in the striking productions are going to find themselves out of work, while their fellow-actors, also members of the Equity, will be permitted to continue working simply because they are employed by different managers. How long will this situation last before there is trouble?

"There is another point. The closing of the attractions of the round-robin group, and the fact that that group remains inactive, will result in an oversupply of actors. Inevitably this is going to mean reduced salaries for the actors. I assure you that Mr. Shubert and his fellow-managers have not signed this contract without knowing what it means. They are fully aware that, in exchange for the concessions they have made, they will become masters of the situation after June 1."

GEM ROBBER LINKED WITH TWO MURDERS

Women Pick Out Jackson as Thief Who Imprisoned Them in a Closet.

When Harry Jackson tied up Mrs. Howard Johnson in a room at the Hotel Alamac on Monday night and robbed her of three diamond rings valued at $9,000, he and his woman companion checked out so hurriedly that Jackson forgot a medicine bottle in the bathroom. The label enabled detectives to trace and arrest him.

Yesterday a series of developments followed rapidly.

The first result was the confession of Jackson, alias Behan, alias Phillips, alias Roth, alias Drent, alias Lasser, that he had robbed Mrs. Johnson.

The second was his identification as one of three men who on April 15 bound and locked in a closet two women and a 7-year-old girl in a West Fifty-seventh Street apartment, stealing $250 cash and overlooking $40,000 in jewelry.

The third was the partial identification of Jackson by a negro elevator operator as one of the two men who went to the apartment of Louise Lawson, Texas music student, on the morning she was smothered to death and robbed of jewelry.

The police will investigate to discover if he was involved in the death and robbery of Dorothy Keenan. Jackson admitted a prison record and said that he was now awaiting trial in Washington on a charge of burglary on which he was out in $15,000 bail. The proceeds of the Hotel Alamac robbery, he said, were to defray the costs of that trial. He would not say what he had done with the jewelry. When arrested late Tuesday night he had $750.

Robberies Planned in Cabarets.

The chronology of Jackson's case, beginning with the Hotel Alamac incident, was a swift series of dramatic incidents that kept Police Headquarters and the West Sixty-eighth Street Police Station in a flurry of excitement. The events of the day convinced the police that Jackson was one of a group of cabaret habitués who made a practice of observing women laden with jewelry, following them to obtain their addresses and subsequently entering their apartments and demanding their gems.

Mrs. Johnson is the wife of a playwright and lives with her husband at the Hotel McAlpin. Two months ago she became acquainted with Jackson, another man and a woman. They met occasionally. Jackson and the woman, who had registered Monday morning at the Alamac as "Mr. and Mrs. Brandt," invited Mrs. Johnson to breakfast with them at the Alamac. She accepted. She went riding with them and dined with them at the hotel. In their room in the evening she was served a few cocktails. She was in the bathroom, when Jackson, known to her as Brandt, entered, caught her by the throat and tied pieces of cord around her neck and ankles. Mrs. Johnson became unconscious.

When she revived and freed herself Mrs. Johnson notified the hotel management, but she was so hysterical that it was twenty-four hours before detectives of the West Sixty-eighth Street police station could obtain a coherent story from her. Detective Sergeants Clarence Daly, Thomas Henry Conklin and Martin Owens and Detectives Thomas Horan and Hugh McGovern were put on the case. In the bathroom they found a medicine bottle.

Jackson Traced by Label.

The label led them to a druggist, who said the medicine had been bought by a man and woman living at the Hotel St. Andrew, Broadway and Seventy-second Street. Here it was found they had checked out, the man having told the clerk that he "was going on the road." The detectives found the woman who had registered with him at the Hotel Alamac. She informed the police that Jackson, or Brandt, was living under the name of Lasser in a furnished room at 115 West Forty-eighth Street. He was arrested there Tuesday night. Mrs. Johnson identified him as her robber assailant.

The pieces of cord with which Mrs. Johnson had been bound led the detectives to link Jackson with the robbery

Broker Will Be Taken Back to Penitentiary Today and May Serve Full Term.

IN WALL ST., NOT IN CELL

Testimony That He Was a Broker While Supposed to Be a Convict Led Mayor to Act.

PAROLE OFFICER IS REBUKED

Hirshfield Says She Failed to Give Judge All Facts—New Swindles Told—Prisoner to Ask Writ.

The Parole Commission revoked the parole of Jules C. Rabiner, broker, late yesterday afternoon. He was locked in the Tombs for the night. Today he will be sent back to the penitentiary on Welfare Island, from which he was released on parole on April 25, after having served only ninety days of an indeterminate sentence with a maximum of three years. He may have to serve out the full three years. He also may face new indictments.

Rabiner's parole was revoked at the direction of Mayor Hylan. The Mayor acted as the result of evidence at the investigation conducted by David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts. Following testimony earlier in the week that Rabiner had been seen on Broadway after he was sentenced, and that he had boasted that he had too much political influence to serve his sentence, witnesses yesterday said they had heard that he continued to conduct a brokerage business in connection with Harris & Co., 25 Broad Street, while he was supposed to be in the penitentiary.

Mayor Hylan summoned Commissioners Michael J. Fogarty and Harry Stackell of the Parole Commission to his office yesterday afternoon after having read the transcript of testimony before Commissioner Hirshfield. He ordered them to revoke the parole.

They returned shortly before 6 o'clock to the offices of the Parole Commission, in the Municipal Building, where Rabiner had been waiting all day at their request. Calling a policeman, they sent him to the Tombs, whence he telephoned to his attorney, Samuel Meyers.

Illegal, Says His Lawyer.

Mr. Meyers said that he would apply in the Supreme Court this morning for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that the revocation of the parole was irregular and illegal. He said that the Mayor's action was a surprise, that no ground had been given for revoking the parole, and that no violation of the terms of parole had been alleged. A paroled prisoner who went straight and committed no offenses, he said, was entitled to remain on parole. Mr. Meyers will ask that Rabiner be produced in court at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Commissioner Hirshfield asserted that Mayor Hylan was fully justified in ordering the revocation.

"The facts developed in the investigation before me warrant the Mayor's action," he said. "It shows very plainly that the Mayor tries to be just and to protect the weak against the aggressions of the powerful. Now that the Mayor has acted, it is up to the District Attorney to have this man indicted on other charges so as to make the punishment fit the crime."

The return of Rabiner to the penitentiary Commissioner Hirschfield said, would not stop his investigation. He announced another hearing for 10:30 o'clock this morning to fix responsibility for the release of the broker at the end of only three months' imprisonment "after having defrauded a large number of people out of almost $500,000, some of them out of their lifetime savings."

Push It, Said Hylan.

When Commissioner Hirshfield opened his hearing yesterday morning he announced that Mayor Hylan had telephoned to him at his home the previous night expressing indignation at the state of affairs exposed at Tuesday's hearing.

"The Mayor told me he considered it an outrage that Rabiner had been allowed such privileges," said Commissioner Hirschfield. "He told me to

Coolidge Must Act Tomorrow On Bonus; Veto Is Expected

WASHINGTON, May 14.—As the time limit within which President Coolidge may dispose of the Bonus bill expires on Friday at midnight, the House of Representatives expects to be notified tomorrow of action by him. Nothing except a veto message is expected.

The bill reached the White House on May 5 and under the Constitution the President has ten days within which to deal with it, either by signing it or by affixing his disapproval. As Sundays are not counted in the intervening ten days, the time expires at midnight on Friday. Under the Constitution, if the President fails either to sign or to veto the bill, it automatically becomes law.

CROWDS AT PALAIS ROYAL

Nine of New York's best known restaurants and cabarets were closed yesterday for a year under a sweeping padlock injunction issued by Federal Judge Claude Z. Luse of Wisconsin, temporarily acting here. It was the most drastic action yet taken in the effort to dry up Broadway.

The injunction, entered with the consent of the owners of the cabarets, known as the Thompson-Salvin combination, practically made valueless between $500,000 and $1,000,000 worth of property, exclusive of the worth of the leases held by the cabaret owners.

The cabarets were the Palais Royal, Broadway and Forty-eighth Street; the Plantation, Broadway and Fifty-first Street; the Moulin Rouge, Broadway and Forty-seventh Street; Monmartre, Forty-eighth Street and Seventh Avenue; Club Royale, 7 and 9 East Forty-second Street; Balmoral Club, 11 East Sixtieth Street; Club Gallant, 40 Washington Square South; the Barn Club, 137 West Fifty-first Street, and the 400 Club, 102 East Fortieth Street.

The places were ordered closed on evidence furnished by striking employes in more than 200 affidavits in which waiters swore that they served liquors to diners. Rather than risk indictments and possible jail sentences, for a special Grand Jury had been empaneled to look into the complaints, Samuel G. Salvin, and James N. Thompson, owners, and their managers, gave consent to the decree.

Crowd Gathers, Strikers Heet.

The sight of William C. Heeht, United States Mashall, and his Deputies, John A. Neal, Charles W. Arns, Thomas Scaccia, Henry Cunningham and Thomas Caine affixing padlocks to the doors of the Palais Royal at the dinner hour last evening attracted a large crowd. Patrons who had made appointments for dinner were turned away. And as the employes of the place followed them, they were met with jeers and cat-calls from scores of strikers.

Meanwhile, large placards were placed in front of the restaurant. They read:

"This place closed for violation of the National Prohibition act. By order of the United States District Court."

Disorderly scenes were forestalled at the other cabarets when the managers, anticipating the arrival of the deputy marshals, paid off their employes and darkened their places early in the evening.

"This is the end of the Gay White Way as we have known it," remarked one Broadway "sporting" man as he observed the businesslike manner in which Deputy Sheriff Neal drove the staples and hasps into the oaken panels of the Palais Royal.

This place was the first one visited by the Federal officials, who had previously stopped at the law office of Wentworth, Lowenstein & Stern, in the Knickerbocker Building, Forty-second Street and Broadway, where they for-

FOLEY BECOMES TAMMANY CHIEF ON SMITH'S PLEA

HE FIGHTS TO THE LAST

CHOICE GREETED BY CHEERS

Murphy's Successor Expected to Resign Judicial Office Today to Resume Law Practice.

James A. Foley last night succeeded Charles F. Murphy as the leader of Tammany Hall.

He was elected by the Executive Committee of the Tammany organization, virtually unanimously, after hours of uncertainty, and his election was hailed with rejoicing, not only in the meeting of the committee, but throughout the Hall and in the Tammany club houses everywhere in Manhattan.

Fighting every step of the way Foley, whose wife was much opposed to his taking the leadership, finally gave way when Governor Smith and National Committeeman Norman E. Mack not only exerted their influence but practically told the Surrogate that he owed it to the organization and to the friends who had helped him shape his career to take the job.

In every sense of the word Foley was "drafted" except that he agreed to accept before the normal election was held.

Election Virtually Unanimous.

The election of Foley was made on the report of the special committee of seven appointed last week to canvass the situation and ascertain the wishes of the district leaders individually. Actually the chief job of the committee, of which Frank J. Goodwin, leader of the Third Assembly District, was Chairman, was to persuade Foley that he should take the leadership.

This committee reported last night and when the roll was called on adoption of the report there were twenty-two and one-third affirmative votes and one-third of a vote in the negative. The one-third vote was made up of the one-sixth of a vote of John F. Curry, co-leader of the north end of the Fifth Assembly District, and the similar vote of his woman leader, Martha Byrne.

Following the announcement of the result Warren Hubbard of the Eighteenth Assembly District offered a resolution to this effect:

"The members of the Executive Committee of Tammany Hall pledge their allegiance and loyalty to the Hon. James A. Foley, the duly elected leader of our organization."

This resolution was passed unanimously, Curry explaining that his opposition had not been personal in any way, but was based solely on his belief that the leader of the organization should be one of the district leaders.

The Goodwin Committee's Report.

The Goodwin committee report follows:

"Pursuant to a resolution adopted at the meeting of the Executive Committee on May 8, 1924, we, the committee therein named, respectfully report:

"1. We held a meeting as authorized in said resolution.

"2. All but one of the members of the Executive Committee appeared before us and expressed their views as to Mr. Murphy's successor.

"3. It was practically the unanimous opinion of the seventy members of the Executive Committee that the Hon. James A. Foley, Surrogate of New York County, was the proper person to succeed Mr. Murphy.

"Your committee unanimously recommends the selection of the Hon. James A. Foley to succeed the Hon. Charles F. Murphy, deceased, and that he shall be elected Chairman of the Executive Committee and that Hon. William Allen be Vice Chairman of the Executive Committee."

The speech-making that ensued, all of which was laudatory of Foley, consumed more than an hour. Among those who talked were Nathan Burkan, The McManus, Miss Rose Rothenberg, George Dunnellan, Mrs. Anne Taylor Phillips, Martin McCue and Charles Culkin. It was agreed that the Goodwin committee should act as a committee of notification, to officially inform Mr. Foley of his selection today.

Pleases Fewer in Tammany.

Politically the selection of Foley pleases virtually all those in power in Tammany Hall, and a great many influential Democrats who are not in the organization. It is not expected to prove pleasing to Mayor Hylan, who opposed Foley and issued a statement to that effect last week, or William R. Hearst, who, on at least one occasion, has opposed Foley and made much of the fact that he was the son-in-law of Charles F. Murphy.

When the Executive Committee went into session at 9:30 o'clock last night, having taken a recess from the afternoon, it was definitely known that Foley had finally agreed to accept. The news was reflected in the faces of those who had been hanging about the Hall all afternoon and evening and it spread rapidly. At Foley's house, just a block west of the house of the late Charles F. Murphy in East Seventeenth Street, three guards were stationed at the gate to keep callers away and the announcement was made that the Surrogate was exhausted and had retired.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon it appeared highly improbable that Foley would be the leader. For hours the committee of which Goodwin was the

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 14.—Caught smoking cigarettes in a tea room near the college campus, in violation of the rules which prohibit smoking by the students either in the dormitories or elsewhere, three Smith College seniors were dropped from the college rolls on Saturday, it was learned today. The young women are now on their way to their homes. It is understood that they are suspended so far as this college year is concerned, but will be allowed to make application for a return at midyear next year so that they may finish their course and obtain their degrees, their reinstatement carrying the proviso that they promise on their honor to eschew smoking while attending college hereafter.

President Neilson declined today to go into the case further than to say that the suspensions were complicated by other issues. The college authorities declined to give out the names of the girls who were sent home. The young women are said to be popular among the other girls.

Excitement is high in the college because of the fact that it is known that the college administration and Student Council are investigating other cases of smoking. It is said on good authority that a number of girls are facing summary suspension and that at least two are likely to depart within a day or two.

It seems that the three students suspended were in the company of several college men when they were caught with lighted cigarettes. A student who walked by the tea room in question on Friday afternoon, just a few hours before the junior prom, saw the three girls sitting inside with their escorts, all of the party enjoying puffs from the forbidden cigarettes.

Girls are in honor bound to report such infractions of the rules. This girl went immediately to members of the Student Council and they in turn are said to have gone to the tea room and to have found the young women still enjoying their smoking siesta. The cases were acted upon by the council and the administration immediately and the suspensions followed the next day.

Wild rumors have been circulating about the campus since the incident, in which the number of young women suspended reached as high as sixteen, but three is all that the college authorities will admit have been sent home.

New Office Boy Gone With $11,000 in Bonds; References Forged, Brokers Tell Police

The police began yesterday to search for a youth of refined appearance and pleasant manners, who walked away with $11,000 in Liberty Bonds on Tuesday, before his new employers, Mabon & Co. of 45 Wall Street had completed the investigation of his references.

The youth gave impressive letters of recommendation. He looked honest. He called himself Richard A. Park. With these facts in his favor, the firm decided that it was safe to employ him first and investigate him afterward.

The new employe was put to work on Monday and letters were sent to a clergyman and to others whose names were furnished as references. On Tuesday young Park, whose real name has not yet been established, apparently was looked on as a tried and trusted employe and negotiable bonds valued at about $11,000 were given to him to carry to Stewart & Co. at 61 Broadway. This is a distance of only a few blocks. After an hour or more had elapsed, officials of the company became suspicious, but it was thought the youth was either slow or did not know his way around Manhattan. A little later, however, it was learned that he had not put in an appearance at the office of Stewart & Co., but had merely dropped out of sight.

Officials of the company reported that their new employe had taken the name of a young man of excellent standing, living in New Jersey, and had apparently forged letters of recommendation to make it appear that he was the New Jersey man.

The whole proceeding the police said looked like a close approach to the trick of Bernard A. Maron, who obtained another man's references by inserting an advertisement promising high pay to the right type of bank clerk and directing that applicants send their references to him. In this way Maron obtained a lot of unimpeachable letters, from which he selected those which vouched for John N. Barry of 310 East Seventy-seventh Street. Representing himself to be Barry, Maron obtained employment at the Capitol National Bank and robbed it of $15,000 before his stolen credentials were investigated.

Mabon & Co. reported the stolen bonds to be as follows: $500 Liberty bonds, third issue bearing 4¼ per cent. interest, numbered 714,802, 981,812, 723,297, 157,452, 601,629, 105,442, 40,234, 79,586, 182,943, 95,142, 95,156, 95,157, 353,947, 723,926, 204,544, 206,047, and $1,000 Liberty bonds numbered 966,236 and 476,627. There also was one United States Government bond numbered 000,5378.

head had been arguing with the Surrogate. He remained adamant, as his personal friends had said he would.

Conflicting Reports Are Spread.

The Goodwin committee was supposed to report to the Executive Committee at 4, but it was twenty minutes later before the Executive Committee was called to order. Before it met Goodwin reported to Foley and some of the others that Foley had not finally said "No" but had promised a decision at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The meeting of the Executive Committee did not last more than two minutes. An adjournment was taken until 8:30 o'clock. Then three reports spread. One was that Foley had finally declined, another that he had agreed to accept, and the third and correct one that he was withholding a final decision.

It was between the hours of 5 and 8 that the heavy artillery of the Old Guard in Tammany, insistent on Foley's election, was brought up. Phil Donahue, Treasurer of the organization and one of the closest friends Mr. Murphy had, argued personally with the Surrogate.

Later in the evening Mr. Mack, who is one of the war horses of the Democratic Party in this State, went to the Foley home and told Foley how important it was to the Smith boom and to the Democratic Party generally that Tammany should have a leader as soon as possible and, above all, that it should form a united part of the Democratic Party in the State.

Sought to Avoid Strife.

It was also impressed on Foley that while it might be true that Judge Olvany could be elected in the course of the ensuing few hours, it was not true that he could get anything like a unanimous vote in the Executive Committee. Hence, it was argued, there would be a split, dissatisfaction, factional strife, bitterness and all the things that might well go toward hampering the organization during the forthcoming Democratic National Convention and thereby militate seriously against the chances of nominating Governor Smith for President.

According to one report in Fourteenth Street, Governor Smith called in person at the Foley home. There seemed to be little ground for this report. It is understood, however, that the Governor did communicate with Foley and urge him to take the leadership. Whether there was any qualification, as for instance, an agreement that Foley should get out of the leadership before the next municipal campaign, should he wish to do so, could not be learned last night. There is reason to believe, however, that Mrs. Foley maintained her opposition to her husband taking the leadership and that the prospect of the municipal campaign was one of the things which swayed her.

Many of the Tammany district leaders and about two hundred of the captains and minor bosses were about the hall all the afternoon and much of the evening, completely at a loss. Without a leader, it was clear these men did not know what to do. They were sad faced looking lot, too, when it was reported that Foley would not accept.

Tom Foley Brings the News.

The first definite word to the contrary they got came from Tom Foley, who returned from Surrogate Foley's house shortly after 9 o'clock. He said a few words to one or two men as he came in and in a minute a line had formed of men who wanted to congratulate the elderly leader. The crowd at once realized that Surrogate Foley had been won over by his namesake, at least in a measure.

Then the meeting of the Executive Committee was called nearly an hour late, and the Goodwin Committee reported. There were sounds of applause and some cheering from the closed room. The speechmaking then began and there were frequent bursts of applause.

Occasionally there was what sounded like a discordant note. It was recalled that John F. Curry had openly fought the election of Foley and opinion was divided as to whether Curry would actually carry his fight into the meeting with the certain knowledge that Foley would be chosen, no matter what he said.

Judge Olvany had many friends and boosters in the Hall both during the afternoon and in the evening. They did not hesitate to push the claims of their candidate vigorously when the report spread that Foley had declined finally. It then appeared that Olvany would be elected in the evening, or else there would be an adjournment until Monday. Had Olvany been put across, it was freely prophesied, there would have been a wide split in the organization and little chance of his mending it in the near future.

May Resign as Surrogate Today.

Foley will have to resign as Surrogate at once. He will probably take this step today, as there is no time to be lost and he must assume his duties as leader immediately. His salary as Surrogate is $15,000 a year, but there is an additional $2,500 that comes to him through the State tax office. He relinquishes these salaries and, to date, the leader of Tammany has not been paid a salary. There was talk yesterday of changing this custom. It is considered more likely, however, that Foley will re-enter the practice of law, in which he was quite successful. He can do this and still be leader of Tammany.

The man who thus succeeded to the mantle of Charles F. Murphy, who was the stepfather of his wife, is tall, straight, slight, and has an exceedingly pleasant personality. He is very democratic and well liked. He is an excellent lawyer and has a record in public life that is strikingly different from the records usually credited to Tammany men. At the same time he is a dyed-in-the-wool organization man.

Foley was born on the east side, forty-two years ago, in a house in East Nineteenth Street, but a few blocks from where he now lives. His father, who held a minor public office, had been active in district politics for forty years. Foley has one brother, Frank, who is a broker, and five sisters. He has been in public life for about sixteen years. He served six years in the Assembly, six years in the State Senate, and he was elected Surrogate of New York County in 1919 by a plurality of 5,000 in a year when scarcely another Democrat was successful at the polls.

The young man was educated at City College and the New York University Law School, and from the first has been rated as a lawyer of exceptional ability, a keen student and a man of excellent judgment. As Surrogate he has had occasion to pass on some extraordinarily important matters. The Eno will case, which had been in the courts for seven years and involved many millions of dollars, passed through his hands. The Webb estate was another of the larger cases that passed through his office. He has been fortunate, too, in that his decisions have been upheld almost without exception by the higher courts.

As a legislator Foley made a record which was most heartily approved by the Citizens Union, which is not a lover of Tammany Hall. He was responsible for the first home rule measure and for many welfare bills. He was also responsible for the reduction of telephone rates in at least two instances, and it was he who was responsible for the transit bill which first put John H. Delaney on the Transit Commission. He made an excellent showing in the Constitutional Convention, and when he was a candidate for Surrogate he was endorsed by the Bar Association.

SENATE INQUIRIES ARE WINDING UP

Oil Committee Closes Hearings and Daugherty Investigation Will End Soon.

CALL REMUS FROM PRISON

Brookhart Committee Wants to Question Convicted Cincinnati Bootlegger on Liquor Deals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Senate Teapot Dome Committee which has been investigating the naval oil lease scandals virtually closed its hearings today. It is probable that the Brookhart Committee, now inquiring into the administration of the Department of Justice under former Attorney General Daugherty, will conclude its inquiry within ten days or two weeks.

Frederick B. Tough, Chief Petroleum Engineer of the Bureau of Mines, was heard by the Teapot Dome Committee this morning. Senator Walsh of Montana, who has been directing the inquiry, said he had no other witnesses to call, and it was agreed to adjourn subject to the call of the Chairman, Senator Ladd.

Senator Wheeler, "prosecutor" for the Brookhart committee, announced late today, after a report had been filed in the Senate by Senator Borah exonerating him from charges in an indictment found by a Federal Grand Jury at Great Falls, Mont., that he hoped the Brookhart committee would finish its work within two weeks, and that he then intended to go to Montana and demand a prompt settlement of the case growing out of the indictment.

Today's developments mean that the Senate inquiries, which have attracted nationwide interest and have resulted in the resignations of two Cabinet officers—Secretary Denby and Attorney General Daugherty—are practically at an end.

There has been much speculation as to whether Mr. Daugherty would appear before the Brookhart Committee. While the former Attorney General has not made known his intention, the chances now seem to be against it.

Both committees may meet to hear further testimony this Summer or Autumn, but no definite plans of that kind have been made.

Brookhart Committee Hears Harreld.

The Brookhart Committee heard this morning Senator Harreld of Oklahoma, who took the stand voluntarily to tell his connection with the alleged use of political influence to save the Miller Brothers, owners of the "101" ranch, from prosecution in connection with land transactions in Oklahoma. Mr. Harreld's name had been brought into the inquiry by J. J. McGraw, former Republican National Committeeman, and now an Oklahoma banker.

Senator Harreld said that Mr. McGraw came to see him at Washington and that he declined to use his influence to have Attorney General Daugherty appoint a special investigator in connection with the Government cases. The Senator said he had gone to see Mr. Daugherty with Mr. McGraw, and had simply stated that he had no animosity against the Miller brothers. That was all he did, Mr. Harreld said, and, so far as he knew, Mr. Daugherty never gave Mr. McGraw any encouragement.

H. J. Burton, a former prohibition enforcement agent, who testified yesterday about liquor sales in Cleveland, told today of his relations in the Fall of 1923 in Cleveland and Pittsburgh with a man who represented himself as Herbert Little, a Department of Justice agent.

Mr. Burton then was an employe of Randall & Co., a detective agency in Cleveland, and was interested in the collection of information dealing with the activities of radical labor leaders, to be included in a report for certain industrial interests that were clients of the agency.

According to the witness, Mr. Little had represented himself as a Department of Justice agent who had made an investigation of these matters, and had been sent to Russia by the Government to obtain information about the Soviet activities, which was made the basis of reports to the Department of Justice.

Says Little Drew Two Salaries.

Mr. Burton said Little confided that he was in the employ of the United States Steel Corporation and received $11,000 a year from the corporation and $4,000 a year from the Government. He lived at expensive hotels, entertained, and seemed to have plenty of money.

On one occasion, said Mr. Burton, while they were exchanging information, Little took him to an office in Pittsburgh which, he said, was the office of the Department of Justice. There, Mr. Burton said, he was permitted to read several reports. Later, when he again wanted to see the reports, he was told by Little that they had been stolen from the offices.

Mr. Burton said considerable matter that he had read in these reports, which Little claimed to have obtained in Russia and this country, had been similar to the statements made later by Secretary of State Hughes in arguments against the Soviet Russian Government. He had concluded that the Steel Corporation was dealing with Little because it wanted information which would be helpful in fighting the labor union movement in its plants.

Mr. Chamberlain of counsel for Mr. Daugherty sought to establish that a card and badge which Mr. Burton said Little exhibited in identifying himself as a Department of Justice agent were not genuine and that he was not a department agent. The witness said he had made no personal investigation in this connection.

Mr. Burton also gave more details about the sale of beer and liquor in Cleveland and Cincinnati, stating that in several instances injunctions which had been brought against breweries during the former Administration were withdrawn.

Chairman Brookhart announced that a subpoena had been issued for George Remus of Cincinnati, now serving a term in Atlanta Prison as a result of his bootlegging deals. According to testimony before the committee, Remus is reputed to have made $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 in liquor transactions and to have received preferential treatment at Atlanta. The subpoena directed the warden to produce the prisoner at once.

The Teapot Dome committee's hearing was marked by clashes between Senators Walsh and Spencer. Mr. Walsh reminded Mr. Spencer that the latter had promised to furnish testimony to back up a speech in New York in which Mr. Spencer was quoted as saying that the acts done during the Harding Administration in connection with naval oil reserve leases also had been done under the previous Administration.

Senator Spencer declared that he did not make such a statement; that all he had intended to say was, substantially, that things in regard to leases generally which had been done under Secretary Fall had been done under the former Administration.

Senator Walsh said he would begin at once to present a report which he would ask the committee to adopt. Senator Spencer said he also had worked on drafts of a report.

Says Oil Leases Were Kept Secret.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (Associated Press).—Frederick B. Tough, petroleum engineer of the Bureau of Mines, told the Senate Oil Committee today that drainage of Teapot Dome by wells on the Salt Creek field would not have been prevented, as some witnesses testified, had the wells on that field been located 500 feet or more from the boundary of the reserve.

According to estimates by the Bureau of Mines, he said, 14,000,000 barrels of oil was recoverable from the total oil contents upon Teapot Dome.

Mr. Tough testified that Admiral Robison cautioned him in April, 1922, to observe the utmost secrecy in the matter of the storage of oils for the navy. He agreed under questioning by Senator Walsh that this conversation occurred about the time the Teapot Dome lease was made with Harry F. Sinclair. In the same month Secretary Fall asked him for his views on the probability of drainage of the Teapot Dome reserve by wells on the Salt Creek field, he said, and he expressed the opinion that the danger of material loss was serious.

The witness said he had been informed by his superiors in the Interior Department that leases were under consideration, but that the matter was not to be discussed because it was considered a naval matter which must be kept secret.

"Is it not true that the Teapot Dome lease was made without any specific report on file on the matter of the danger of drainage?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I think there were reports," replied the witness.

DEMAND SHOALS VOTE AT PRESENT SESSION

Senators Shields and Heflin Want Hearing Expedited—Norris Says He Approves.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Demand was made on the floor of the Senate today by Senators Shields, Democrat, of Tennessee, and Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama, for a vote at this session of Congress on a measure to develop Muscle Shoals.

Chairman Norris of the Agriculture Committee, which has the question under consideration, replied that he favored a vote at this session, and said no effort was being made to prevent one.

Senator Norris told the Senate that his bill providing for Government ownership and operation had the approval of most members of the Agriculture Committee.

When the report of the committee is submitted, the Nebraska Senator said, it will contain information showing that the possibilities of Muscle Shoals have never been realized.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, joined in the request for a quick settlement of the issue, while Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, spoke against the Henry Ford offer, declaring the Detroit manufacturer should be regarded as a shrewd business man and his contract considered solely as a business proposition.

Senator Heflin asserted there was a combined effort on the part of the power companies to prevent Mr. Ford from obtaining Muscle Shoals and that Mr. Ford was entitled to know whether he would get the property.

Chairman Norris replied that he had seen no evidence of such a combination and announced that he favored concluding the hearings as quickly as possible.

PHELPS LOSES LOVE SUIT.

Vermont Jury Disagrees in $100,000 Alienation Action.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 14.—A disagreement was reported today by the jury in the trial of the $100,000 suit for alienation of affections brought by Walter V. Phelps of Seattle, Wash., and Enosburg Falls, against Eugene F. Greenwood, an Enosburg Falls banker, and the jury was dismissed. Counsel for Phelps said he would file a motion for a retrial of the suit in September.

The jury went out at 12:42 P. M. yesterday, and after twice reporting inability to agree was instructed by the Court to go to bed. Deliberations were resumed this morning and after two hours the foreman reported that there was no possibility of reaching a verdict.

The suit was one phase of a tangle which has stirred the village of Enosburg Falls, involved three of its families and extended to business and financial interests. Four of the persons concerned have been arrested.

Just before trial of the suit was begun the trial of a $10,000 alienation suit brought against Phelps by George Wood, a truckman, was halted when a settlement was reached out of court. Soon afterward Phelps, Greenwood, Mrs. Phelps and Mrs. Wood were arrested on statutory charges. They were released under bonds pending trial in September. Last Saturday Mrs. Phelps and Mrs. Wood were arrested on charges of perjury growing out of their testimony at the Phelps-Greenwood trial.

Clears Misquoted Address.

Fraser M. Morfat, President of the Tanners' Council of America, in referring yesterday to reports of his address before the recent convention at Atlantic City, said he had been misquoted in some particulars. Fifty per cent. of the American people were not undergoing foot treatment, he said, but were suffering from foot trouble, only about 3 per cent. having been compelled to seek surgical assistance. He also pointed out that tanners had no fault to find with the automobile industry. This transportation, he said, took people to the country, where walking was a pleasure.

BUTLER CALLS ON LEADERS.

Manager of Coolidge Campaign Told Missouri Will Go Republican.

William M. Butler, national manager of the Coolidge-for-President preconvention campaign, came to New York yesterday to see Charles D. Hilles, State Chairman George K. Morris and others. He also had a talk with Governor Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri, who assured him that the Republicans will carry Missouri in the Fall.

Mr. Butler said he had found everywhere that President Coolidge had made a favorable impression in the short time he has been in the White House, and that the prospects for Republican success are "very fine indeed." He said that the President already has 978 of the delegates to the Republican National Convention who have been elected; La Follette 28, and Johnson 15. There are ninety-three delegates still to be elected, and, according to Mr. Butler, all will favor the nomination of Coolidge.

RABINER IS IN JAIL, HIS PAROLE REVOKED

push my investigation to the limit, no matter who it hit and no matter what department of the city Government was involved. He recalled that he had been a city magistrate and a county judge, and knew that many poor devils who get into trouble with the law on minor charges deserve the sympathy that this fellow got. He had rather see sympathy extended to some unfortunate who takes a loaf of bread to keep from starving than to a man who openly steals hundreds of thousands of dollars from widows and orphans and other trusting persons."

Three witnesses testified before Mr. Hirshfield yesterday regarding Rabiner's alleged Wall Street operations while he was supposed to be in the penitentiary. One of them was Mrs. Dora Mueller of Woodside, L. I., who said that she had lost $3,000 when Rabiner went into bankruptcy. Mrs. Mueller said she began trading with Rabiner about two years ago.

When Rabiner failed, Mrs. Mueller said, she had an equity of about $3,000 in her account. She testified that she called on the broker both at his home on West End Avenue, which she described as a "luxurious, gorgeously furnished apartment," and in a lawyer's office, and pleaded with him to give back to her her two bracelets, worth $2,000, on which she had opened her account.

Heard Wife Wore Her Jewels.

"There was nothing doing," she said. "I have heard that his wife wore the bracelets, but I don't know whether it's true or not."

Like several other victims of Rabiner who had testified at previous hearings, Mrs. Mueller said that she had tried to lodge a complaint against him with the District Attorney, but had received no satisfaction.

Mrs. Mueller said that one of Rabiner's lawyers had urged her not to press her complaint with the District Attorney, and that she had finally accepted $100 in cash and notes for $2,500, signed by Rabiner, but not endorsed by any one.

The witness testified that she had been unable to collect anything on the notes, although some were past due. While she was trying to collect the money, she said, the Heights Detective Agency had informed her that Rabiner had never served his term in the penitentiary.

Heard of Him in Wall Street.

Charles Dioguardi, head of the Heights Detective Agency, then testified. He said that Mrs. Mueller had engaged him to see if he could get information that would enable her to collect on her notes.

"I had an investigator who has been with a firm in Wall Street for several years, and he told me that Rabiner was out walking the streets within two weeks from the time he was sentenced," the detective said. "I have had information right along that he was out, and that he was connected with Harris & Co., 23 Broad Street. I tried to find out whether it was true, and sent two investigators to Harris & Co., but they couldn't find out much."

Dioguardi explained that the first investigator's source of information was in telephone calls alleged to have been made by Rabiner to the firm by which the investigator was employed.

"The telephone calls were during the time that Rabiner was supposed to be in the penitentiary," said Dioguardi. "I was told that Rabiner was still working for Harris & Co."

Leon Latz, an investigator, said that Dioguardi had sent him to Harris & Co. to apply for a job, but that he had been unable to get inside the firm. He said he was told that Rabiner was no longer working there. According to Latz, his investigation disclosed that Rabiner employed in his brokerage house before he failed two men who had been indicted with "Nicky" Arnstein in the Wall Street bond thefts.

Swindled a Clergyman.

Another witness who told of losses in Rabiner's failure was James K. Humphrey of 141 West 130th Street, a negro clergyman. Though he had never heard of Rabiner before, Humphrey said, he received a telephone call from the broker in 1920, urging him to buy Williams oil stock. Rabiner sent a salesman named Du Valle to him, who represented that the oil stock was a "good buy" at $1 a share.

"I bought 500 shares and gave him $500," said the negro. "In 1921 Rabiner sent me $32, which he said was a year's dividends. He then persuaded me to buy 1,000 more, and I gave him another $1,000. Du Valle came around a little while later, and induced me to lend him all the stock. I lost $1,500 and only got $32 back."

Humphrey said that he was 47 years old, had a wife and family, received $45 a week salary, and lost all his savings from twenty-one years as a clergyman.

Jerome F. Collins of the Bureau of Investigation of Financial Frauds testified that Rabiner paid 8 cents a share in the open market for the stock he sold to Humphrey at $1 a share. Collins also said that the "dividends" paid to Humphrey had come out of capital, not surplus, and that there had been no surplus for dividends. He said that the company had gone into the hands of a receiver, who is now suing Humphrey and other stockholders for the recovery of the "dividends" paid out of capital.

According to Collins, Rabiner also had sold stock in the Dayton Coal and Iron Railroad Company, a single track road thirty miles long. He said that the road was capitalized at $5,000,000, but that its entire assets sold for only $250,000 at a receiver's sale.

Jacob Pomerants, who with his father and brothers has a restaurant in Broadway near Ninety-fourth Street, was called to testify regarding statements by Dr. Edward L. Spitzer, one of Rabiner's victims; Mrs. Spitzer and Mrs. Bertha Shack, that they had seen Rabiner with his wife and two men in the Pomerants restaurant at luncheon on Feb. 7, after he had been sentenced. Pomerants recalled having seen Mr. and Mrs. Rabiner and two men at lunch subsequent to the day sentence was imposed, but could not remember the date. On the day Rabiner lunched there, he said, four Municipal Court Judges sat at the next table.

Rebukes Parole Officer.

Mrs. Gussie Meyer, probation officer in the Court of General Sessions, also testified. She admitted that she had known Rabiner's family before the broker was arrested, but said that she had no more sympathy for him than for any other prisoner. She said she knew Rabiner owed between $400,000 and $500,000 when he went into bankruptcy and had been charged with running a bucket shop, but admitted that she had not said anything about these phases of the case in her report to Judge McIntyre, who sentenced Rabiner, or to the parole officer who investigated the case for the Parole Commission.

Mrs. Meyer said she knew the Judge knew all about the case, and had herself heard him talk about the bucket shop and bankruptcy features at the time of different adjournments of the case.

The witness gave to Commissioner Hirshfield a copy of her report to Judge McIntyre. After reading it, Mr. Hirshfield said:

"This report does not state all the facts about Rabiner that should have been furnished to the Judge in order that he should have a full record before him about the man he was to sentence, and your only excuse is that you thought the Judge knew all about it. If any of my investigators in an important case like this made a report like this to me, he would not last twenty-four hours."

A Broker While on Bail.

The report showed that while Rabiner was on bail awaiting sentence he was working on a commission basis as manager for Harris & Co. It also said that Rabiner had been under a doctor's care for three years for heart murmur and anaemia, that he had never been convicted before, that he had given substantial contributions to charity and philanthropy, that a number of persons had given certificates of his good character, and that Thomas Millen, complainant in the case in which Rabiner had pleaded guilty, had written about Rabiner's restitution agreement and had asked clemency for the broker.

Mrs. Meyer said that her investigation had consisted of interviewing Rabiner and his wife, checking up on places where he had worked, and finding out whether he had been convicted before. Commissioner Hirshfield asked whether she had questioned any of his victims who had lost large sums, or had inquired about his record in the financial district. She said that she had not, because her investigation was limited to the complaint to which he had pleaded guilty, in which only one customer and $3,600 of hypothecated securities were involved.

"Did you question Rabiner about the charges that he was running a bucket shop and that he swindled a lot of poor people?" Commissioner Hirshfield asked.

"He denied it," Mrs. Meyer replied. "He said it was a legitimate bankruptcy."

Mrs. Meyer said that she had written to Harold P. Coffin, Referee in Bankruptcy, asking for information about Rabiner's bankruptcy, but had received no reply. She said that she did not say anything to the parole officer of the Parole Commission about the bankruptcy or bucketshop charges because she thought he knew.

"I thought everybody knew about it," she added.

"Well," remarked Commissioner Hirshfield, "the Chairman and other members of the Parole Commission say they didn't know about it."

Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis of the Department of Correction, after yesterday's hearing, issued a statement emphatically denying that Rabiner had been allowed to leave the penitentiary between Feb. 9, when a stay of sentence granted by Judge McIntyre had expired, and April 25, when the broker was paroled. Mr. Wallis said:

"It appears from the official record of the Department of Correction that on Jan. 25, 1924, one Jules C. Rabiner was sentenced to the penitentiary by John F. McIntyre, Judge of the Court of General Sessions, New York County, and lodged in the tombs by the Sheriff.

"On Jan. 31, 1924 an order was issued by the Court directing the Warden of the Tombs to deliver Rabiner to the Sheriff of New York County, and in obedience to the Court's order, Rabiner, 1924, Rabiner was delivered by the Sheriff order was in effect up to and including Feb. 8, 1924.

"On Feb. 9, 1924, pursuant to the Court's commitment, dated Jan. 25, 1924, Rabiner was delivered by the Sheriff to the Warden of the penitentiary.

"From the time of this inmate's reception at the penitentiary, on Feb. 9, until his release on parole on April 25, 1924, our records show that at no time did the inmate leave the penitentiary, or Welfare Island.

"Rabiner was received at the penitentiary on Saturday, Feb. 9, and on Monday Feb. 11, he was assigned to regular work, and continued work up to his release."

Warden Hanley of the Tombs showed to Commissioner Wallis Judge McIntyre's order, on which Rabiner was allowed to leave the Tombs to wind up his business affairs between 10 A. M. and 4 P. M. between Jan. 31 and Feb. 8. The body of the order was typewritten, but a sentence saying the order was not to run after Feb. 8 was written in ink. Warden Hanley said that the order bore the sentence in handwriting when it was served upon him, and that Rabiner was duly taken from the Tombs by Deputy Sheriff Jacobs on Feb. 9.

While Judge McIntyre's order was in effect, Warden Hanley said, Rabiner left the Tombs on five occasions. He went out in custody of Deputy Sheriff Tully on Feb. 2, 3 and 4 and in custody of Deputy Sheriff Petrick on Feb. 6 and 7, according to Warden Hanley.

Commissioner Wallis said that Rabiner did clerical work, for which he was best suited, while in the penitentiary.

Fourteen Complaints.

District Attorney Banton said yesterday that fourteen complaints against Rabiner had been received at his office. Some of them came in, he said, even before he became Assistant under former District Attorney Swann. Five were received after Rabiner's parole. Three persons have made statements to the District Attorney upon which he thinks he can act, and another is expected to. The others, Mr. Banton said, either were not interested in anything except getting their money back or had no information to warrant indictments. The useful evidence, he said, will be taken up by Assistant District Attorney Albert Bloag Unger as soon as the trial of Charles W. Rendigs is completed.

As he was about to sail for Europe on the French liner Paris yesterday, Bertram de N. Cruger, Chairman of the Parole Commission, said that he assumed full responsibility for any negligence on the part of the commission in connection with the Rabiner parole.

"Perhaps we might be censured for not keeping abreast of the news reports on the Rabiner disclosures," he said, "but we are not making decisions upon findings in the newspapers, but on the facts in the case on which the defendant is tried and indicted."

Mr. Cruger got permission from Commissioner Hirshfield to leave before the end of the investigation. He is going to Paris to attend the wedding of his sister, Mrs. Violet D. Wanamaker, divorced wife of Rodman Wanamaker, to Major Viney, British war veteran.

SENATORS RECEIVE BOOKS OF THE KLAN

FUND COLLECTOR TESTIFIES

Hunter Says He Gathered $4,500 Unknown to Senator and Aided Campaign Alone.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The cash books and a few other papers of the Ku Klux Klan were produced today before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, which is hearing the contest in which George E. B. Peddy, Republican, is seeking to have Senator Mayfield of Texas removed from his seat, and will be made the subject of oral examination Friday after counsel for the opposing sides have inspected them.

The papers were brought to Washington by J. E. MacQuinn of Atlanta, Assistant Cashier of the Klan, who had been subpoenaed at the request of counsel for Mr. Peddy. The only questions asked today of this witness related to the nature of these documents.

Plans had been made to adjourn until next Tuesday, but the committee was told that unless Mr. MacQuinn could get back to Atlanta by the end of the week the business of the Klan organization would suffer and the pay checks might be delayed.

The committee decided at an executive session to send letters to individuals in Texas to ascertain what their contributions were to the Mayfield campaign.

Opening the examination of Mr. MacQuinn, Luther Nickels, of counsel for Mr. Peddy asked:

"What is your position?"

"Auditor and Assistant Cashier of the Ku Klux Klan since 1922," the witness replied, stating further that he had been working for Ernst & Ernst, accountants at the Imperial Palace, but that he had nothing to do with the Klan's books prior to September, 1922.

Facts on Clark Row in Klan Audit.

An audit was made of the Klan's books from the time it started until July, 1922, and then another was made up to July, 1923. Mr. MacQuinn stated that he had brought with him the cashier's journal showing disbursements for the calendar year 1922, and the checks for that year; also a weekly statement compiled from the cash journal. He stated that he could not bring all the books or the ledger.

"The transactions of the Ku Klux Klan and E. Y. Clark are shown in the books here," Mr. MacQuinn said, adding that in the audit that was made of the Klan during its controversy with Mr. Clark correspondence was had with the various Klans of the country to get information.

Mr. MacQuinn said that there was no objection to counsel for Mr. Peddy seeing the books provided the examination was done in the office of the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate. This was satisfactory to Mr. Nickels.

The committee heard two other witnesses today regarding contributions and expenditures in the Mayfield campaign.

W. H. Gray of Oklahoma, a lawyer and President of the National Association of Independent Oil Producers, testified that he had known Mr. Mayfield all of his life.

"He and I were born within a few hundred feet of each other," Mr. Gray said, "and I remember well the day when I led him by the hand to his mother's grave."

In reply to questions by Mr. Nickels, Mr. Gray denied having had anything to do with arranging for the Mayfield headquarters at the Oriental Hotel in Dallas. He said he paid no part of the expenses, but admitted that he guaranteed to take care of the hotel bills. He did this, he said, on condition that the young men in charge of the campaign raised the money. Mr. Gray said he was never presented with a bill. The limit of his guarantee was about $1,500.

Hunter Tells of Raising $4,500.

J. L. Hunter of Austin told of work that he did for the election of Mr. Mayfield. He said he kept no record of money handled, but said he collected or provided something like $4,500 for the campaign, spending it, unknown to Mr. Mayfield, mostly on advertising of his own. His specialty, he said, was obtaining votes for Mayfield in the anti-Klan and anti-prohibition ranks.

He recalled receiving $2,000 or $2,500 from C. Towns, $100 or $200 from W. T. Eldridge of Wichita Falls, two amounts of $250 and either $150 or $250 from Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, $500 from George Beggs of Fort Worth, $150 from Reece Allen of Wichita Falls.

Mr. Hunter admitted soliciting funds at the offices of the Southern Pacific Lines in Texas. One E. F. Bonner gave a check of about $150. He visited the Gulf Refining Company at Houston but did not state the amount of money received. He said he knew D. E. Lyday at Austin, one of Mayfield's managers.

The inquiry turned into an examination to ascertain what activities Mr. Hunter had engaged in to help elect Mr. Mayfield. He produced a copy of a circular printed by A. J. Baldwin & Sons and told of other advertising material.

Mr. Hunter could not say how many circulars were distributed through the mails, but said there were half a million Mexican circulars and half a million others on the record of Governor Ferguson, candidate for the Senate. The total cost of the printing and of envelopes, the witness said, amounted to about $2,000, which he paid.

In addition advertisements were printed in several Texas newspapers. Among these were Home and State and a railroad paper the witness could not remember.

Negroes Protest Against Watson.

Request for Senator Watson's resignation from the Senate committee investigating expenditures in the election of Mayfield, the Ku Klux Klan's candidate for the United States Senate from Texas, in view of Senator Watson's Klan affiliations, was telegraphed to the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections yesterday by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, 69 Fifth Avenue, through its Secretary, James Weldon Johnson.

KLAN ANSWERS UNDERWOOD

ATLANTA, Ga., May 14.—N. B. Forest, Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Georgia, declared in a signed statement today that "the statement issued by the Underwood Committee in Washington was inspired by an effort to divert attention from their candidate's 'wet' record and obscure the real issue in the campaign."

"The real issue in the campaign for the Democratic Presidential nomination is the prohibition question," the statement said. "Senator Underwood of Alabama is just as 'wet' as Governor Al Smith of New York.

"The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan is a fraternal patriotic order, and it is not in politics. In the campaign in Georgia, Senator Underwood went out of his way to attack the Klan, and Klansmen naturally welcomed his overwhelming defeat.

"After the primary, when it became apparent that the Underwood forces in Georgia, under Mr. Clark Howell's influence, were trying to take at the State Convention the fruits of the McAdoo victory at the polls, the klansmen were warned to be on their guard and Mr. Howell was properly defeated for reelection as National Committeeman from Georgia."

SENATE REFUSES TO HURRY.

Leaders Are Forced to Abandon Efforts for Hour Early Session.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Senate proved today that it was a deliberate, as well as a deliberative body, by refusing to be hurried into going to work an hour earlier than usual.

Senate leaders, who have had increasing difficulty in trying to speed up work by calling 11 o'clock meetings, finally ran into a solid wall when all attempts at obtaining a morning quorum failed, even with the assistance of the sergeant-at-arms. The meeting having been called at 11 o'clock, forty minutes were spent in trying to bring recalcitrant members into the chamber ahead of time, after which it was decided to adjourn until noon, the regular meeting hour.

The brief adjournmest automatically set aside the unfinished business, the Army Appropriation bill and gave Senators their treasured "morning hour" in which to obtain consideration of private and pet measures.

DELAYS DEBT CONFERENCE.

MacDonald Won't Consider Parley Until Dawes Plan Is Acted On.

LONDON, May 14 (Associated Press).—Premier MacDonald told a questioner in the House of Commons today that he would not consider calling a conference, including the United States, on the interallied war debts until conclusions had been reached regarding the issues raised by the reports of the experts' committee.

Kentucky Democrats for McAdoo.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 14 (Associated Press).—Kentucky Democrats at the State Convention today endorsed the Presidential candidacy of William G. McAdoo. Eleven district conventions and the organization section of the State Convention gave expression to the party sentiment. Senator Underwood withdrew from the Kentucky contest, which was an unexpected development. Announcement of the withdrawal ascribed the action to the interest of party harmony and recognition of the apparent majority of McAdoo delegates.

EX-KAISER FATHERS BIG POTSDAM RALLY

Cash, With Promise to Make Up Deficit, Said to Have Come From Exiled Monarch.

HIS WIFE MAY BE PRESENT

Crowd of 100,000 Expected If the Plan Goes Through, but Government May Intervene.

By T. R. YBARRA

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 14.—From a reliable source, I learn that the monarchists are quietly preparing a demonstration at Potsdam under the ex-Kaiser's auspices which they hope will even surpass last Sunday's monster celebration at Halle when some 70,000 members of the semi-military, monarchistic organizations passed in review before Ludendorff and other chiefs of the old German army and navy.

The Potsdam celebration is being disguised innocently as a mere regimental festivity arranged by officers of the old First Regiment of the Royal Prussian Guards for June 14, when they will unveil a monument in honor of their comrades who fell in the World War. Eight thousand former members of the regiment have been invited to Potsdam for the occasion, but in addition delegations also are expected from all secret and semi-secret military organizations throughout the country which were represented at Halle last Sunday. They will march into Potsdam with their thousands of banners just as they did at Halle, where the tremendous militaristic pageant so infuriated the anti-Nationalists and Communists that violent clashes and loss of several lives resulted.

Ludendorff, Hindenburg and a small army of other officers of high rank are expected at Potsdam. Prince Eitel Friedrich, the ex-Kaiser's second son, will review the parade at the unveiling ceremony, the leader of which will be General Friedeberg, married to Princess of the Sigmaringen branch of the Hohenzollern family. But what lends special significance to the contemplated Potsdam demonstration is the fact that ex-Kaiser Wilhelm is said to have sent a letter from his place of exile at Doorn, Holland, urging that no expense be spared to make the Potsdam festivities a memorable day, especially for the common soldiers and non-commissioned officers, so that military and monarchistic traditions may be kept alive in the classes to which these men belong. To this end the ex-Kaiser advises that all guests be freely dined and wined and that free lodging be provided for as many visitors as possible. He also advises a distribution of special medals commemorating the occasion among the regimental veterans and other guests.

What is still more to the point, Wilhelm is said to have donated a substantial contribution toward the expenses of the celebration and to have promised to cover any deficit.

Wilhelm's letter, it is said, has been communicated to members of noble and wealthy monarchistic circles and also to heads of militarist organizations, with the result that contributions now are pouring in so copiously that Wilhelm needs not fear having to dig down into his pocket "after the ball is over."

It is thought the attendance may pass the 100,000 mark. Wilhelm's wife, Hermine, may be present at the celebration, but the Crown Prince is not mentioned among the probable guests.

One cannot help wondering whether the monarchists planning the Potsdam festivities will not run up against governmental opposition, since in view of the disorders at Halle last Sunday the Prussian Minister of the Interior, Dr. Severing, has already prohibited big monarchist rallies scheduled for next Sunday at Breslau and for Berlin itself on May 25.

"BUTLER FOR GOVERNOR."

Republican Weekly Paper Booms Columbia's Head for Nomination.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, was boomed for the Republican nomination for Governor in The Republican, a weekly paper, which was circulated yesterday among voters of the party in this city. The editor, Charles D. Steurer Jr., said he was giving only his individual opinion as to the merits of Dr. Butler, but thought the whole party would come to the same position eventually. No reference to Dr. Butler's position on prohibition was made in the editorial articles proposing him as a candidate, but it was referred to in other pages.

The article proposing Dr. Butler's nomination said:

"Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler has been through the fires of public life. He has proved to be possessed of exceptional qualities as an executive capable of dealing with imposing problems. The college of which he is the active and controlling head has attracted to it probably the largest student enrollment of any college in the world. As an educator, Nicholas Murray Butler has long occupied a pre-eminent position.

"He is possessed of a vast store of knowledge on public as well as educational affairs. He has long been a highly respected consultant of leaders in city, State, national and world affairs. His qualifications for high public and political honors are many. He would make a Governor of the State of New York that would stand the severest comparison with the many great men who have held that high office."

Baptists Wire Coolidge to Help Japan.

At a meeting of the Administrative Committee of the Northern Baptist Convention yesterday at 276 Fifth Avenue a telegram was sent to President Coolidge requesting him to do all in his power "to avoid offense to a friendly nation by continuing to oppose the Japanese exclusion provision in its present form, even by veto if necessary." The Northern Baptist Convention represents 10,000 affiliated Baptist churches located in thirty-four States with a total enrolled membership of 1,250,000.

such a provision from the bill it reported, said this phase of the question was now being considered by experts who would be unable to submit a report as to what increases in rates would be necessary for several months at least. They contend that the rate problem can be taken care of during the December session.

One of the bills which probably will be considered by the House before the end of the week is one to authorize an appropriation of $6,500,000 for additional hospital facilities for war veterans.

Exclusion Compromise Fails.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—An eleventh-hour effort by President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes to have the immigration restriction bill so modified as to give time for diplomatic effort to avoid offense to the Japanese Government seems to have met with failure.

After a conference at the White House today, attended by the President, Secretary Hughes and several leaders of both major parties in the House, Representative Longworth, the Republican leader, announced that the agreement of the joint conference on the Immigration bill would be brought before the House tomorrow for action.

The conference agreement fixes July 1 as the effective date for Japanese exclusion, dropping the postponement to March 1, 1925, and the authorization for treaty negotiation desired by the President and the Secretary of State.

Following the White House conference, a report was circulated that Secretary Hughes was negotiating a treaty or agreement with the Japanese Government, by which action the effects of the drastic Asiatic exclusion proposal as far as it affected Japanese emigration to the United States. Participants in the conference would not confirm this report.

President Pro Tem. Cummins of the Senate today called President Coolidge's attention to the need of an immediate appropriation of $800,000 by the Interstate Commerce Commission to complete its study of the valuation of railroads. He pointed out that more than $40,000,000 in profits due railroads is being held up until this work is completed, and said an effort to pass a special resolution authorizing this appropriation will be attempted at this session of Congress.

NO FRANCO-JAPAN ENTENTE.

Tokio Gives Up Plan Upon Arrival of Indo-China Governor.

By WILFRID FLEISHER.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, May 14.—The French Governor General of Indo-China, Marshal Merlin, in an interview today stated that Indo-China has no need of Japanese immigrants. He said:

"We do not need immigrants from Japan, because our own population of 20,000,000 people is quite sufficient to cultivate our soil."

The Governor General added that there was no objection to the admission of individual Japanese.

"We are not opposed to individuals coming into Indo-China," he said.

Referring to his mission to Japan, Governor General Merlin said:

"I do not doubt that we will be able to lay the foundations of future accords which will be profitable to both France and Japan."

Previous to the arrival of the Governor General the Japanese Foreign Office had planned a formal alliance between France and Japan, but it was thought best to await his arrival before issuing a statement and now this idea has been definitely abandoned. The Governor's reference to "future accords" is generally taken to mean new economic accords between Japan and Indo-China by the extension of the commercial treaty between France and Japan to embrace Indo-China.

OUR WORLD FLIERS ARE DUE IN JAPAN

But Wireless Messages Do Not Reveal Whether They Hopped Off as Planned.

MARTIN'S PLANE SENT HERE

CORDOVA, Alaska, May 14 (Associated Press).—Wireless messages received from St. Paul Island, in the Aleutian Islands, gave no word as to whether three United States Army air cruisers circling the earth had left Attu Island for Paramashiru Island, in the Kuriles of Japan, at 3 o'clock today.

BREMERTON, Wash., May 14 (Associated Press).—Weather conditions permitting, the three army aviators were prepared to lave Attu Island today for the longest hop of their expedition, with Paramashiru Island, 878 miles distant, as their objective. They arrived at Attu Friday from Atka Island.

Each of the three air cruisers has been overhauled for the most exacting stretch of the fliers' 27,000-mile journey. Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, piloting the cruiser Chicago, is in charge of the squadron.

Major Frederick L. Martin, the flight commander, and Staff Sergeant Alva L. Harvey, his mechanic, today were aboard the Pacific-American Fisheries vessel Catherine D., bound for Seattle for Port Moller. The ship is expected to reach Bellingham, Wash., on May 23.

Plane for Martin Being Shipped Here.

A new airplane to replace that wrecked by Major Frederick L. Martin in Alaska will be shipped to Mitchel Field from Langley Field, near Newport News, by the first available coastwise steamer, according to a telegram received last night by Major William N. Hensley Jr., commandant of Mitchel Field, from Major Gen. Mason M. Patrick, Chief of the Army Air Service.

The machine is a Douglas biplane, similar to the one in which Major Martin started the round-the-world trip. It is the Air Chief's order that when the plane reaches New York Harbor Major Hensley immediately complete arrangements to place it aboard the first steamship bound for England.

These orders indicate, according to officers at Mitchel Field, that the officials at Washington, impressed by the courage shown by Major Martin and his mechanic, Sergeant Alva L. Harvey, are desirous of having them resume actual leadership of the world flight as soon as feasible.

I. R. T. MEN WON'T STRIKE.

Oppose 5 Per Cent. Wage Cut, but Will Remain at Work.

Members of Local 8 of the Brotherhood of Interborough Employes will not favor a strike on the subway or elevated lines because of the request of General Manager Frank Hedley of the Interborough that all employes accept a reduction of 5 per cent. in wages. This statement was made last night by Walter R. Wickes, President of the local union, which met at Moose Hall, 127th Street and Lenox Avenue.

The conductors who work at night met in the afternoon and it was reported voiced their sentiment in speeches in opposition to the wage reduction. The day men met last night and while they were not pleased by Hedley's request, they said through their President that they would not strike if the reduction were placed in effect.

LAY OUT FLIERS' CEMETERY.

Garden Prepared by French for American Volunteers' Bodies.

PARIS, May 14.—Work began today upon the cemetery garden in the forest of St. Cloud, which is to become the burial place of American volunteer aviators who fell during the war.

A committee of the Lafayette Escadrille of the French Army, in which many of the Americans served, has just appropriated 200,000 francs to create roads giving access to that part of the park where a monument, overlooking the City of Paris, is to be erected. An admirable scheme for a landscape garden has been prepared by Alexandre Marcel, Chief Architect of the French Government.

Dodge Estate Listed at $39,390,606.

DETROIT, Mich., May 14.—The estate of Horace Dodge, the motor car manufacturer, who died Dec. 10, 1920, showed a balance May 1 of $39,390,606.43, according to an accounting filed for probate today by E. C. Bloomer, executor. The estate comprises stocks, bonds, mortgages, notes, contracts and property, real and personal.

Real Estate Won't Play Second Fiddle

A certain clothing manufacturer owns and manages a big building which is in need of tenants. We brought to his office a prospective tenant whose lease would have been worth $150,000. But the interview broke down and the lease fell through because the manufacturer constantly interrupted it to help one of his salesmen land a $500 order for clothing.

You can see why that manufacturer has made a success of the clothing business. You can see also why his building needs tenants. Real estate will not play second fiddle. Success in it demands your constant and undivided attention.

If you cannot give this undivided attention to your real estate, we can and will. We have been doing it successfully for others for more than twenty years.

mally served the court papers on Salvin, Thompson and the cabaret managers.

Place All Set for Service.

It was 6 o'clock when the marshal and his deputies reached the place. They found the tables set, cooks in the kitchen, waiters at attention and hat check girls at their stations. A party of diners had just preceded the Federal officials and were giving orders to Max Gaffney, the captain of waiters. Marshal Hecht announced the "bad news" and Gaffney snapped to the waiters: "Everything off. Close up."

The prospective diners left the place in a daze after their orders were canceled. Some members of the Roger Wolfe Orchestra and several entertainers gathered up their personal property and departed.

"Now I know what it feels like to have a newspaper shot under you," remarked one of the entertainers to a reporter.

"This is a surprise to me," said Roger Wolfe Kahn, son of Otto Kahn, as he entered the cabaret to chat with some of the members of his orchestra. He lent a willing hand to Kenneth Whitmer, one of the orchestra players, who was struggling to put the covers on the musical instruments.

The problem of removing the perishable food gave the attendants considerable trouble. Marshal Hecht decided to grant a respite of several hours so that the food, several cats and dogs, the musical instruments and the personal property of the employes and entertainers might be taken away before the cabaret was sealed.

Some Get Brief Respite.

It was also decided that the Moulin Rouge would be the second place closed and word was sent out that the padlocks on the remaining places would be snapped into place this morning.

The managers were notified, however, that their places could not serve dinner nor could they remain open for business as cabarets last night.

In front of the Palais Royal a large crowd watched the departure of the employes. A man in evening clothes, who rushed up to the door and saw the closing notice, remarked:

"And this is where I was to meet her."

His companion rolled up in a taxicab, and they went elsewhere for dinner. Patrons who had paid for table reservations were informed that their money would be refunded this morning at the Montmartre.

The most disconsolate man at the Palais Royal was Mike Farley, the doorman. He had been a Broadway restaurant doorman for thirty-five years, fifteen of them with the Salvins. Now gone was his blue and gold uniform and his broad peaked cap. He stuck to his post to the last, however, not as the resplendent functionary he had been, but as a dethroned potentate in a gray suit and derby. Yet, he said, he had the sorry comfort of knowing that he was only one of 2,500 employes made idle by the court's action.

After padlocking two of the three doors of the cabaret the officials moved around the corner to the Moulin Rouge. By this time the crowd had become so large that traffic was stalled and policemen were sent from the West Forty-seventh Street Station to aid the regular traffic officers in keeping open lanes for pedestrians and vehicles. Camera men snapped the marshal and his deputies and the popping of flashlights caused further congestion, which made the work of the policemen difficult.

Colonel Hayward Issues Statement.

Colonel William Hayward, United States Attorney, in a statement issued yesterday called the decree "a tremendous victory for law enforcement," and pointed out that 225 places which had violated the liquor laws had been padlocked since Jan. 1. Here is his statement:

"For several years those in the know have been aware that, in addition to the saloons running in this city and breaking the law, most of the better-known cabarets in the city have been selling liquor, but only to customers known to them who have been relied upon to keep confidential the breaking of the law in which they participated. Many of these places considered themselves, because of the wealthy class they catered to, as above the law and immune because of influence.

"Following out the policy of this office in its effort to enforce the prohibition law the same as any other law and with equal earnestness, whether it hit big or little bootleggers, or big or little bootlegging boats, we have sought to secure evidence against certain flagrant law violators. We finally secured sufficient evidence to warrant padlock injunctions against the places owned and operated by what is known as the Thompson-Salvin combination.

"I consider this a tremendous victory for law enforcement. It runs our total number of rum joints closed since Jan. 1 under padlocks, being Federal injunctions, to 225. It is an eloquent answer to those counselors of despair who say that the law cannot be enforced.

Work Punishment as Landlords.

"These padlock injunctions do sometimes, and are intended to, work a punishment or penalty on the landlords, but it is up to the landlord to know what his tenants are doing. To force landlords to use their premises for clothing stores, meat markets, candy kitchens, bakeries, shoe stores, dry goods establishments, &c., instead of for saloons and rum selling dives cannot but be of inestimable benefit to the moral and social life of this great city, and we propose to keep on as rapidly as we can secure judges to hear and try these cases.

"The liquor seller is being pushed off the main thoroughfare and into the byways and purlieus of the city, where, with the drug seller, he can alone take refuge.

"Any one who says that the situation in the city is not improving so far as law enforcement is concerned is either blind or perverse and it is my firm opinion, concurred in by all officials who have studied the situation I believe, that but for the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law and the consequent taking away of the valuable machinery of the State the situation would now be as well in hand in regard to liquor as it is with any other class of law violation.

"These cases were prepared for trial in a most effective manner by my assistants, Major John Holley Clark and David Seigel."

Means Big Loss to Owners.

The six Broadway cabarets in the group of nine which were ordered padlocked were among the highest-priced cabarets in the city and catered to a large visiting clientele. Employes remarked last night that the sudden closing up of the restaurants prior to the Democratic convention meant a large loss for the owners and deprived New York's night life of much of the dash and brilliancy which Broadway has always stood for in the minds of visitors.

Whether the space occupied by the cabarets will remain idle for a year is a question that remains with the Federal Court and United States Attorney. It is believed that if the owners of the property give assurance that the places can be rented to commercial concerns they probably will obtain permission to remodel them for such purposes, but not for cabarets or restaurants.

The Thompson-Salvin group, which until his retirement included Paul, father, of Samuel Salvin, owns a string of cabarets in Philadelphia, Chicago and Atlantic City.

Persons "wise" to Broadway's night life were generally able to buy liquor at high prices in the cabarets. In some of the places itemized checks were unknown and diners were asked to pay whatever the checks called for, with a $2 or $2.50 "cover" charge.

Until late last night tradesmen's delivery trucks drove to the Palais Royale and Moulin Rouge and removed some of the perishable foodstuffs to hospitals and institutions, including Bowery missions.

FRENCH LEFT GROUPS ARE BADLY DIVIDED

mier Briand, whose names are uppermost in the talk over the make-up of the new Government, have been in semi-retirement ever since election day. M. Briand has gone fishing in Brittany and Mayor Herriot is rusticating in the region of his home city of Lyons.

Certain of the Deputies, acquainted with the state of mind of the Radical Party's leader, declare positively that M. Herriot is somewhat nonplused by the success of his party and doubtful as to the success of a Radical-Socialist coalition in the Chamber and would be glad to remain away until some one else has been chosen to make the first experiment in coalition government.

Stand of the Socialists.

The Permanent Executive Committee of the Socialist Party met tonight and discussed the political situation, with particular reference to Socialists taking office in the new Cabinet. It finally was decided to call a congress to meet in Paris June 1, at which the whole policy of the party will be taken under consideration. It is understood that the Socialists intend to impose certain conditions.

These conditions are the adoption in the Government program of a proposition for general amnesty of all political and military offenses, repeal of the law authorizing economies by decree, repeal of the law imposing a 20 per cent. increase in all taxes and the introduction of a law providing for a levy on capital, to take the place of direct and indirect taxation; reduction of military service to six months; abolition of courts-martial; recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia; nationalization of the railroads and adherence of France to the theory that Germany and Russia must become members of the League of Nations.

This is regarded as a maximum program from which, after bargaining, nationalization of the railroads and abolition of courts-martial might be dropped. The remainder, including a capital levy and recognition of the Soviets, is regarded as a minimum.

The Radicals are quite ready to accept in principle the reduction of obligatory military service to six months, and their leader, M. Herriot, has not only pronounced in favor of a capital levy, but has introduced a resolution to that effect in the Chamber. His followers, however, are less united on that question than on military service.

Insistence upon such a program, it is said among the more moderate Radicals, would promptly disrupt the party.

The proposed recognition of the Soviets is expected to cause no difficulty. M. Poincaré, it is asserted on the best authority, was gradually moving in that direction. Nationalization of the railroads would elicit much opposition from the moderate Radicals on the ground that none of the State monopolies had ever been as productive as under private enterprise.

The Socialists and Radicals are agreed as to the application of the Dawes reparation plan, and there is likely to be little trouble in reaching an agreement on all foreign questions. Internal politics exclusively will dominate the ministerial situation, as they did the elections.

An extreme difficulty will be the method of raising money which France needs for urgent requirements, such as resumption of reconstruction in the north of France, and the crucial test may be reached even before the Government is formed on the Socialist demand for a capital levy.

Tardieu May Enter Business Here.

André Tardieu, following his defeat for re-election, has decided to retire altogether from public life, and his newspaper, the Echo National, will cease to appear after tomorrow's issue. It has been reported that M. Tardieu would leave shortly for the United States, where he would go into business, but he declared today that he planned to go to Vittel, a small town in Vosges, for the Summer, and that if he went to the United States it would be later in the year.

M. Tardieu's farewell article in the last number of the Echo National is an unsparing indictment of the Parliamentary majority formed by M. Clemenceau, which under his successors, Briand and Poincaré has, according to M. Tardieu, steadily refused to exercise the will to govern.

M. Tardieu recalls that when he founded the paper he declared it was too late, as the habit of sabotaging national and political victories was already formed, and had been continued until, of the guarantees inscribed in the treaty, only those remained which the Clemenceau Government had secured, while all others, punishment of those responsible for the war, disarmament and reparations, had been abandoned or mutilated.

This majority he described as having dragged out a miserable existence, from capitulation to abdication, and declares: "Now it departs after betraying all its promises, leaving France unpaid, Germany free to Arm, and living dearer than ever."

The article contains some final flings at M. Poincaré, of whom M. Tardieu has been one of the severest critics.

Like most legislative bodies the world over, the new French Chamber of Deputies has more lawyers in its membership than men of other occupations. The lawyers number 161. After them come the farmers with fifty-three and the manufacturers with forty-six. There are thirty-one doctors, four priests and three ministers.

CALLS METHODISTS TO CONDEMN WAR

CAMPAIGN FOR PEACE URGED

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 14.—Refusal of the Methodist Episcopal Church to take part in war will be recommended to the Quadrennial General Conference by the Standing Committee on the State of the Church, that committee decided today by a vote of 76 to 37. An amendment to accept wars fought for self-defense or the defense of humanity was tabled by a vote of 59 to 41.

The resolution, which condemned war and urged the United States to conduct a peace campaign of education and enter the World Court and "an association of nations," read as follows:

"The hour has struck for the Church to take positive and practical steps to end war. The peoples of the world are appealing to the Church, as the organized expression of Christ's way of life, to lead the way. Methodism, a world church dedicated to world service, has extraordinary opportunity and obligations in this crisis.

"Facing this challenge and answering this appeal, the Methodist Episcopal Church declares for the right and responsibility of the Church to utter moral judgment concerning the nature of war; for the freedom of the individual member of the Church to follow the dictates of his own conscience whether as an individual he can support or engage in war; for the inauguration of an educational campaign which shall seek to reveal to all our people the nature, causes, and consequences of war and its relation to the Christian ideal of the Kingdom of God; for the removal of the causes of war, such as selfish nationalism, economic imperialism and militarism; and for the establishment of a world law and order by outlawing war; by establishing and codifying international law; by immediately entering the Permanent Court of International Justice, and by securing the participation of the United States in an effective association of nations.

Urges Union of Effort.

"We urge all other Christian bodies to join us in declaring that war violates the spirit and purposes of Jesus. It is a method to attain an end. That end may be righteous or sinful, but the method, by its very nature, is the same in either case. Whatever may be true concerning the past, it is now evident that this method is unable to achieve the moral aims of justice, brotherhood and peace.

"This method roots fundamentally in force, and in no sense guarantees that right will prevail. Consequently, while recognizing the freedom of the individual member to follow his own conscience, but remembering that the Church is the visible expression of the spirit of Jesus in the world, we, as an organization, separate ourselves from war and take no part in its promotion."

The final vote came after three hours of a debate which began at the previous meeting of the committee last Monday. Men whose sons had fought in the war exclaimed with earnest gestures that the Church ought not to refuse support to the Government, and that the resolution, if passed by the General Conference, would make the Church a laughing stock. Other delegates professed themselves pacifists and declared the resolution was not strong enough.

An echo of Nicholas Murray Butler's recent speech on the failure of the dry law was heard in the General Conference today when a telegram from John W. Crabtree of Washington, Secretary of the National Educational Association, was read, saying:

"Nicholas Murray Butler does not represent the ideals of the National Educational Association in attacks on prohibition; is not an accepted spokesman of the association or profession on matters pertaining to the common schools. He recently charged the public schools with the responsibility of the lawlessness of the country, which has greatly angered teachers and school authorities."

Repudiates Dr. Ward's Action.

After one of its most heated discussions the conference adopted a report from the Committee on the State of the Church repudiating any responsibility for the action of the Rev. Dr. Harry F. Ward of Union Theological Seminary, New York City, in the Michigan Communist case. Dr. Ward has been charged with sending out Communist propaganda in his Methodist Social Service Bulletin. He is an official of the Civil Liberties Union and one of the editors of the Bulletin of the Methodist Federation for Social Service in New York.

The report declared that "the General Conference has no jurisdiction in the case in question and states that Harry F. Ward was in this case acting as an official of the Civil Liberties Union, which is in no sense related to the Methodist Church and therefore is not answerable to the Church."

The report was presented by the Rev. Dr. George Elliott, editor of The Methodist Review, who is Chairman of the committee and who stated that 75 of the members voted for the resolution and 17 against it, while 10 did not vote.

The Rev. Dr. John C. Willetts of Michigan opposed the adoption of the report.

"I sat in the court room at the trial of those nineteen men in Berrien County, Michigan, for criminal syndicalism," said Dr. Willetts. "I think this great Methodist Church owes it to itself to reject this report and substitute another. I think I can show that Brother Ward is answerable to the Church for what he did and that the Church ought to take action.

"The whole purpose of this Communist movement was to organise in the United States a Russian movement which was to overthrow our American Government. While I was trying to dedicate a church these men were organising a movement to eat into the heart of America, and to dethrone Christ.

"If Mr. Ward desires to unite himself with that kind of a group let him, but let the General Conference give us a deliverance so that people back in Michigan, where the Methodist Church is now in bad repute because of this thing, will know we as a Church do not stand for that kind of thing."

William W. Van Benschoten of New York pointed out that the Methodist Federation for Social Service was an outside voluntary organization, and was not officially connected with the General Conference.

Seeks Bishop Wilson's Return.

Delegates from the several Conferences composing the New York area met this noon and appointed a committee to appear before the Committee on the Episcopacy and present an additional request that it return Bishop Luther B. Wilson to New York for the next four years, after which he will retire because of age. Memorials from each Conference asking for Bishop Wilson's return were already before the committee.

The Conference adopted a resolution today commending Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania "for his unselfish, untiring and aggressive campaign against the violators of law," and assuring him of full sympathy in his efforts to enforces the Volstead act.

A telegram was read from the Methodist Ministers of Milwaukee, inviting the "Two Methodists" to hold the first session of its General Conference in Milwaukee.

The Conference adopted a report which warmly endorsed the general ideals of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

The Conference requested the Bishop to appoint a committee, two of whom shall be Bishops, to report if possible at this Conference, advising what shall be done in small towns with numerous weak Protestant churches when overtures are made to the Methodist Church to merge with one or more of another denomination.

Young Men And Their Clothes

WE have always made a special study of the clothing requirements of younger men, and a large part of our models this year are youthful in their lines and their coloring.

Young men instinctively respond to these clothes. They know that they are smart, in the true sense of that much mis-used word—that it is a smartness founded upon gentlemanly good taste and irreproachable good form.

Our prices, too, are particularly inviting to the young chap whose clothing purchases must come within well-defined limits of moderation.

PUTS PRIMARY COST UP TO THE STATES

House Committee Says They Must Control Expenses Also in Conventions.

FIXES LIMIT IN ELECTIONS

Law Is Recommended Allowing Senators to Spend Up to $25,000, Representatives $5,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—In a report submitted to the House today by the Committee on Election of the President, Vice President and Representatives in Congress, responsibility for the regulation of expenditures in political primaries and conventions is placed directly with the several States.

The committee recommends the passage of the Cable bill providing punishment for corrupt political practices. The committee expressed the hope that the enactment of the bill, which applies only to elections, would result in the passage of adequate Corrupt Practices laws by the States which have not already passed satisfactory legislation on the subject.

Emphasis is laid on decisions of the Supreme Court holding that Congress is without constitutional authority to regulate primaries and conventions, that power being reserved by the States, and that it deals only with elections in which candidates for the Senate and the House appear.

The States of Illinois, Mississippi, Rhode Island, Tennessee and Arkansas have no Corrupt Practices laws, the report said. In Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Arizona there is no limit to the amount which a candidate may expend, while in New Jersey the limit is as high as $50,000. In Idaho, Iowa, Virginia and Florida the law applies to primaries, but not to elections.

The bill reported by the committee limits expenditures in elections to $10,000 for candidates for Senator and $2,500 for representative, or an amount equal to the amount obtained by multiplying 3 cents by the total number of votes cast at the last general election for all candidates for the office which the candidate seeks, but in no event to exceed $25,000 if a candidate for Senator, or $5,000 if a candidate for Representative. Where State laws prescribe lesser amounts, however, the State laws would prevail.

This plan is advocated, the committee said, because there should be no hard and fast rule limiting campaign expenses to a fixed amount. A candidate for Senator in New York, for instance, should be allowed to spend more than a candidate in a State with a very small population.

Publicity of campaign expenditures also is provided.

The existing law regulating corrupt practices in elections has been enacted in piecemeal fashion, and consists of six separate acts of Congress, passed in 1907, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912 and 1918. These laws, the committee report said, are in part antiquated because of additional amendments to the Constitution, and they are unconstitutional in part, because of the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Newberry case.

"They handicap the honest candidate," the report said, "through certain limitations which were enacted before the number of voters was doubled by the adoption of the Nineteenth Amendment. The law fails to require proper publicity of contributions made between elections, and thus huge contributions, given ofttimes with the hope of reward or favor, are not reported. This bill represents an attempt to make an orderly revision of the existing law, eliminate its uncertainties and unconstitutional portions, and add provisions deemed necessary to cure defects in the present statutes."

MEASURE IN HOUSE AIMS AT PEACE LEAGUE

Representative McLeod Says His Bill Has Particular Reference to Women's Group.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A bill "to curb the activities of organizations and individuals preaching the doctrines of Bolshevism in the United States," was introduced in the House today by Representative McLeod of Michigan. Mr. McLeod said that the bill was aimed primarily at the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which recently held its world congress in Washington and which was criticized by patriotic organizations.

The McLeod bill is identical with one presented in the last Congress by Senator Sterling of South Dakota. It makes it unlawful to advocate or advise the overthrow of the Government of the United States or all Government by force or violence or by physical injury to person or property. Display of a flag or banner intended to symbolize the forceful overthrow of the Government also would come under the terms of the proposed law.

Literature advocating such measures would be barred from the mails and aliens found guilty of violating the law would be subject to deportation.

"The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and similar organizations have made such marked headway in advocating the principles of Trotsky and other officials of the Soviet Government that immediate steps to put an end to their activities in the United States becomes necessary," Mr. McLeod said.

APRIL SHOWS A GAIN IN FRENCH REVENUES

Amount Is 472,683,200 Francs Greater Than That for Corresponding Month of 1923.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 14.—The general budgetary receipts for the month of April were approximately 2,599,707,400 francs, according to statistics published by the Ministry of Finance today. Included in this figure is 1,870,907,000 francs from indirect taxes. The taxes from exceptional resources amount to 203,307,000 francs, including 161,987,000 francs from extraordinary war profits.

This gives for normal permanent receipts a total of 2,196,400,000 francs. Compared with the receipts for the corresponding month of last year this is an increase of 472,683,200 francs. The increase for the first four months of the year over the first four months of last year amounts to 1,679,370,100 francs.

The receipts for these first four months were approximately 8,067,700,000 francs.

U. of Pa. to Teach Landscape Design

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The University of Pennsylvania today announced a new five-year course in landscape design, to begin next September. President Penniman said the course would be a separate department of the School of Fine Arts to correspond with similar ones in architecture, music, sculpture and painting. The head of it will be Professor Robert Wheelwright of New York and Philadelphia, a graduate of Harvard University and a leading landscape architect. Its bachelor's degree in landscape architecture will be open to men and women, it is said. The university is the first institution in the United States to establish such a course as a separate department, and in this regard it was announced is copying [illegible] Academy in Rome.

MACFARLAND URGES OUR DUTIES ABROAD

SAYS WE DESERTED ALLIES

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., May 14.—Declaring that America must resume cooperation with the powers which it left "to clean up the wreckage of the battlefield," the Rev. Dr. Charles S. Macfarland of New York, General Secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, made a plea here today at the celebration by Pennsylvania Huguenots and Walloons of the tercentenary of the landing of their ancestors in New York, for the United States to "accept moral leadership in a disordered world."

The exercises were held in the Washington Memorial Chapel on the Revolutionary camping ground. The Rev. Dr. Macfarland is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Huguenot-Walloon-New Netherland Tercentenary Commission.

"The United States, after doing her part to save the world in 1918, came back and left our comrades on the other side to clear up all the wreckage of the battlefield. We must help them in their hour of need just as they helped us in 1776," said the Rev. Dr. Macfarland.

"There are those who say, unthinkingly, that the political processes by which humanity seeks the unity in freedom which we established for ourselves in 1776, must stop at the boundary of national lines. They forget that even back in those rather shadowy days of 150 years ago we had forecasts of those eternal principles of world unity now struggling for a right and a just conclusion. They forget that the British Army was reinforced by Hessians.

"Those who are inclined to be contemptuous today toward peoples across the sea now stretching forth their hands and asking for our political help, seem to forget that in those early days the American nation sent Benjamin Franklin to Paris on precisely that same errand, and that he returned with Lafayette and Rochambeau. It seems to have escaped their memory that again, in the days of 1861, when the cause seemed in danger of being lost because our internal conflict interfered with other nations whose interests were involved, we sent our political emissaries, very much as Lord Robert Cecil has just come to us, to Great Britain, among them, notably, a man named Henry Ward Beecher, with the open and avowed purpose of propaganda, in a true and lofty sense.

"These historic circumstances are absolutely parallel, both in principle and fact. France and Great Britain today are doing exactly what we did ourselves in '76 and '61.

"Let the American Government say to the nations across the sea: 'We will sit down with you, all of us together, friend and foe, to determine together the just and righteous settlement of all our mutual problems.' The response would be universal and light would break like the morning sun. That is where our nation stands today in the world's esteem and life.

"Today our coast line is marked by two beacons of liberty at each extreme—the rock of the Pilgrims and the Huguenot shaft, restored at Mayport, Fla. In between them, in Battery Park, New York City, within a few days another sign and symbol will be reared in memory of their spiritual brothers, the Walloons.

"It is appropriate that a representative of the churches of America should bring to you this message, for here in America liberty was the gift of religion. American evangelical Christianity came to use from France. This spot has a sacredness that is unique. Here we walk in the footsteps of those who died for the principle of human freedom under the law.

"Let us today dedicate ourselves, let us consecrate our children and our children's children. Let us kneel here before Almighty God, as they did, and dedicate our nation to that same spirit as our nation today faces its momentous responsibilities to all mankind.

"We are privileged to live in the greatest of the four eras. The first great decision, that the human soul should eventually possess its freedom. The second great decision, that there should be a nation living in freedom under law. The third great decision, that it was the moral duty of the people to live in unbroken unity to maintain that freedom under law. The fourth great decision, to accept humbly, reverently, without pharaseeism, with the sense of a human weakness which reaches out for a divine strength, to accept moral leadership in a disordered world in obedience to the call of humanity, that the ideals which were a legacy to us from those whose immortal spirits we can feel today upon this sacred spot, shall become the heritage of all mankind."

Other speakers were Chaplain Georges Laugrus, representing France; Pastor Leonard Hoyois, Belgium, and Dr. John Baer Stoudt, Allentown, director of the commission.

Dr. Stoudt denied the assertions by certain college professors that two prominent Huguenot families of Pennsylvania were of German origin, and not of French stock.

FINDS BLOND WOMEN 'AGELESS' IN CHINA

Explorer Reports Years Don't Count Among Toguns of Kansu, but Hair Does.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Blond Chinese with curly yellow hair and women who keep no account of their ages have been found by an expedition of the National Geographic Society sent into the unmapped Kansu region of Asia.

Reporting to the society's headquarters here, Frederick R. Wulsin, leader of the expedition, told of a trip on the Yellow River on a raft made of seventy-two yak skins. The "Toguns," meaning "earth men," were the most interesting people encountered, he said, and it was among these that the question of age had no importance. He added that the unmarried women wore from twenty to thirty braids of hair.

SAY WE WILL JOIN LEAGUE.

Lady Astor and Dr. Fosdick Express This Conviction.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 14.—A belief that the United States would join the League of Nations was expressed tonight by Lady Astor, M. P., and the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick of New York.

Lady Astor made her statement at the annual conference of the Rotary Associations at Torquay, while Dr. Fosdick asserted his conviction at a meeting of the Colonial Missionary Society.

Lady Astor said she believed the great mass of the American people were beginning to see that the real hope of peace was the League of Nations. Dr. Fosdick said he expected to live to see the day when the United States would be with Great Britain in the League.

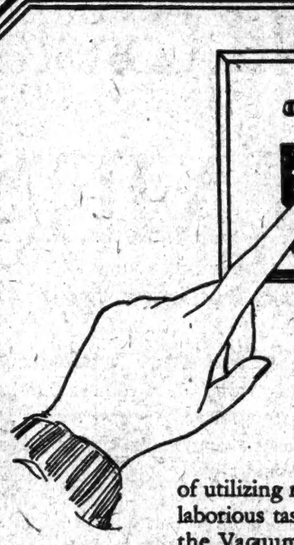
Wire the Home



ELECTRIC SERVICE in the home makes for better and healthier and happier living. It provides not only a bright, clean, flexible lighting service with which almost any desired lighting harmony or decoration may be effected but it also provides a means of utilizing mechanical rather than human energy for the laborious tasks of a household. The Washing Machine, the Vacuum Cleaner, the Electric Iron and the Dish Washer are but a few of the many labor-saving appliances that suggest themselves almost instantly as remedies for some of the exerting and trying manual household problems that present themselves almost every day.

If you are interested to know how inexpensively and easily your property can be wired for electric service, simply write or telephone, and we will be glad to send one of our representatives to tell you. He will also explain our deferred payment plan, should the investment involve a greater immediate expenditure than is convenient.

DECLARES WOMEN FLOUT OLD MORALS

SEES EFFECT ON SOLDIERS

Wayne Wheeler Attacks Proposal to Permit Sale of 2.75 Per Cent. Concoction.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Testimony before the House Judiciary Committee today at hearings on pending bills to legalize 2.75 per cent. beer was momentarily diverted to the question of present-day American morals when Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church South told the committee that he thought there was "more immorality than drinking" among the younger generation.

The Bishop's opinion was given in reply to a question by Representative O'Sullivan, Democrat, of Connecticut, as to whether he did not think there was more drinking among young men and women under prohibition.

"An alarming and inexplicable attitude," the Bishop asserted, "has developed among women toward morals, and things are done now which would not have been tolerated several years ago."

Bishop Cannon declared that the "free moral life of France" had made its impression on American morals, and that the young men who served overseas during the war had been different since their return. From his observation when he was sent to France by the Government, the Bishop said, the "country boys" were confronted with conditions of vice such as they had never seen before.

When asked for his opinion concerning stories of high school boys carrying flasks in their hip pockets, the Bishop said there probably were exceptional cases where boys might do so out of a spirit of adventure.

In response to questions concerning the intoxicating effect of beer, the Bishop said he had been "somewhat out of contact" with beer drinkers "since my college days," but added that some of his classmates "used to get drunk enough" on beer.

Harry S. Warner, General Secretary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, testified that the "students of 1924 certainly are not drinking more than students of past years, and they do not favor modification of the law." Such drinking as is found, he said, "is spectacular, exceptional and gains undue publicity."

A recent petition from the "Bootleggers' Union of America" protesting modification of the Volstead act to permit sale of 2.75 per cent. beer, was assailed by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, as a "sample of the lengths opposition goes to make people believe that prohibition is a failure." He branded the petition as "fake."

Mr. Wheeler told the committee that "there never has been as determined and widespread effort by bootlegging of beer, rum runners, brewers and their allies, to discredit any policy of Government as that used to break down the enforcement of prohibition."

The beer bill, if enacted, he asserted, would mean "multiplied millions" to brewers, whose silence "is golden, especially when others plead their cause."

Beer of 2.75 per cent. is no cure for lawlessness, he declared, and to amend the law to permit the sale of this beverage "will feed the appetite which is the cause of evil." He predicted that the sale of beer "would restore the saloon or its counterpart" and frustrate the purpose of prohibition.

Mr. Wheeler displayed several photographs, which he described as "an architectural rogues' gallery, showing how brewers, since prohibition, were entrenched behind barbed-wire entanglements as high as the top of a two and a half story house, to keep out officers." He declared "no robber castle on the Rhine" was more completely fortified.

"Beer is not too bulky to bootleg," he added, "and behind elaborate barricades the brewery forces attempt to delay officers long enough to destroy the evidence."

The witness asserted that arrests for drunkenness had decreased 500,000 annually in the last four years, compared with the four-year period ended in 1917.

Representative Perlman, Republican, of New York asked if these statistics would hold good if the years 1918 and 1919 were included. The witness admitted that inclusion of those years would make some difference. There probably was a slight let-down in State enforcement immediately after passage of the national law, he asserted, adding, however, that a reaction was beginning.

SENATOR WHEELER IS EXONERATED

proceeding, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation, arrest or other matter or thing in which the United States was a party, or directly or indirectly interested, before any department, court-martial, bureau, officer or any civil, military or naval commission whatever.

"The committee further states that in its opinion Senator Wheeler was careful to have it known and understood from the beginning that his services as an attorney for Gordon Campbell, or his interests, were to be confined exclusively to matters of litigation in the State courts of Montana, and that he observed at all times not only the letter but the spirit of the law."

On the ground that it was instructed only to determine whether Senator Wheeler had received or agreed to receive pay for appearing before Government departments, the committee did not refer to Blair Coan's search for information against the Montana Senator at the instance of the Republican National Committee.

Senator Wheeler, who appeared as happy as a schoolboy, declined to discuss the Borah report, saying he did not think it would be in good taste for him to do so.

"The report," he said, "speaks for itself."

Senator Wheeler expects to leave for Montana in a few weeks and will demand the immediate disposal of his case. There is a well-grounded report here that the indictment probably will be quashed, and that action looking to this end may be initiated by Attorney General Stone.

KEAN OPPOSES EDGE FOR SEAT IN SENATE

ACCUSES RIVAL OF BOSSISM

Latter Welcomes Contest and Says He Will Try to "Dominate a Bit Longer" in Jersey.

Hamilton Fish Kean, a Republican national committeeman, announced his candidacy yesterday for the Republican nomination for Senator from New Jersey, in opposition to Senator Walter E. Edge, who is running for re-election. Mr. Kean is a man of large business interests in New Jersey and is head of the banking firm of Kean, Taylor & Co. in this city.

In his announcement Mr. Kean charged Senator Edge with bossism and with being responsible for the appointment of persons of inferior calibre to important posts.

Senator Edge is wet; Kean is dry. The liquor issue probably will not figure strongly in the campaign, according to State Senator Arthur C. Pierson, Mr. Kean's campaign manager, who said that the issue probably would be Senator Edge's alleged attempt to control the party in New Jersey. Mr. Kean's announcement was as follows:

"There are substantial numbers of voters and party leaders in the Republican Party throughout the State who are not satisfied with their representative in the United States Senate. They resent the attempts to dominate party activities in the State for personal ends and feel that the highest credit has not resulted from appointments made.

"No candidate has offered himself to voice this growing dissatisfaction. It is my feeling that so substantial a group in my party should have a candidate to represent their ideals and principles. I, therefore, announce my candidacy for the United States Senate upon the Republican primary ticket.

"In making this announcement, I desire it to be understood that if nominated and elected, I shall lend my whole-hearted support to President Coolidge and his administration. * * * I shall favor the appointment of men of the highest character for public office, whose sole purpose shall be to serve the people through the office.

"I believe in constitutional government, the enforcement of law and the greatest possible progress consistent with sound economics and administrative safeguards. If elected I shall regard the office as a trust imposed in me by the people of the State to be administered for their welfare."

Mr. Kean is 62 years old. In addition to his interest in the New York banking house, he is listed as a Director of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway, the Federal Trust Company of Newark, the First National Bank of Perth Amboy, the Hackensack Water Company and the West Hudson County Trust Company.

When he was informed at Washington of the announcement by Mr. Kean, Senator Edge said:

"It's remarkable how many willing patriots there are prepared to be martyrs to the call to public service. While anticipating and frankly welcoming Mr. Kean's candidacy, the reasons he assigns for the sacrifice are confusing.

"New Jersey only three weeks ago voted ten to one endorsing President Coolidge, the most emphatic popular approval he has received. If by my votes in the Senate, the only real tests since he has been President, I have misrepresented New Jersey, my perception is mighty bad.

"I can't follow Mr. Kean on his charge of dominating party activities. If my domination helped to bring about the President's wonderful victory, I am delighted. I guess I will try to dominate a bit longer."

Won't Fight Ending Two-thirds Rule

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 14.—If a motion is offered in the Democratic National Convention by George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic leader, for the abolition of the two-thirds rule in the national meeting, it will be unopposed by the McAdoo forces, David Ladd Rockwell, national McAdoo campaign manager, said in a statement here tonight.

on April 15 of the apartment of Mrs. Mildred Ford Monroe, former actress, Mrs. Monroe, who is the wife of a Brooklyn motorcycle policeman, but who doesn't live with him, went to Police Headquarters yesterday with her mother, Mrs. Nellie Ford, and Mrs. Monroe's daughter, Shirley, 7 years old. All identified Jackson as one of the three men who had held them up in the apartment.

In response to a rap on the door that afternoon little Shirley went to the door and was confronted by a man, who thrust his foot in. The child tried to close the door and screamed. Her mother ran forward. As she did so the man stepped in, pistol in hand. Two other men followed, also holding pistols. One of them had a twisted nose and blinked.

"We want the jewelry you were wearing at the cabaret the other night," the leader of the three men announced.

Missed $40,000 in Jewelry.

The menacing attitude of the men convinced Mrs. Monroe she would have to yield something and she said: "You'll find $250 in cash in a cut glass dish in the china closet." One of the robbers took the money. In a china dish next to the cut glass dish lay $6,000 in diamonds. But the searcher did not put his hand in the china dish. Nor did any of the three find any of the $40,000 hidden in vases and elsewhere in the apartment.

They tied pieces of cord around the wrists of the two women and the child and thrust them into a clothes closet in a bedroom. One stood guard at the closed door. The victims yesterday said this one was Jackson.

Detectives compared the cord yesterday with which they had been tied and the cord used on Mrs. Johnson. The strands were alike.

Jackson, who at this time was insisting his name was Behan, had admitted the Alamac incident, but he denied the apartment robbery. He could not explain the similarity of the cord.

Detectives brought in Thomas Kane of Elmhurst, elevator operator at the apartment building at 22 West Seventy-seventh Street in which on Feb. 6 last two men killed Miss Lawson after being taken upstairs as express men. They twisted Miss Lawson's hands behind her back, bound them with silk stockings and tied her ankles with torn towels and stockings. Then they put her on the bed, face downward, to smother. They stole her jewelry, which Miss Lawson had often worn in cabarets.

Elevator Man Uncertain.

Kane confronted Jackson. "I don't think that's one of the men I took up that day," he said. "His nose is the same, but the other man wore tortoise shell glasses." Thereupon, the police put on Jackson a pair of tortoise shell spectacles which had been found in his trunk. Kane brightened when he made the examination again. "I won't say for sure," he announced after a long scrutiny. "You see, this man doesn't blink as hard as the man I took up."

The police said they believed that Jackson was one of two men who, on April 28, held up Herbert Bartlett of 2,169 Broadway, a dealer in silks, hit him on the head with the butt of a pistol, tied him in a rear room of his loft and escaped with ten rolls of silk valued at $700. The cord used on Bartlett was of the same make as that used on Mrs. Johnson and in the robbery of the Ford apartment.

that rock with the flock, who sing as they swing.

Storms beat on their roofs of leaves, but the birds pull down their little windows under soft wings and wait patiently.

All the days are not rainy—yet a rainy day goes on usefully when devoted to shopping. It takes many hours to choose rugs and chairs, and such like, for country or seashore homes.

BELMAISON
Interior Decorations

3,000 Yards

Cretonnes, 60c yd.

Imported—31 Inches Wide

French and English cretonnes which usually sell at $1.50, $2 and $3, especially ordered for Belmaison, arrived just in time to increase the beauty and diminish the expense of your home this Summer.

Among them are demure cross-bars, stripes and flowered patterns; odd Chinoiseries and Egyptian designs; copies of old chintzes and a few cretonens of modern Futurist inspiration.

Did you ever notice that the house which is distinguished by quiet elegance during the Winter often loses its attractiveness in Summer? But, if brightened by trimly tailored slip covers of gay chintzes, hand-blocked linens and flowery cretonnes it will blossom out during hot weather, from its usual staid beauty to the refreshing color and coolness of the indoor garden.

While we almost forget their usefulness in their charm we know, of course, that in the time of open windows the protection of slip covers is really essential to the elaborately upholstered couch or chair.

Slip covers ordered now will be ready for use as soon as they are needed—and there will be a saving of at least two-thirds on these materials.

Misses' Frocks of Printed Silks $25 and $29.50

A Sale presenting our $32.50 to $42.50 grades

The demand for printed silks is now so great in Paris that it is said that the silk mills of France cannot meet it for this season. This is evidence that Paris will wear printed silks this Summer.

That we anticipated the vogue for these smart and refreshing silks is obvious!

As this sale was carefully planned by us, we shall present all sizes from 14 to 20 years in each model, as well as each model in a charming selection of colors. Six of the eight models are illustrated.

Designs of the silks include the always smart polka dot, a lovely multi-colored flower-strewn silk, another with large lace-like motifs, and a decidedly bizarre pattern in ombre shadings. All are very effective—and that's what Fashion demands.

Black-and-white heads the list of colors, which includes white-and-cherry, white-and-red, beige-and-navy blue, white-and-green, beige-and-brown, and navy blue with beige or white.

Coming Tomorrow

A Great BUDGET SALE of Wanamaker Furniture

Open to everybody—whether regular charge accounts or paying cash—and doubly interesting to those who wish to take advantage of the famous Wanamaker Furnish-Out-of-Income Plan.

To gain the benefits of the Home Budget Service and to enjoy as you pay, under the liberal terms of the Wanamaker Furnish-Out-of-Income Plan, you should open your budget account without delay at the Little Home that Budget Built. Why not come in tomorrow before the crowds begin to arrive?

Any event as great as this comes, ordinarily, only at some fixed date, and heralded far in advance with pages full of advertisements.

But this Budget sale is to be a sort of surprise party in honor of the Summer Opening of the Little Home that Budget Built. This is a year for Thrift and Budgets—and we want to make it extra worth while to use the Wanamaker Furnish-Out-of-Income Plan.

Make Budget Arrangements First Then Buy What You Want

Watch the newspapers tonight for the news. Our Thursday evening advertisement will be the first and only announcement before the sale begins. But better still, come in and see for yourself before anybody reads about it.

Before the crowds begin to realize what opportunities are offered, there will be a splendid chance for you to sit down quietly with the Budget Director and plan exactly how to use this great sale to the advantage of your home.

So, we repeat, come in as soon as you can arrange it. And don't fail to watch for the announcement tonight.

JEWS ARRAIGNED BY LOUIS MARSHALL

He Tells Them They Have Tried All Kinds of "Isms" but "Judaism."

SPEECH MARKS FUNDS DRIVE

New Yorkers Scored for Failure to Support the Jewish Publication Society More Generously.

The Jewish Publication Society of America, which has distributed more than 1,500,000 volumes of the best available literature of Jewish interest in English, celebrated its thirty-fifth anniversary last night with a dinner at the Ritz-Carlton. Laboring under a large deficit and desirous of publishing a number of noteworthy contributions to the Jewish literature of this country, including English commentaries on the Bible, the society made an appeal for $250,000.

Louis Marshall, in a plea for the necessary funds, said he never had been able to discover why the Jewish Publication Society had not had more popular support from the Jews of America. It has "literally starved" for the last thirty-five years, he said. At its founding, when the Jewish population in the United States was only 300,000, Mr. Marshall declared, comparatively as much money was subscribed as now, with the Jews numbering approximately 3,500,000.

"The Jews of America have tried all kinds of 'isms' except one, and that should be superlatively important—Judaism," he said. "If they were to have their minds directed toward the interests of such an organization as this is for the continuance and preservation of Judaism, I am sure they would answer our plea. It is wrong to say that because the Jewish Publication Society has its headquarters in Philadelphia it cannot function. Philadelphia Jews are not asleep. It is we in New York who need to be awakened. What has New York done for the society except to give to it the assistance of some of its scholars like Dr. Schulman and Dr. Enelow?

"What have our rich men done, with the exception of Jacob H. Schiff, who gave the money for the publication of an English translation of the Bible? I regard it as a reproach upon us that we have done so little. We try to emulate our Christian friends in directions which I sometimes consider not necessarily desirable. But they have some things deserving of emulation in religion and with respect to religious education which we do not copy."

Mr. Marshall then pointed out what the Christian denominations have done in the dissemination of religious literature. While he said he was not sure of the number, he believed the American Bible Society had circulated more than 30,000,000 copies of the Bible.

"How many Jewish families have in their homes our revised English translation of the Bible?" he asked. "I wouldn't insult this audience by asking those of you who have it to raise your hands. This is a matter of utmost seriousness. We are not going to preserve Judaism in this country by making speeches at dinners or by attending dinners."

Mr. Marshall said he regarded the comparatively small list of subscribers to the society as "subtle irony indicative of the beggarly performance of the Jews of this country in connection with the work of Jewish education. Those whose names are not on this list occupy a role of dishonor in American Jewry."

Rabbi Nathan Krass said that detractions of the Jews interpret the appellation given them, "The People of the Book," as "a people interested exclusively in ledgers and bank-books."

"The modern Jew must restore the pristine meaning of the phrase bestowed upon his ancestors," he said. "The 'People of the Book' must become again thoroughly familiar with the 'Book of the People.'"

"The Jewish Publication Society, had it done nothing else than publish an English translation of the Hebrew Bible, would have justified its existence. It ought to be the aim of all of us who are interested in the society to see to it that a Bible is placed in every Jewish home in the United States and that the old custom of reading the Scriptures in the home be revived."

Rabbi Samuel Schulman, who reviewed the work of the society, said: "We are living in the most critical period of Jewish history, and are facing as never before the world's challenge to the Jewish soul. The task is to settle down in the Western world, with calm rational consecration."

All the speakers eulogized the late Judge Meyer Sulzberger for his ardent labors in behalf of the society. Simon Miller, President of the society, spoke briefly. The Chairman was Ludwig Vogelstein.

REAL ESTATE MEN GIVE.

Raise $60,000 and Pledge More for Jewish Charities.

Real estate men of the city have raised $60,000 for the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies and have pledged themselves to raise an additional $75,000, G. Richard Davis, President of the Real Estate Club of the Federation, announced yesterday.

Among the contributors to the $60,000 fund, raised at a recent dinner given by real estate men to Joseph L. Buttenwieser, President of the Federation, at the Hotel Pennsylvania, were: Frederick Brown, who gave $25,000; Benjamin Beneneon, $5,000; Robert E. Simon, $2,000; Benjamin Mordecai, $2,000; G. Richard Davis, $2,000; Benjamin Winter, $2,500; Julius Tishman and Sons, $2,500; Leo M. Klein, $2,000; Charles Rubinger, $1,000; J. L. Buttenwieser, $3,000; Elias A. Cohen, $1,000; Aaron Coleman, $1,500; Max Schwarz, $1,500; John H. Scheier, $600, and Samuel Raisler, $750.

'BILLY' SUNDAY BETTER, ON WAY TO THE MAYOS

CHICAGO, May 14 (Associated Press).—"Billy" Sunday, who played baseball and became an evangelist in Chicago, arrived here today accompanied by Mrs. Sunday and his physician. He was in much better condition and spirits than he has been for six days, Dr. R. L. Sanders said.

The athlete-evangelist was on his way from Memphis, Tenn., to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., for treatment of a kidney ailment. He showed his accustomed fire.

"We feel as though we belong here," he said. "Met the Lord here thirty-six years ago. I came here in '83 with one dollar in my pocket and my right hand clenched to defend it from the hold-up men I had heard infested Chicago. At 7 A. M. I went to Spalding's store and was disappointed to find it closed. Then with my hair long and wearing a seven-dollar suit, I went over to the baseball park on the lake front and found nine men that could lick any other nine that ever crawled into uniforms."

Mr. Sunday's conversion in Chicago at the old Pacific Garden Mission, which moved a few years ago to other quarters east of the busier downtown district, was brought suddenly to mind when flowers from the mission were placed in his arms.

It was on a Sunday that Billy, idle because baseball was not played on Sunday, sat on the curbstone across from the mission and heard the exhortations. He walked inside and announced his conversion.

Have you ever stopped to realize that respect is absolutely dependent upon independence?

8 out of 10 men at 65 are dependent on charity or on their relatives for support and these men are looked upon as failures because they failed financially. Regardless of their other characteristics they cannot command respect

Investment now in safe bonds will guarantee that certain independence which brings a man prominence among his own friends and respect in his community.

The surprising part is the rapidity with which your capital grows, once started. For instance, did you know that $100 a month placed in 6½% First Mortgage Bonds under the Columbia Plan will, with interest reinvested, pay itself back to you in eleven years at the rate of $1200 a year—forever. And your principal will be $19,000.

Three times a day you make your choice

For Illness, Depression, Failure—choose the wrong kind of food.

For Health, Happiness, Efficiency—choose the right kind of food.

Rich and poor alike are the victims of malnutrition.

For malnutrition does not mean lack of food: more often than not it means too much food—and food of the wrong kind—food that not only fails to nourish but that may even form poisons.

Upon the carbohydrates (a great part of which comes from the grains) we depend for our power for mental and physical work. At least one-third of our nourishment should come from them.

Yet in order that the body may be able to extract from them the nourishment it needs, they must undergo a special kind of preparation—so that they will not fail in their mission to provide the body with power, and begin, instead, to manufacture actual poisons.

In this delicious food is nourishment you need in the form your body can digest

MORE than three-fourths of the content of Grape-Nuts (made of wheat and malted barley) are these precious carbohydrates, and—what is of supreme importance—in the form which your body most easily and completely turns into nourishment.

In Grape-Nuts the carbohydrates have been dextrinized—scientifically broken down into the form most suitable to the needs of your digestive organs. The carbohydrates are at once thoroughly digested and absorbed into strength and vitality.

Grape-Nuts gives you nourishment without forming injurious acids—dangerous poisons. No matter how much you have abused your body with difficult foods, you can digest Grape-Nuts quickly and easily.

Grape-Nuts has, too, this added value to your health: it comes in crisp, golden grains you must chew. This chewing keeps your whole mouth healthy. And it starts digestive processes in the mouth—the first step to sound digestion.

Served with milk or cream in the morning, a bowlful of Grape-Nuts gives you just the nourishment your body needs. Eat it every day and see what a difference it makes in the way you feel. See how much more healthy and mentally and physically alive you are.

All grocers have Grape-Nuts. All hotels and restaurants serve it in individual packages of a single portion. The Postum Cereal Company, Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.

Served with cream or rich milk Grape-Nuts gives you in most delicious form the essentials of a well-balanced ration.

Tru-pe-dic SHOE

MEN!

Here's an established fact!

SCIENCE has positively proved that all normal feet are one of three distinctly different types—INFLARE, STRAIGHT and OUTFLARE, as illustrated.

INFLARE STRAIGHT OUTFLARE

IT IS obvious therefore that if you are not wearing a shoe which conforms to your particular type of foot—you are not getting the maximum of comfort and service.

Tru-pe-dic shoes for both Men and Women are made in the three types corresponding to the three types of normal feet—the only shoe in the world made on this principle. (Men's Tru-pe-dic Oxford Model illustrated.)

By simply trying on all three types in your own size you will instantly know the right one by the way it fits, feels and looks. You will find Tru-pe-dics wonderfully comfortable and, as their style never changes, you can always be sure of the same comfortable fit.

Any of the stores listed below will be glad to give you a fitting.

ANTON LANG SAILS WITH PARTY TODAY

Big Committee Will Bid Good-bye to Principals in the Passion Play.

GO ON THE ALBERT BALLIN

Anton Lang of the Passion Play, accompanied by Mrs. Lang and several other principals in the Oberammergau organization, will leave for home today on the steamship Albert Ballin of the Hamburg American Line, which sails at noon from the foot of West Forty-sixth Street.

Andreas Lang, Guido Mayr and Ferdinand Hochenleitter are included in the party of players who have made a tour of the United States, exhibiting their works of art in ten of the largest cities. A delegation from the Oberammergau reception committee of 120 citizens, headed by George Gordon Battle, will be at the pier to wish the party a happy voyage.

Diplomats sailing on the liner include Oscar Arnoldson, Consul General of Sweden at Havana; Captain J. B. Cochrane of the British Diplomatic Service, Professor Dr. Lazar Edeleanau, Paul Grosser, German Consul for Colombia; Max Projahn, German Consul at Tampico, Mexico; W. Hepp, former German Consul at San Jose, Costa Rica, and family.

Princess Santa Borghese of Italy, who has been in the United States for more than a year lecturing on sociological questions in many of the leading colleges, will sail today on the steamship Giuseppe Verdi of the Transatlantica Italiana line, for Palermo, Naples and Genoa. James J. Brown, Commissioner of the Department of Sewers of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Brown, also are booked as passengers.

The Finland of the Panama Pacific Line, sailing today for Havana, Los Angeles and San Francisco, has on its passenger list former Policeman Charles M. (Mile-a-Minute) Murphy, who won that title more than a quarter of a century ago when he rode a bicycle behind a Long Island railroad train at the rate of 57 4-5 second a mile. He is accompanied by Mrs. Murphy. They are going to Los Angeles to make their home. The majority of the passengers are New Yorkers.

Felix Schwormstadt, German artist, who has been in New York for two weeks making paintings of points of interest, will leave for Berlin on the North German Lloyd Line steamship Stuttgart, which sails at noon for Cherbourg, Plymouth and Bremen. The Stuttgart was the first German passenger ship to call at Cherbourg since the beginning of hostilities in 1914.

PADEREWSKI OFF FOR PARIS.

Replies "Never-Always" When Asked if He'll Re-enter Politics.

Ignace Jan Paderewski, who gave up music during a long interval in which he was more deeply interested in serving his country as Premier and otherwise, sailed yesterday in the French liner Paris, accompanied by Mme. Paderewski. They will go first to Paris, where the pianist will give a series of concerts, and then to Brussels.

Asked if he intended to re-enter Polish politics, Paderewski replied:

"The only answer I have to such questions is two words: 'Never-always.'"

The death of his pet dog, to which Paderewski hurried by train in the hope of saving its life, was referred to by a reporter. Mme. Paderewski had this to say:

"No, we will never have another dog. Please do not mention this again."

A marble bust of her husband was presented to Mme. Paderewski by a group of Polish admirers. It was the work of Yan Macieod. Alexander Brachocki made the speech.

Others on the Paris included Mrs. Molla Mallory, tennis player, who said Susanne Lenglen was the greatest woman tennis player in the world.

Giulio Gatti-Casazza, General Manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, declined to be photographed.

"I am not a tenor," he explained.

The Paris carried 400 saloon, 355 cabin and 38 third-class passengers.

The Cunarder Berengaria, which was scheduled to sail at 1 A. M. yesterday for Cherbourg and Southampton, was forced to wait for high water until 5 o'clock. Most of the 975 passengers had boarded the ship before midnight. There was one honeymoon couple on board—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hammerstein. The bride was Miss Dorothy Dalton, moving picture actress.

Another passenger was Miss Helen Wills, woman tennis champion of the United States, who will try to wrest from Mlle. Lenglen the international championship.

BERGDOLL NEGLECTS MAIL.

Letters Pile Up at Eberbach, but No Word Comes From Draft Evader.

EBERBACH, Baden, May 14.—Many letters and telegrams continue to arrive for Grover C. Bergdoll, the American draft evader, who has been absent from Eberbach since April 6.

As no word has been heard from him, relatives say they haven't the slightest idea of his whereabouts, Bergdoll having given no intimation of his intentions before starting on his automobile trip. He was accompanied by his chauffeur Stecher and another man.

Bergdoll took some baggage with him, but his intimates are inclined to doubt reports that he has started for America, and assert it is more likely that he is enjoying himself somewhere in Switzerland or Italy.

Some of them, however, say they would not be surprised if Bergdoll turned up at some port in the United States one of these days, as it is known he has been negotiating for the sale of his automobile, which he has been using for the past three years.

Bronx Lawyer Gets Prison Term.

With five indictments charging him with the theft of more than $190,000 facing him, Max Winder of 800 East 179th Street, a Bronx lawyer, was sentenced to from three and a half to eight years in Sing Sing by Judge Louis D. Gibbs in the Bronx County Court yesterday. Winder pleaded guilty several weeks ago to one of the indictments returned against him in Bronx County for the larceny of $14,700 from Benjamin Rosen, of 910 East 178th Street, a tailor, who turned over to him the savings of twenty years.

CITY BREVITIES.

To commemorate the tearing down of the obsolete elevated spur in Forty-second Street between Grand Central Station and Third Avenue, the Forty-second Street Property Owners and Merchants' Association, Inc., and the Fifth Avenue Association will join in a celebration next Thursday. There will be a parade, followed by a luncheon in the grand ballroom of the Commodore.

The Sun Alumni Association, composed of men who served under Charles A. Dana, will have their twentieth annual dinner reunion at the Advertising Club, 23 Park Avenue, next Monday evening. Among those who will attend are Chester S. Lord, C. J. Fitzgerald, Arthur Brisbane, Martin Egan, Charles R. Sherlock, George F. Lyon and Dr. Thomas Darlington.

Members of the Red Cross Ambulance and Motor Corps of the Atlantic Division will hold a reunion on June 4 at Briarcliff Lodge, Briarcliff Manor, in the form of a field day of golf, tennis and water sports. Commandar Dorothy C. Smyly will be present.

The corner construction of The Ace spring is unbreakable. Will last a lifetime. Stout steel angles are double riveted together.

Why pay more for less value, when The Simmons ACE Spring gives lasting comfort at lower cost?

You want a bed spring that is comfortable. The Ace is the most luxurious open-box spring built. It has 142 extra coils—tying the centers of its deep spirals together.

No other spring except The Ace uses these sensitive, elastic coils—an exclusive Simmons feature that gives the user so much extra comfort. All other open-box springs use stiff slats or inelastic wires for their center cross-ties.

The best of other bed springs use coil springs to tie the tops of the main spirals together. But The Ace uses these coils at tops and centers both. That is one way you can tell The Ace spring on sight.

The Ace spring alone has patented stabilizers to keep it free from "side-sway" or sag. This device acts like the shock absorber on a motor car. Look for it also; one on each side of The Ace frame.

Compare the spring you use now with the splendid comfort only The Ace can provide. Then learn how little it costs to own the best coil spring built—made by the world's largest bedding manufacturer. Your furniture store can show you The Ace. Why not see it soon?

ADIRONDACK TOUR FOR DEMOCRATS

Convention Subcommittee Will Hurry Invitations to Delegates for a Visit.

CONDITIONS ARE AUSPICIOUS

Mountain Roads Reported in Fine Shape—Hotels Promise Not to Raise Their Rates.

Plans were formulated yesterday to make the scenic beauty of the Adirondacks nationally known through the out-of-town delegates to the Democratic National Convention. To them will soon be extended a cordial invitation by the Adirondack Outing Committee of the convention to make a tour through the up-State mountains as part of the post-convention entertainment.

Leaders of the movement discussed the proposition yesterday at a luncheon at the Lawyers' Club. Letters will be sent the delegates urging the desirability of visiting the Adirondacks, and automobile road maps will be provided for their use. The assurance that the roads are good and their protection by the State police adequate and the promise that the hotels will maintain their regular rates or, in some cases, even lower them, was made. Herbert C. Pell, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee; Elizabeth Marbury, member of the Democratic National Committee, and John McCooey, Kings County Democratic leader, were among the speakers. While the majority of guests were Democrats, the committee is non-partisan.

"You have a splendid opportunity to get a group of people which probably has more power over public opinion than any other group of similar size to find out what New York really is and what it has to offer," Mr. Pell said.

"Let them see just what the State is and how beautiful are its natural resources, especially in the Adirondacks, and most of the dislike for us will vanish. It is to accomplish this result that I, as a citizen of New York, am taking so keen an interest in this undertaking."

Miss Marbury said she never misses her Summer trip to the Adirondacks, and disclosed the fact that she doesn't "believe much in doctors." She derives great benefit from the Adirondack air, she said.

Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, State Superintendent of Public Works, assured the committee that the roads are in better shape than ever. His whole department, he said, will do all in its power to make the visit of the delegates pleasant.

Chester D. Pugsley of Peekskill, Chairman of the committee, presided. Headquarters will be established at the Waldorf during the convention.

ESCAPE OF A CONVICT MAKES SHERIFF RESIGN

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., May 14.—The second break in Ontario County's official ranks as the result of the escape from the Canandaigua jail on May 4 of Howard Keavin, Pennsylvania convict and alleged slayer of Patrolman Aeneas McDonald of Geneva, came today with the resignation of Sheriff George E. Clohecy. He has spent twelve years in the county service, and announced that his resignation had been forwarded to Governor Smith last night to take effect immediately.

Deputy Sheriff Charles A. Smith, who was alone in charge of the jail when Keavin escaped, resigned last Monday after his arrest under a Grand Jury indictment charging neglect of duty. Keavin was aided in his break for liberty by his wife, a jail visitor. Smith, it was said, had been instructed not to allow Keavin to receive visitors without the presence of a second guard.

Keavin, identified as an escaped convict from Eastern Penitentiary, Pennsylvania, and scheduled to go on trial May 19 for the murder of the Geneva patrolman, dashed from the jail while his wife held Deputy Smith at bay with two revolvers. The couple escaped in a waiting automobile and were believed to have entered Pennsylvania. Keavin's sister, who had accompanied Mrs. Keavin to the jail, was left behind. Subsequently she was exonerated by the Grand Jury.

Sheriff Clohecy was elected three years ago. Previously he had held the offices of under-Sheriff and Deputy. He has issued this statement:

"While the Grand Jury, to which I immediately made request for an investigation, absolved me from criminal responsibility, and while I have absolute assurance that I have not forfeited the respect and confidence of those informed of the circumstances, I feel that I can no longer perform the duties of Sheriff with unhampered efficiency, or with full satisfaction to myself or the public."

FEWER APRIL AUTO DEATHS.

"Jay Walking" Chief Cause of Accidents, Says Barron G. Collier.

Barron G. Collier, Special Deputy Police Commissioner in charge of the Bureau of Safety, announced yesterday that there had been a noticeable falling off in the number of automobile accidents in April compared with April of last year. He gave the figures as 98 killed and 2,600 injured in Apri, 1923, and 60 killed and 2,161 injured last month.

Twenty-five of those killed were "jay-walking," Mr. Collier said; 12 were run down at street crossings, 8 boys were killed while at play in the street, and the remainder were killed in collisions, by running off sidewalks in front of vehicles, careless walking in roadways and riding on bicycles and on other motor vehicles.

"Jay walking, as usual, was the principal cause of deaths," he said. "More than 40 per cent. of the fatalities were due to this careless practice. And appalling as is this figure, it is below the average. Month in and month out figures prove that almost half the deaths and accidents in New York are caused by jay walking. It is our most dangerous habit and every effort is being made by the Safety Bureau to discourage it."

INDIAN CHESSMEN SHOWN.

Remarkable Set, a Gift to Louis XIV., to Be Sold.

Included in a collection of furniture, early American glass and china, Currier & Ives and old French coaching prints and miscellaneous objects to be offered for sale this afternoon at the Walpole Galleries is a remarkable set of carved and painted Indian chessmen, with a marvelously inlaid ivory and mosaic chessboard, presented in 1680 to Louis XIV. of France by the Ambassador from Siam, as the inscription shows.

The kings and queens ride on canopied elephants; the knights are paired on camels and horseback and the pawns carry drums, banners and the insignia of royalty, and there are golden cannon and other trappings of war. The colors are red and black and red and green, heightened with gold, and the expressions on the carved faces are remarkable. The inscription on this set reads: "Offert en 1680 à Louis XIV., par l'Ambassade Siamoise. Voir S. S—Quicite ce jeu d'echecs representant un combat entre Indien-Anglais."

DR. GUTHERIE'S BROTHER AGAINST CHURCH DANCE

YONKERS, N. Y., May 14.—The Rev. Kenneth S. Guthrie, rector of All Saints Free Church and a brother of the Rev. William Norman Guthrie, rector of St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie, New York, has written a pageant which will be produced May 27 to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of his church, which is said to be the third oldest church in the vicinity of New York. The pageant, which is called "The Dawn of Liberty," depicts history from ancient roman days to modern times.

"Although I favor religious pageants and object-lesson plays, I do not approve of dancing in the house of God," said the Rev. Kenneth Guthrie. "I am in favor of religious pageants as a means of instruction and entertainment, but there is no need for dancing at church services. There is nothing in bare legs, bare knees and bare hips except notoriety. I think my brother ought not to defy Bishop Manning by permitting such dances."

MARTYRS FOR 23 YEARS TO WELFARE OF SON

Bridgeport Couple Released From Marital Woes on Ground of Wife's Desertion.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 14.—After living together, though unhappily, for twenty-three years, because of the "moral obligation" they felt was due their son, now a student at Columbia University, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Abercrombie separated, according to the story told Judge Banks in the Superior Court here yesterday by Mr. Abercrombie in the trial of his petition for divorce, which was granted. The petition was uncontested. Desertion was alleged by Mr. Abercrombie, who said his wife left him in 1920.

They were married in New York City in 1897 and lived in Stratford, near here, for most of their long period of domestic infelicity, Mr. Abercrombie said. He ascribed their difficulties to interference by his mother-in-law. He is President and Treasurer of the Bridgeport Sign and Awning Company of this city.

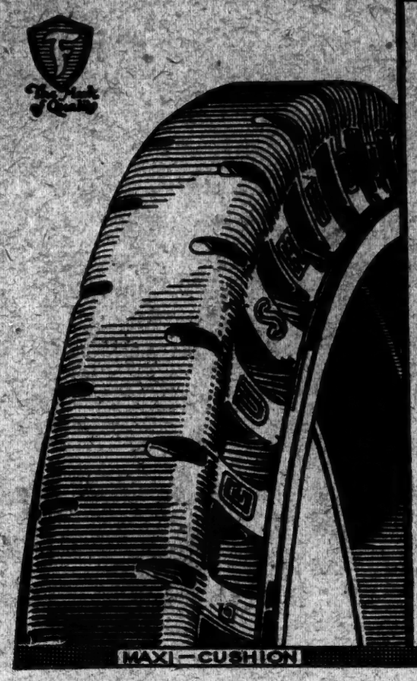
AMERICA SHOULD PRODUCE ITS OWN RUBBER—H. F. Firestone



Our Service Plus This Tire Saves You Money

OUR customers assure us that our expert, speedy, efficient and economical service saves them money. It will do the same for you. One of the specialized types of Firestone Truck Tires we frequently recommend for light, speedy trucking or for front wheels on heavier trucks, is the Maxi-Cushion. The Maxi-Cushion gives more mileage than the pneumatic, more cushion than the regular solid. Depression pockets permit the rubber to deflect freely under pressure of the load, while solid internal construction eliminates weakness in side-walls and base—sure mileage with unusual cushioning qualities.

We can give you Cushion—Traction—Mileage, whatever is demanded by your own trucking problem, for we have a Firestone tire for every road, load and condition of service. As truck tire experts, we know what to recommend. Consult us for authoritative truck tire information.

What Our Foreign-Language Newspapers Think of IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION

Indignation, Bitterness, Resentment, Approval, Mark the Utterances of These Spokesmen for the Foreign-Born on the New Immigration Policy of America

No legislation before Congress has aroused more criticism, pro and con, than the Johnson Immigration Bill, the outstanding feature of which cuts the number of immigrants to be admitted to American shores to less than half of the present quota. To obtain the views of those most directly concerned: i. e., the nationalities affected, THE LITERARY DIGEST canvassed the editors of foreign-language newspapers in the United States for their views. As an illustration of the scope of the inquiry, THE DIGEST, this week, presents translated opinions from the following twenty-one languages:

Albanian	Bohemian	French	Hungarian	Lithuanian	Russian	Ukrainian
Armenian	Dutch	German	Italian	Norwegian	Spanish	Welsh
Belgian	Finnish	Greek	Jugo-Slav	Polish	Swedish	Yiddish

This is the first time that such an opportunity has been offered to the foreign-language press of the United States to put their opinions on immigration legislation, and immigration conditions, to the whole audience of the American nation. This survey makes intensely interesting reading, and will prove highly instructive to American readers. Among other outstanding news-features in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, May 17th, are:

THE NATIONAL WEEKLY PUBLISHED BY THE OWNERS OF THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, FOR WHICH OVER ONE MILLION PEOPLE SUGGESTED NAMES IN THE $25,000 PRIZE CONTEST

A New Force In American Business

The story of this new 5c national weekly begins in the forests of northeast Canada, acquired to control the source of wood pulp.

It comes down the rushing rapids to ocean-going vessels specially built and owned.

Thence the story leads to mammoth mills where trees are turned into paper, to ink factories, to batteries of most modern presses, to improved color printing processes and amazing facilities for volume production at a new speed—each step owned, controlled and focused at the one ultimate purpose.

Those are the physical or manufacturing chapters—

Next the story includes an international organization of news-photographers from Japan to Cairo; from Siberia to Washington, anticipating and recording with cameras the news events.

Around the world are expert reporters, famous authors and artists, each playing a definite role in this story, which extends back to before the Civil War and comes down through seventy-five years of experience publishing The Chicago Tribune.

The story is incomplete without embracing the comprehensive and highly trained organization for business analysis and research work; and, the most efficient and effective nation-wide circulation methods.

The most recent chapter in this story is the spectacular success of The New York News.

Briefly sketched, the foregoing outlines the scope, experience and resources behind this new weekly; why it is the logical and crowning achievement of a vast publishing organization; why it instantly becomes a leading, dominant factor in the nation's home and business life. Its acceptance by the public is assured with almost mathematical accuracy.

Many of America's leaders in business have been quick to appreciate the importance and power of this new publication as a controlling force in the nation's business activities.

They want their advertising messages in it.

For this weekly is built on the belief that the right kind of advertisements are as essential to the welfare of American homes as they are to the success of American business.

The public enjoys this weekly because of its fine advertisements as well as its fine editorial content.

Jobbers and dealers buy this weekly because it is their current index of what people want, and a guide to what can be sold most profitably.

This trade influence is largely due to the new and improved make-up.

Advertisements are not considered a "necessary evil" but are included as an integral part entitled to share the public's interest with the editorial content.

To sell people you must reach them. It is the family as a unit that influences America's purchases. Therefore, this weekly is edited not only to reach the desired homes but to reach every member of the family.

In short, this publication is created on the principle that its obligation to readers and advertisers is identical. The Coloroto Corporation. Advertising Offices: Tribune Square, Chicago; Park Lexington Bldg., New York; Haas Bldg., Los Angeles.

RUTH DAY WRECKED BY BROWNS, 11 TO 1

BABE RECEIVES DIPLOMA

SISLER IS STAR OF DAY

With Williams He Leads Attack on Hoyt and Pipgras While Shocker Holds the Champions.

Calmly ignoring the fact that the day had been specially set aside for the glorification of Babe Ruth and the Yankees, the St. Louis Browns broke abruptly into the little party at the Stadium yesterday and behaved in a disgraceful manner. When the celebration was over the guests of honor were lying around badly mangled, and the unbidden invaders were walking away with the spoils. To put the matter brutally but succinctly, the score was 11 to 1—nothing more, nothing less.

The whole affair had something ghastly about it. The party started with hearts light and dispositions happy. Some 25,000 fans had gathered at the appointed spot, and everybody was carefree and jovial. Kenesaw Mountain Landis beamed at Babe Ruth, and the Babe beamed right back at him. The Yanks raised their world's championship flag to a favoring breeze. Bands played, the sun was bright and warm, and the friends, relatives and neighbors of the Yanks looked on admiringly.

It was on this happy scene that tragedy stalked in the form of the St. Louis Browns. Up to that moment nobody had paid much attention to the Browns, except to George Sisler. After the first inning it was impossible to ignore them. They leaped into. Waite Hoyt for one run in the third and leaped again for five runs in the fifth. When George Pipgras was offered up for sacrifice in the sixth, the Browns shoved no mercy and collected five more tallies, making their grand total eleven. Since the Yanks at that moment had exactly no runs, the silence in the ball yard was clammy and deathlike.

Two parades were staged during the afternoon. The first was a joyous procession of athletes, musicians and sailors out to the flag pole. The second was a procession of the Browns around the base line, unaided either by musicians or sailors.

While the Browns were about their ghoulish practices Urban Shocker, the Yankee jinx of other years, was literally toying with the home batters. He tied them up in knots and then took them apart to see what made them tick. For five frames the celebrants didn't get a hit. For eight frames they didn't get a run, and the one they did accrue in the ninth made a loud a detonation as a feather falling into the ocean.

Parade a Thrilling Spectacle.

However, hastening over the tragic details of the contest itself, the pregame ceremonies were in entire keeping with the occasion. Adding a nautical or marine touch to the proceedings, the Yanks had the band and a detachment of sailors and marines present from the U. S. S. West Virginia. When the parade to the flag pole formed the band was in front with its comforting closing up the rear file, and it was the most picturesque procession ever seen in a New York ball park. The blue uniforms of the service men, slashed with streaks of white from their hats, made a color scheme that the crowd appreciated, and the detachment marched with the clean and smart precision of the midshipmen at an Army-Navy football game.

Out at the flag pole the marchers, who took seven minutes to pass a given point, found Colonel Jacob Ruppert and Commissioner Landis waiting. Without further ado Miller Huggins and George Sisler manned the ropes and pulled the American flag to the top of the staff, while the band played the national anthem and the sailors and marines stood at rigid attention. Following this the two managers hoisted the Yanks' world's championship bunting to the breeze. Incidentally, it is one of the handsomest flags seen hereabout in many years—and quite a few have been seen.

Then the Commissioner and the Colonel, marching spryly, led the parade back to the plate, where Ruth was handed his "most valuable player" diploma, embossed, signed and framed. While J. E. Sanborn, Chairman of the baseball writers' jury which made the award, was presenting the Babe with the parchment, the camera men worked furiously and Ruth blushed almost as fast as the shutters clicked. When somebody in the wildly cheering crowd yelled "Speech!" the most valuable player in the league ran panic-stricken to the dugout.

Ban Johnson Absent.

Ban Johnson, President of the American League, was expected at the party, but at the last minute he notified the Yankee management that an infected foot would prevent his being present. Ban still has a clean record. He is yet to attend an opening day or other celebration where Commissioner Landis was sure to be on hand.

So he missed the greatest celebration that the American League had ever staged in New York. He wasn't present to see a twenty-year-old dream realized—the sight of a world's pennant streaming from the flagstaff of the Yankees' own park. And, more's the pity, there were thousands of other Yankee partisans whom cloudy weather kept away from the festive occasion. But all the regulars were there.

Diplomas were no good in this game. Ruth had one and couldn't hit more than an infield single. If all the Yanks had been equipped with sheepskins they couldn't have overturned Mr. Shocker. What was needed were bats with a sting in them.

Sisler got a tremendous reception when he first came to bat—a tribute as much to his gameness as to his popularity. But he didn't respond until the third inning, when, with two out, he pounded a double to left and scored on Ken Williams's single to right. Incidentally, it wasn't the "Sizzler's" last hit. He collected a single in the fifth and another two-bagger in the eighth, besides making a miraculous juggling stop and throw in the ninth. If this fellow has bad eyes and Ruth has bronchitis, where do the able-bodied athletes get off?

The third-inning run was the opening wedge for later disaster. Hoyt ran smack into trouble in the fifth. He walked Shocker, and Tobin and Robertson bunted safely down third base way, throwing the whole infield into confusion. When Sisler dropped a short single in centre and Witt fumbled, both Shocker and Tobin scored. Williams and McManus cracked hits to centre, the reliable Dugan let a grounder hop under his glove and the Browns had four runs in and runners on third and second. On Severeid's fly to Meusel McManus scored, the Yanks kicking furiously at Billy Evans's plate decision.

Pipgras Follows Hoyt.

Hoyt was retired without a diploma or a "magna cum laude" or anything else at the finish of the sorrowful round, and young Pipgras came on to demonstrate that one pitcher can sometimes be as bad as another. The Browns greeted him with glad cries. Shocker walked again, so did Tobin, and then Robertson broke off a double to right, scoring Shocker. After Sisler's foul pop Williams doubled to right and stole third. McManus smote a triple to left, languid Meusel refusing to go far enough back. On Jacobson's out McManus rushed in from third. Strong men cried like babes when Severeid singled to left; but happily the end was in sight, the bold runner being slain trying to take two bags on a wild pitch.

Strangely enough, the first hit off Shocker was chipped in by Pipgras, not heretofore known as a slugger. It came in the sixth, but did no good at all, nor did three successive singles by Witt, Dugan and Ruth in the eighth with two out. With the bases full, Shocker made Meusel ground out innocuously.

To start the ninth Pipp and Ward hit singles, and an indomitable soul in the grand stand tried to start the cheering section to clapping. While Scott was forcing Ward, Sisler making a one-hand stop, a juggle and then a push throw to second, Pipp slipped in with the Yanks' grandly solitary run. Four seven hits not effectively bunched that was all that could be expected.

QUINN BLANKS WHITE SOX.

BOSTON, May 14.—The Boston Red Sox scored a 12 to 0 victory over the Chicago White Sox today in a high wind. Quinn was hit safely only four times.

Caught at the Plate

Williams observed Ruth Day by carving out three singles and a double in four times at bat. Robertson, Sisler and Severeid celebrated with three hits apiece, and the Browns blew themselves to sixteen safeties.

In fact, everybody celebrated except the Yanks.

Before the game none other than "Aunty J. Walker" herself came on the field and received an autographed baseball and bat from Ruth, to be given to the schoolboy writing the best essay on the Safety Day Parade next Saturday.

Somebody ought to designate a Safety Day for Messrs. Hoyt and Pipgras.

Baker's diploma, attesting to his selection as the most valuable player in the American League during 1922, will be presented to him on June 7, the date of the Yanks' first appearance in St. Louis.

The color scheme of the championship emblem is white field and blue border, with the "Yankees' Worlds' Champions 1923" in red letters. Simple but tasty.

Something unusual for them, the Yanks made four errors, but it was bad pitching, not weak fielding, that hurt the most.

Williams stole third standing up in the sixth because young Pipgras was too green to keep him tied to second, but in the eighth George was two innings older and much wiser, and he trapped the Brownie between the bases on the same play.

GIANTS BEAT CUBS, END LOSING STREAK

Come From Behind to Tie Count in Eighth and Win in Ninth by Score of 6 to 4.

KELLY LEADS THE ATTACK

Drives In Four Runs, and Young Also Helps—McQuillan Makes Debut—Hollocher Hits Homer.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Roused to a high pitch with a fifth consecutive defeat confronting them, the Giants fell upon the Cubs in the last two innings of today's game and battered them down by a score of 6 to 4. Going into the eighth inning, the Giants were trailing and seemed headed for another fall, but in this inning they tied the score and in the ninth they won the game.

This game brought Hughie McQuillan, making his first start of the season, into conflict with Toney Kaufmann on the mound. The pair were about as evenly matched as the score indicates, Kaufmann showing to advantage in the early inning the Giants were trailing and away from him toward the finish.

Charlie Hollocher, who made his first appearance of the year in a Cub uniform, got three of the nine hits allowed by McQuillan, hitting for the circuit the first time he appeared at bat. Eleven hits were made by the Giants, George Kelly and Ross Young placing their hits to best advantage. Kelly drove in four of the Giants' six runs with a double and two singles, and Young, leading off after another shift in the batting order, was able to convert all his hits, which included a triple, into runs.

The attack which won the game for the Giants was started by Bill Terry after Groh had been retired to begin the ninth inning. Terry, having gone hitless in eight previous trips to the plate in place of somebody else, batted for Snyder this time. He made the fans gasp by hitting what probably was the longest foul ever driven out of the Cubs' park, the ball sailing far over the right field barrier just a few feet outside the line. He followed this by hammering a single to centre. McQuillan sent him to second with a sacrifice and the Kelly with the winning run when Young smote the ball to right field for three bases.

Frisch Follows With a Single.

By way of making the victory secure, Frisch singled to right centre and Young loped home. Further scoring was in sight when Southworth walked, but Meusel's smash was smothered by Kaufmann, who threw him out. These two runs, however, proved sufficient, for the Cubs expired as rapidly as they scored McQuillan in their half of the inning.

The Cubs' first run, which was made in the first inning, was Hollocher's drive for four bases. The ball, driven down the right field foul line, seemed good for only two bases, but near the end of the grand stand it shot through a hole in the grating for a technical home run.

Grigsby, in left field for the Cubs, was a busy young man in the fourth inning, when the Giants scored six run. Young, who led off, got the first hit off Kaufmann when his grounder took a bad hop for Grantham. Frisch's line drive was snared by Hollocher in a splendid catch, and after Southworth had filled to Grigsby, Meusel hit to left centre. This blow had all the earmarks of a triple, but Grigsby, by sprinting at top speed, got to the ball in time to hold it to a single, on which Young reached third. Grigsby couldn't quite make a circus catch on Kelly's shot to left that went for a hit, Young scoring, but he did pull down a long fly from Jackson's bat.

Cubs Regain Lead.

In the fifth inning the Cubs regained the lead, though they could score only twice on a double, three singles and a sacrifice fly. Hollocher, leading off with a single to centre, got to third when Grantham doubled down the right field line, and scored on Grime's sacrifice fly to Southworth. Grantham, who advanced to third base on this play, scored when Friberg got a hit on a ball that skipped off Groh's gloved hand. Friberg, however, perished in an attempt to steal second base, and Grigsby, who singled to left, met Friberg's fate when he also attempted to steal.

More successful was Heathcote, who bounced a hit off McQuillan's legs to start the fifth inning. Heathcote dusted to second base while Frisch was throwing out O'Farrell, and then stole third, whence he scored when Kaufmann singled to centre.

Two were out in the sixth inning when Southworth drew a pass. He hustled to third base when Meusel singled to centre and crossed the plate when Kelly singled to left. Jackson could not continue the attack, but succeeded only in forcing Kelly with a hopper to Hollocher.

A startling error by Southworth was the chief factor in keeping the Cubs from scoring in the seventh. With two out, Grigsby on second base and O'Farrell on first in that inning, Kaufman sent a fly to short centre. Southworth, judging the descent of the ball perfectly, flung himself headlong at it and clutched it a few inches from the turf.

The tying of the score in the eighth was accomplished by the Giants in this fashion: Young and Frisch started the attack with singles to centre and moved up a base when Southworth grounded to Grantham. Young did not attempt to score when Meusel raised a fly to Heathcote, and the Cub right gardener made a bullet throw to the plate, but he and Frisch both scored when Kelly hammered the ball down the left field line for two bases. Jackson failed to add in the runmaking, lifting a fly to Grigsby in left centre.

HIGH'S BAT HELPS ROBINS BEAT CARDS

His Homer Puts Team Ahead in 8th and Single Scores Winning Run in 9th in 4-3 Victory.

GRIMES ALLOWS SIX HITS

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—The Brooklyn Robins opened their series with the Cardinals today by scoring a 4 to 3 victory, with Andy High's stickwork playing an important part in the triumph. High put his team in the lead in the eighth by hitting a home run with the bases empty and in the ninth he drove a single over second base that sent Tom Griffith home with the winning run.

Burleigh Grimes pitched for the Robins and allowed six hits, three of which were crowded into the eighth frame and resulted in the Cards scoring two runs and taking the lead. Allan Sothoron was Grimes's rival when the game started, but in the eighth he was removed to make room for a pinch hitter, Sherdel succeeded Sothoron, but after High poked out the winning hit Bill Doak was called to finish the game.

Wheat was first up in the ninth and walked. He reached third on a single by Fournier and scored as Stock and Fournier were being caught in a double play. Griffith renewed the rally with a double and High singled, sending him home with the winning tally. Doak then took Sherdel's place and passed Taylor. Grimes ended the session by forcing his battery mate.

Hornsby Puts Cards in Lead.

The Cardinals gained an early lead on Grimes when Rogers Hornsby hit into the right field bleachers for a home run in the opening frame. There were two out and the bases empty when the great batter hit for the circuit. It was Hornsby's fifth home run of the season.

In the second inning the Robins tied the score when Fournier doubled to right and Wade Heme on a single by Griffith, which was made after Stock lifted a high fly to Smith. Griffith tried to reach second on the throw to the plate, but was nailed.

The Robins took the lead in the eighth when Stock, first up, hit into the right field bleachers for a home run. Taylor followed with a single and Grimes sacrificed, but Loftus and Johnston were unable to make a hit off Sothoron.

Grimes Slips in Eighth.

Grimes lost his grip on the enemy in the eighth and they bunched three hits for two runs, which gave them the lead for the second time. With one out Dyer batted for Gonzales and singled to left. Sherdel batted for Sothoron and flied to Wheat. Blades, however, singled and Dyer took second third. Flack then doubled to left and Dyer and Blades scored. With Hornsby at the bat, Grimes relied upon his spitball and Rogers struck out.

The Robins then got busy and flashed their winning rally. The sixth Jack Smith was put out of the game for protesting a decision made by Umpire McCormick at the plate.

ATHLETICS TRIUMPH, 5-4.

Beat Detroit After Losing Twelve Games in a Row.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The long losing streak of the Philadelphia Americans was broken today when Detroit was defeated in the first game of the series, 5 to 4. The Athletics had lost twelve games in a row.

The contest was hard fought with both teams hitting the ball hard. After obtaining a lead Baumgartner was in trouble and blanked the Tigers in the last four innings. The Athletics tied the score by scoring three runs in the fifth and clinched the game in the sixth inning.

WEST SIDE MEMBERS UPHOLD WRITER RULE

FULL STRENGTH IS MISSING

More Than 500 Are Eligible to Act on Issue, but Only 336 Ballots Are Cast.

PROXIES PLAY MAJOR ROLE

Floor Count is 48 Against the Rule, While 4 Favor It—Governors Cast 177 Instructed Votes.

The West Side Tennis Club of Forest Hills, L. I., the largest and most influential club affiliated with the United States Lawn Tennis Association, supported the player-writer interpretation of the amateur rule at a special meeting last night by a vote of 181 to 155. The action of the organization, which was taken after two hours of discussion, means that the club will cast its voting strength in favor of the interpretation should a special meeting of the national organization be called to reconsider the rule. George W. Wightman, President of the U. S. L. T. A., has announced that he will recommend the calling of such a meeting.

The action is further significant. As the most powerful club in the country and the one that has most at stake in the matter, the action of the West Side Club, it is expected, will exert influence on the action to be taken by other clubs throughout the country. The West Side Club, with the national association, constructed the new stadium on its grounds at Forest Hills, the costs of which are to be defrayed by receipts from matches held therein. It had been believed that the club, fearing there might be a depreciation in the gate receipts if Tilden was barred from amateur tennis, had a personal interest in the matter.

Other Clubs May Follow.

The fact that the West Side Club has voted to uphold the interpretation, even though I may mean the loss of the greatest drawing card in the game, is regarded in tennis circles as likely to point the way to many other clubs throughout the country which are not so familiar with the facts of the controversy and are looking toward the East for guidance in taking action on the interpretation, which was adopted at the annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. on Feb. 2 by the overwhelming vote of 47,-190 to 6,250.

The meeting was attended by only a few members of the club, most of the votes being cast by proxy. The club has a membership of around 525, of whom only about sixty-five were present. Not all of the sixty-five cast a vote from the floor, for some of them had already sent in their instructions by proxy.

In all, 177 votes in favor of the interpretation and 107 against it were voted by proxy. These votes were recorded according to the instructions of the members who sent them in. Forty-eight votes were cast from the floor against the interpretation and four in favor of it, making the total count 181 in favor to 155 against.

Text of the Resolution.

This was the vote by which the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, that the West Side Tennis Club pledges itself to the perpetuation of the high ideals upon which the game of tennis has been developed in the United States and to a strict maintainance of the amateur standards of the game, as defined by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Further resolved, that the said club endorses the player-writer interpretation of the amateur rule as adopted by vote of the U. S. L. T. A. at its meeting held in February, 1924 and hereby records it firm and unwavering support of the association in the application of such rule and interpretation.

Before the discussion and vote, the club had unanimously endorsed the action of President Wightman of the U. S. L. T. A. in calling for a special meeting of the association to reconsider the ruling on player-writer eligibility, which caused William T. Tilden, the national champion, to resign from the Davis Cup and Olympic teams.

Opponents of the U. S. L. T. A., claiming a moral victory after the voting, asserted that the Board of Governors of the West Side Club had solicited proxies from apathetic members on the plea of upholding "tennis law and order," and stated that after the heated discussion on the floor many who previously had voted by proxy to uphold the interpretation, recalled their proxies and voted from the floor for a reconsideration.

TO CONSIDER TILDEN CASE.

Western Tennis Association Asks for Contending Views.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The Western Tennis Association will hold a special William T. Tilden 2d to the American meeting of its Executive Committee next Wednesday to consider the player-writer rule, which resulted in the loss of Olympic team. Tilden, George Wightman, President of the United States Tennis Association, and Holcombe Ward, Chairman of the Amateur Rules Committee, will be invited to present their views.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 14.—Charley Caldwell, Princeton's star pitcher, as well as football player, has been elected to the Senior Council for next year, it was announced today.

R. T. Shackelford of Baltimore and Paul Havens of Lawrenceville, N. J., also were named to the council.

Great Britain Beats Belgium In Davis Cup Round, 3 to 2

TURGUAY, England, May 14 (Associated Press).—Great Britain today eliminated Belgium from the 1924 Davis Cup competition, winning three out of the five matches which made up the first round contest between these countries. As a result the British will play Spain in the second round. Great Britain's victory was clinched when J. B. Gilbert defeated George Watson of Belgium, 8—4, 6—3, 6—1, in one of the two remaining singles matches. The last of the singles matches was won by J. Washer of Belgium, who defeated A. R. F. Kingscote of England, 6—3, 6—2, 6—3.

VON BERNUTH WINS AFTER FAST MATCH

Drops Opening Set to Levis, but Takes Next Two in Harlem Tennis Tourney.

Anton F. Von Bernuth, winner of the tournament last year, and Richard Lewis reached the fourth round of the annual open tournament of the Harlem Tennis Club yesterday on the courts at 138th Street west of Eighth Avenue. Both matches in which they advanced furnished tennis of a surprising character.

Von Bernuth lost the opening set of his contest with Leonard Levis in the third round and was closely pressed for a while in the second. He won at 4—6, 6—3, 6—0. Lewis eliminated Horace Orser of Stuyvesant High School, who was expected to repeat his fine work of last year, when he was among the last to be put out. Orser came very close to winning the match in two sets and took the first one at 6—1. But after losing the second at 8—6 he failed to last in the third and submitted as easily as he had won the opening set, at 6—1.

Another of the best contested matches of the day was that between George C. Whitlock and Ralph De Mott in the second round. Whitlock was seeded third in the draw and had a stiff battle on his hands to keep in the running, winning at 6—3, 6—4. Both contenders played with steadiness and the rallies were long and evenly contested. Good work at the net gave Whitlock enough of an advantage to pull him through the winner. The play in the first set was closer than the score shows, while in the second set it was a toss up as to whether a third would be required.

The summaries:

First Round—C. A. Minoprio won from H. W. Schwartz, 2—6, 1—5 and default; J. W. Brough defeated J. N. Pearce, 6—1, 7—9, 7—5; D. A. Blackston won from Spencer Palmer by default; J. G. Hall defeated Herbert Manchester, 6—2, 6—4.

Second Round—Leonard Levis defeated Herbert Stern, 6—3, 6—4; Colgate Baker won from Philip Bodkin by default; Jerome Minster defeated C. L. Elliott, 6—4, 6—3; Caspen Nannes defeated S. Weinstein, 6—1, 6—1; Clifford Hollander defeated Minoprio, 6—1, 6—1; Leonard W. Knox defeated R. Taller Townsend, 6—0, 6—0, 6—2; Dr. L. V. Robinson defeated E. Onda, 6—0, 6—3, 6—1; Blitchik defeated Everitt Shepard, 6—3, 6—3; Reginald Talmage won from C. H. Greentree by default; M. Jacobs won from Earle C. Backe by default; George C. Whitlock defeated Ralph M. De Mott, 6—3, 6—4.

Third Round—Anton F. Von Bernuth defeated Leonard Levis, 4—6, 6—3, 6—0; Richard Lewis defeated Horace Orser, 1—6, 6—6, 6—1.

ELK BOWLERS TAKE LEAD.

Cook and Lucke Roll 1,177 in Metropolitan Championships.

High marks were shot to pieces yesterday in the doubles and singles of the fraternal section in the metropolitan championships at the Recreation Alleys, Brooklyn. Gus Cook and Leo Lucke, bowling under the Elks colors, led the field in the two-man event, with 1,177. W. Herbst and Asa Harris of the Newark Masons were next, with 1,175. Erler and Steel of the same organization had 1,165, and Romer and Johns, New York Elks, had 1,160.

Brooklyn Elks again came to the fore in the individual event when Phil Spinella scored 689 pins, putting him in first place in this even. R. Erler of the Masons came in second, with 621. Phil Spinella gathered 1,588 pins in his nine games in the fraternal class, giving him the lead in the all-events.

PENTATHLON TRIALS START.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 14.—The first event of the Olympic trials in the modern pentathlon, the pistol shooting at twenty-five meters, was held here today at the range on the polo flats. Nine contestants of the thirteen entered for the pistol events were here today competing, and the high score for the day was made by Lieut. Col. Isaac Martin, U. S. A., who made 190 out of a possible 200. The score of the others were Lieutenant Mewshaw 183, Captain Herrendeen 182, Captain Harmon 181, Captain Pulling 175, Captain Price 150, Captain Pitts 153, Lieutenant McReynolds 137, and Cadet F. C. Hains, U. S. M. A. 103.

MRS. MALLORY SAILS.

Calls Miss Lenglen Best Player in World Before Leaving for Europe.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory of this city, the former women's national lawn tennis champion, sailed for Europe on the Paris yesterday to represent the United States in the international team match with the English for the Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman Cup at Wimbledon and to play for Norway in the Olympics at Paris. As Miss Wills, who sailed early yesterday morning on the Berengaria, Mrs. Mallory is leaving early in order to practice under foreign conditions and also to visit her parents in her native land.

The former champion evidently is not going over with any expectation of defeating Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, for she stated on board ship that she regards the French star as the greatest woman tennis player in the world.

Mrs. Hurd Wins Wilbur Cup.

Dartmouth Spoils Perfect Record for Caldwell With Two Out in Ninth as Tigers Win, 4-0.

VICTORS MAKE NO ERRORS

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 14.—Lyons's single with two out in the ninth spoiled a perfect game for Charlie Caldwell, who had disposed of the first twenty-six batters in superb fashion while his teammates were giving him enough runs to clinch Princeton's 4 to 0 victory over Dartmouth on University Field this afternoon.

For eight and two-thirds innings the Tiger moundsman had twirled perfect ball, not a visitor reaching first base, and the crowd was on its toes as the opposing hurler stepped to the plate, only to see a chance for fame go glimmering as Lyons poked out a clean Texas leaguer over first base. Austin, the next batter, singled through short, making two hits off Caldwell, who issued no passes and hit no batters.

From the first ball pitched it was evident that Caldwell was in fine form and the support he received was no less brilliant, for the Tigers accepted every chance in the field without a misplay. In addition to his work in the box, Caldwell gathered two hits, one a triple, while Foster was the only other man to get more than one blow.

Three runs in the first on a pass, a hit batter, an error and two hits gave Princeton a three-run lead, and the only other score of the game came in the seventh, when Richards walked, was sacrificed to second and scored on Foster's single. The contest was the final one for Princeton before the opening of the Big Three series with Harvard in Cambridge on Saturday.

C. C. N. Y. TROUNCES ST. JOHN'S, 15 TO 1

The City College varsity baseball team rode rough-shod over St. John's in a dull game yesterday in the Lewisohn Stadium. The score was 15 to 1. The victory left C. C. N. Y. tied for the Lavender suffered at the hands of the Brooklynites in the opening game of the season.

The feature of the contest was the great pitching of Halsey Josephson, Coach Holman's crack right hander. Josephson yielded but one hit, a Texas leaguer by Martin in the seventh inning, after which Coach Holman took him out to save him for the impending Fordham encounter. Wigderson, who pitched the last two innings, held St. John's hitless, but the visitors' lone run was made off him in the eighth as a result of C. C. N. Y.'s only error of the game.

The Lavender nine played in fine form and backed up Josephson in wonderful style. Plaut, Slotkin and Raskin pulling off three excellent double plays. Between the second and eighth innings not a single St. John's runner reached second base. The Heights nine rolled up a total of twenty-one assists.

C. C. N. Y. scored its first run in the second session and added fourteen more in the next four innings. In the third the Lavender made its largest single contribution, six runs, being materially aided by St. John's errors, eight of which were registered before the game was over.

St. John's single tally came in the eighth, after Josephson had retired. Weis got all the way around to third when Slotkin threw past first on his grounder. Murtaugh hit to Weisberg, whom Coach Holman had put in the game along with many other substitutes. Weisberg fielded the ball, but threw widely to the plate, allowing Weis to tally.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14.—The Naval Academy nine won from Swarthmore here this afternoon by a 4 to 0 score. Kaiser, the midshipman pitcher, allowed the visitors only three singles, all in different innings, and not one batsman got past first. The Swarthmore players handled themselves poorly on bases and made some costly misplays in the field.

Davis Cup Safe, Johnston Says, Even With Tilden Not Playing

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—Even though William T. Tilden 2d, national tennis champion, is not a member of the United States Davis Cup team, the American team should retain the trophy this year, William M. Johnston, second-ranking player in the country, declared here.

"There is no reason why we should lose the Davis Cup," he said. "Tilden's resignation from the team has lessened our chances somewhat, but the rest of us can work just that much harder, and I think we should win, even without Tilden."

COLGATE IS VICTOR OVER YALE IN 13TH

Scott, Eli Hurler, Hits Batter With Bases Full and Forces In Winning Run.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, May 14.—Colgate wrested a thirteen-inning victory from Yale today, 7 to 6, when Henry Scott, the Eli twirler, whose effectiveness had been marred by wildness, hit Hubbard in the back, forcing Livermore across the plate with the winning run.

With the count tied, Livermore and Richardson singled in the final inning. Sanford walked and Hubbard was hit, deciding the longest game played at Yale in a decade.

Hubbard hit safely four times and won a pass in six trips to the plate. His double in the fifth cleared the bases and he scored when Mallory overthrew second to catch him. Colgate registered its seven runs with the direct aid of only two hits. Its first inning run was the result of dropped flies by Neale and Ewing. Yale scored two runs in the first on a pass, Ewing's two-bagger and Mallory's single, and another in the second on three passes and an out. Two more came in the fifth on errors by Hubbard and Clark and Mallory's single.

The Yale freshman team and the nine of Goddard Seminary played a thirteen inning scoreless tie today. Anderson of the Blue team allowed only three hits and Mathewson of Goddard yielded only seven hits to the Eli yearlings. This game was marked by brilliant fielding.

CARLSON PITCHES N. Y. U. TO VICTORY

Spectacular Fielding Also Helps Violet Defeat Brown by 5 to 4 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 14.—The steadiness of Pitcher Carlson when there were men on bases and spectacular flashes of fielding enabled New York University to continue its winning streak with a 5 to 4 victory over Brown here this afternoon.

Although issuing three passes in the second, the Violet hurler pulled himself out of a hole by fanning Murphy and forcing Welch to send up an easy pop fly. In the seventh inning Carlson was saved when Starke stopped a difficult bounder for a put out on Williams and Griffith raced into deep left centre and robbed Hoffman of a likely homer by a spectacular catch.

Hoffman was in the limelight for Brown, making a hit and a sacrifice, accounting for three runs, and stealing a base. However, in the ninth inning he fanned with two on, two out, and his team one run behind.

ORDINANCE VICTOR; MAY START IN DERBY

8,000 See Western Crack Fail in Met. Debut—Laurano Is Second, Samaritan Third.

One Kentucky Derby candidate was made and another was broken at Jamaica yesterday. Major August Belmont's Ordinance won the Stuyvesant Handicap from the famed Wise Counsellor and four others and raced himself into a chance to start in America's present-day greatest turf classic. He also set a new track and event record of 1:38 2-5 for the mile and was breezing at the finish to beat the Oak Ridge Stable's Laurano by four and a half lengths.

Far back of the galloping son of Ormondale and Dona Rocs and outside the money was Wise Counsellor, pride of the West, which two weeks ago was the Derby favorite and now is out of the race altogether.

Yesterday's appearance was Wise Counsellor's first in the metropolitan district and he looked every inch the race horse he is, reputed to be as the six starters paraded to the post for the Stuyvesant. More than 8,000 persons had been waiting for that race and not one of them missed a move that the chestnut colt made. He looked fit, perhaps a little too fine, but there was no sign of nervousness as he laid his nose against the webbing.

Wise Counsellor Fades.

The veteran Callahan broke him away slowly, but he suffered no interference and was running free and easy, fifth in the well-bunched field as it rounded the paddock turn. Through the backstretch the Kentucky whirlwind moved up until he was only a length behind the pace-setting Swingalong. The crowd, which had not made him favorite, but never likes to see a great horse beaten, began to chant his name. For a fleeting moment it seemed that he was coming on to win, and then he dropped back, a beaten horse.

Where Wise Counsellor faded, Ordinance began to run. He moved past the Kentucky colt, past Swingalong, past Laurano and into the lead at the top of the stretch. From then on the bay colt "cake-walked," as the railbirds say, and still he ran the mile two-fifths of a second faster than it had ever been run at Jamaica before. The old record was set by S. Hildreth's Purchase in this same event in 1919.

As Ordinance bore the scarlet and maroon Belmont silks past the judges' stand he became a Derby candidate. Major Belmont had not intended to send him to Kentucky and he was not present to see him win yesterday. But hardly had his number gone up on the board before Trainer Louis Feustel was telegraphing Major Belmont in Washington, asking permission to take the colt to Louisville. Up to a late hour last night no reply had been received from Ordinance's owner, who was on his way to his nursery stud in Kentucky. If he decides to send him, Ordinance will be shipped today and will arrive just in time to be a starter.

Distance No Handicap.

If he does go and runs as he did yesterday, those who have wagered thousands of dollars in the Winter books on Wise Counsellor's chances might conceivably find a way out of their dilemma by supporting Wise Counsellor's conqueror. Ordinance proved by his victory in the Rainbow Monday that he can run in the mud and in the Stuyvesant he showed that distance does not handicap him. If he faces the barrier Saturday he will not be without supporters among those who have watched him at Jamaica. Ordinance was second choice in the betting on the Stuyvesant, with H. P. Whitney's Swingalong, which ran last, the favorite at 13 to 5.

Nellie Morse Will Train For Oaks, Gordon States

Since he is unable, because of her ineligibility, to start Nellie Morse in the Kentucky Derby, Trainer A. B. Gordon announced at the Jamaica track yesterday that he would point the Preakness winner for the historic Oaks, which will be run at Churchill Downs later in the season. Gordon was naturally delighted with the showing of the Fisher filly at Pimlico and intends to have her in all the big stakes for which she is eligible. While the Oaks does not attract as much public attention as the Derby, it is highly regarded by horsemen and last year the value to the winner was over $10,000. It is equally as old as the Derby, having been run continuously since 1875, is open to three-year-old fillies only and is now run at a distance of one and one-eighth miles.

DERBY CANDIDATES IN LAST WORKOUTS

Beau Butler, Bob Tail, Chilhowee and Altawood Go Distance at Churchill Downs.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—The Derby spirit already pervades Louisville and from now until long after the race there will be little else talked about here. At Churchill Downs, in the hotels and clubs and wherever men and women gather who are interested in the great spectacle—and that includes about everybody in Kentucky—there was rejoicing when the sun broke through the heavy clouds at intervals this afternoon, for today is the first since the meeting opened that it has not rained. But there was a raw northwest wind blowing that made it about as uncomfortable for the spectators as a cold, wet day at Jamaica.

The track at Churchill Downs, while slow for the morning workouts of the Derby horses, dried out rapidly and became good when Beau Butler and Bob Tail, the hopes of E. R. Bradley for the Kentucky classic, came out on the track between the fifth and sixth races for their final Derby workout. With their weights up they were sent the full Derby distance of a mile and a quarter, breaking from the regular start for the classic at the head of the stretch.

Beau Butler Takes Lead.

They broke together just before reaching the furlong pole, but by the time they had reached the new clubhouse Beau Butler was two lengths in front. He was moving easily, while Bob Tail seemed to be doing his best. Down the back stretch the boy on Beau Butler eased the son of Black Tony and Santa Anna II. and Bob Tail nearly got on even terms. They went the mile in 1:43 2-5 and watches clicked as horsemen watched them pound down the home stretch. There was nothing impressive about the work, the fractional times of which were as follows: :12 2-5, :24 3-5, :50 2-5, 1:03 2-5, 1:17 1-5, 1:30 3-5, 1:43 2-5, 1:56 2-5, 2:10 1-5.

This morning the Gallaher Brothers' Chilhowee and C. Bruce Head's Altawood received their final hard workouts. The former negotiated his Derby distance in 2:10 flat and Altawood in two seconds slower time. The performance of Chilhowee was the more notable in that he is not a horse that likes to work. His fractional times were as follows: :25 2-5, :50 2-5, 1:16 2-5, 1:42 4-5, 2:10.

Altawood was timed as follows: :26 2-5, :52 2-5, 1:19, 1:45 3-5, 2:12.

Hildreth Brings His Stars.

The remainder of the prospective candidates for Derby honors will be in tomorrow. A bunch came in today, including Samuel C. Hildreth with the Rancocas pair, Mad Play and Bracadale and William Garth with J. S. Cosden's Nautical. H. C. Fisher's Mr. Nutt also arrived, and his stable companion, Nellie Morse, will come later for the Kentucky Oaks. Unfortunately, the winner of the Preakness was not entered for the Derby.

Another arrival was C. H. Shilling with Gifford A. Cochran's Revenue Agent, while E. B. McLean's Modest and Benjamin Block's Thorndale also reached Churchill Downs during the day. It is expected that most of these will be given their final tightening up for Saturday's great race during training hours tomorrow morning or between races in the afternoon, with the permission of the stewards.

LAFAYETTE WINS ON TRACK.

Two Records Fall as Lehigh Is Defeated, 74½ to 51½.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., May 14.—In a dual track meet here today in which Lafayette defeated Lehigh, 74½ to 51½, two Lafayette records fell, Loehler clipping 1-10 of a second off the 120-yard hurdle mark, and MacCracken adding 4½ inches to the Javelin record.

The surprise of the day was the defeat of Malick, Lafayette, by Croll of Lehigh in the quarter. Loehler, Lafayette, was high scorer with 18 points.

FLOWERS STOPS WALKER.

Referee Halts Commonwealth Club Bout in Seventh Round.

Tiger Flowers, Atlanta negro lightheavyweight, knocked out Willie Walker, Harlem negro, last night in the seventh round of their scheduled twelve-round bout, which featured the card at the Commonwealth Sporting Club. Referee Tommy Sheridan stopped the bout forty-three seconds after the start of the seventh session, when Walker was hopelessly outclassed.

PRINCETON TO PLAY YALE IN POLO FINAL

5,000 PERSONS SEE GAMES

Winners to Meet Saturday at Fort Hamilton for Eastern Intercollegiate Title.

As a result of the double-header at Fort Hamilton yesterday, the Yale and Princeton polo teams will meet on Saturday for the Eastern intercollegiate championship and the Robert Lee Bullard trophy. In the semi-finals yesterday, Princeton won from Harvard by a score of 7 to 4, and in the second contest Yale eliminated the Army horsemen by the same count.

It was the difference in the quality of the forwards that gave Princeton the edge of victory. Harvard had to use four men in the offensive drives, while the Tigers needed only three, and, consequently, the Orange and Black goal was better protected, while at times Kent's presence up forward left a clear field open to the Harvard horsemen.

In the second contest the Army held Yale, defenders of the title, on even terms for the first two and the last three periods; but a Blue rally in the third chukker provided the margin of victory. Although the hitting and all around work of the Army and Yale combinations yesterday were not up to the standard set in the first contest, the game itself was much more thrilling, with the possibility ever present that the champions would be defeated. The Cadets fought desperately, and during the latter part of the game had the ball in Yale's territory constantly, but the breaks of the game prevented them from scoring once or twice. Inaccurate driving prevented several goals which seemed certain and a swarm of blue-clad horsemen turned back the attack on other occasions.

The field still showed signs of the heavy rains which caused postponements during the week, but an early afternoon sun brought out some 5,000 spectators and the boxes and grand stands were well filled. The muddy field caused more accurate hitting than has been seen before in the tournament, but at the same time it cut down the length of the drives. Instead of finding a bounding ball to hit, as is usually the case when the field is dry, the riders yesterday often were able to swing with the ball stuck on a tee. But this advantage to the players was offset by the fact that unless a ball was sent into the air it stopped dead in the mud after traveling a few yards.

Harvard Has Fast Mounts.

The Harvard team was especially well mounted and the superiority of ponies combined with the splendid playing of Kent, aided by Pinkerton, No. 3, kept Harvard in the running against the Tigers. In the first chukker of the first game, however, Princeton scored three times in rapid succession, Chuck Newbold sending the ball through the Harvard goal for the opening count, followed soon after by Jackson and Holbrook who scored once each. After that it was nip and tuck all the way with Harvard matching attack with counter attack and goal with goal. Jimmy Tufts, Harvard's No. 1, was cut under the eye by a mallet during the first period, but he resumed play. Soon after the accident Kent started his offensive tactics and with a long ride down the field sent the ball in a position from which Pinkerton scored the Crimson's first point just before the gong ended the chukker.

At the start of the second Harvard again counted on a similar formation, and the Crimson trailed by only a single point. Pinkerton had a chance to stop the next Princeton goal when he dashed ahead of the opposing horsemen after they had put the ball in front of the Crimson posts, but he missed and Newbold shot another goal. A minute later Jackson registered another goal for the Tigers. In the third chukker Holbrook gave Princeton another, but in the last three periods Kent scored twice and Bancroft once.

Hunt Scores Five Goals.

A. H. Hunt, Yale's No. 1, carried off the scoring honors of the day when he contributed five of the Blue's seven goals against the Army in the second game, but a great deal of the credit for Hunt's scoring must go to his teammates. The famous Hank Baldwin, Yale's No. 2, was constantly in evidence although he scored only one goal. The Army showed the effects of Major Jingles Wilson's coaching and played a much improved game. The Cadets might have won, with a little luck.

Hunt opened the scoring in the first period, but J. R. Moon, Army's No. 3, evened the count when he hooked the ball out of a scrimmage and sent it through in the second chukker. Hunt again sent Yale ahead with a brilliant backhander a moment later, but just before the gong sounded D. T. Craw, Army's No. 4, got off a long drive from the side of the field, and when the period ended the score was tied, 2—2.

In the third Hunt scored twice for Yale, and Herold, Yale's No. 3, added another to the Blue score when he counted after an Army foul.

In the fourth period the Army had a chance from the foul line, and although Murtaugh's drive was partially blocked, he followed his stroke, picked up the ball and carried it through. Hunt then regained this point by taking the ball from scrimmage and scoring again for Yale. Throughout the fifth period the ball was near the goal defended by Yale, but Army was able to count only once, Craw finally counting as the gong ended the period.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 14.—At the moment the starter sent the horses on their way in the first race at the Tremblay track this afternoon, Jockey Gautier shouted "No!" and three of the seven horses remained at the post. A fourth started so poorly that it had to return. When the winners were posted the crowd broke limbs from trees and stormed the judges' stand. The officials refused to change their decision, and when the police were unable to drive the crowd back to the stands and the weighing-in could not be held racing was stopped for the day, wagers were returned with the admission fees and the jockey who caused the riot was suspended until the end of the month.

CARPENTIER DODGES CROWDS IN CHICAGO

French Fighter, Bigger and Stronger, Says He Is Confident of Beating Gibbons.

CHICAGO, May 13.—After spending a day dodging crowds that followed him everywhere, Georges Carpentier, ring idol of France, departed tonight for Michigan City, Ind., for a few days' rest before starting training for his 10-round contest with Tommy Gibbons there on May 31.

Carpentier was accompanied by Jack Curley, his American representative, François Descamps, his manager; Trainer Gus Wilson, Paul Fritsch, European lightweight, and Bartholome Molinero, a French-Italian middleweight.

There is a vast difference in the Georges Carpentier of 1924, compared with the Carpentier of 1921, who came to America to fight Jack Dempsey for the World's heavyweight Championship. Carpentier today appeared to be bigger, more robust, and more healthy and weighs about eight pounds more than he did three years ago. The French pugilist is broader of shoulder, deeper of chest, clearer of eye and skin.

"I am bigger and am stronger," he said. "I feel better than ever. I am in excellent condition. It was just ten days ago that I fought Townley in Vienna. I trained hard for that fight and trained on the ship coming over. I shall rest for a few days in Michigan City and then start about two weeks of training.

"Do I think I will knock Gibbons out?" he repeated, with a confident smile. "That I cannot say, but I think I will win. I am punching harder than when I fought Dempsey."

Manager Descamps said Carpentier would go through with his match with Gene Tunney on any date agreeable. He said if the match could not be arranged for the week of June 16 Carpentier would remain until after the Fourth of July to accommodate Tunney.

Descamps, exhibiting a copy of the contract for the Tunney match, said there is nothing in it that forbids the Frenchman engaging in a contest before June 16, and that the only clause that is binding stipulates that Carpentier must be in this country before May 26.

Gibson Remains Militant.

A letter he received yesterday from François Descamps, manager of Georges Carpentier, did not tend to mollify Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, America's light-heavyweight champion, who is preparing for a court battle to prevent the scheduled bout between Carpentier and Tom Gibbons at Michigan City, Ind., on May 31. Descamp's letter to Gibson was mailed in Philadelphia, the champion's manager said, and advised Gibson "not to worry, because Georges will beat Gibbons and then return to New York to fight Tunney."

While expressing regret that he could not share the supreme confidence of the Frenchman, Gibson declared his intention of instituting court action today if his attorney has completed his preparations for the case. Gibson claims to hold Carpentier's signed contract to fight Tunney in Jersey City on June 20, and declared he is in possession of cablegrams from Descamps in which it is agreed that the match against Tunney will be Carpentier's first in this country.

It is on these cablegrams, Gibson said, that he will seek a restraining order preventing the Carpentier-Gibbons match until after Carpentier has fulfilled his contract to box Tunney.

PROMOTER SEEKING NEW SITE FOR BOUT

MAY SELECT NEWARK RING

Will Continue Efforts, However, to Have Order Condemning Long Island Plant Recalled.

After a day of conferences, consultations and discussions in which journeys from Long Island City to Manhattan and back again were merely incidental, the one clear development yesterday in the situation precipitated by the Fire Department's condemnation of the Queensboro Stadium was that Promoter Simon Flaherty has become reconciled to the fact that he can not promote the scheduled bout between Harry Wills and Bartley Madden in his Long Island City arena tomorrow night. The order of Commissioner Thomas J. Drennan of the Fire Department, ordering the immediate removal of the Queensboro plant as a fire hazard, on last Tuesday morning, convinced everybody but Flaherty that the bout could not be held. Yesterday even the optimistic Flaherty and the confident Lew Raymond, Flaherty's matchmaker, were convinced that Commissioner Drennan's order put an effective stop to their bout plans for tomorrow night.

While Promoter Flaherty is hopeful that he can obtain a modification of the order which will permit him to conduct the Wills-Madden bout, he is, nevertheless, making arrangements to transfer the bout to another arena. He visited Fire Department headquarters yesterday and had a conference with Commissioner Drennan which held no encouragement. According to Flaherty, he was informed that the matter now was out of Commissioner Drennan's hands and advised to carry his appeal for a recall of the order direct to Fire Chief John Kenlon, whose survey report and recommendation resulted in the Commissioner's order. Chief Kenlon is expected back in this city from Atlantic City tomorrow. Flaherty plans to invite the Chief personally to inspect the Queensboro arena in an effort to induce a modification or recall of the order condemning the plant as a dangerous fire hazard.

If his efforts in this direction are unsuccessful Flaherty plans to start court proceedings seeking a mandamus or injunction restraining the Fire Department from condemning his plant. In the event that this action also is unsuccessful Flaherty said he will return the bout to Newark promoters, who originally signed the match, and arrange to conduct it on a Tuesday night, possibly May 27, in Newland Park, Newark's outdoor fight arena.

Commissioner Drennan, at his office, reiterated that the Long Island City arena is a dangerous fire hazard and declared that so far as his department is concerned the incident is closed.

"We are not concerned with the matter of whether a fight is held in the arena," said Commissioner Drennan. "Our responsibility is to enforce precautionary measures against fire dangers. This arena is constructed entirely of wood over a surface of 62,000 square feet. It is crate-like in form, and I consider it a dangerous fire hazard, worse than any lumber yard. The order of removal was issued after a survey conducted under the direction of Chief Kenlon, a man whose long years of experience in the Fire Department certainly equip him to determine whether a plant is safe or unsafe from the standpoint of fire danger."

In the hope that he can prevail upon Chief Kenlon to recommend a modification of the order, Promoter Flaherty yesterday announced that he had received the consent of the boxers and their managers, Paddy Mullins for Wills and Charlie Rose for Madden, to fulfill the bout contract on any date and in any arena he selects. Flaherty said that if Chief Kenlon inspects the place and suggests any changes which would relieve the club of its present unfavorable designation by the Fire Department, he will be only too willing to have the changes made.

"Offers for the use of their places by me have been made by the Velodrome, Polo Grounds, Nostrand A. C. and Dexter Park in Brooklyn, but I have not accepted any offer," said Flaherty. "I still feel that Wills and Madden will box in the Queensboro and intend, if I can, to put the bout on on May 26. I know now that it is utterly impossible to hold it on Friday night. In the event that the match is not held in the Queensboro, however, it will not be held in New York. I conferred with Harry Blaufuss, Tex Cullen and J. Frank Black this afternoon on plans for shifting the bout back to Newark as an attraction for Dreamland Park, and that is the arena in which it will be held if our New York plans fail."

Flaherty announced that the sale of tickets would continue during the period in which he is seeking a modification of the condemnatory order. Johnny Appel, an attaché of the club office force is authority for the statement that as yet no requests for ticket redemption have been submitted to the box office. The funds from the advance sale of tickets is being held intact in order to be available whenever the money is demanded.

287 GOLFERS ENTER FOR NATIONAL OPEN

Although Field Is Cut Down This Year, Most of Game's Leaders Will Compete in Classic.

Two hundred and eighty-seven golfers, as contrasted with the field of three hundred and sixty at Inwood last Summer, will compete in the two sectional qualifying rounds to determine the eligibility list for the national open at Oakland Hills in June. The entry list closed at 6 o'clock last night, the final time set by the United States Golf Association, which has the event in charge. Late-comers will have to put their cases up to the committee of the Professional Golfers' Association of America for judgment.

According to T. J. McMahon, Executive Secretary of the U. S. G. A., 152 of the entrants will compete in the qualifying test for the Eastern section at Worcester, Mass., on May 27-28, and 135 at the Oak Park Country Club, Chicago, for the Western section on the same days. The test will be at thirty-six holes medal play, eighteen each day, and the first forty and ties will be eligible for the open proper, which will be at seventy-two holes on June 6 and 6.

Since one of the main reasons for the adoption of the sectional qualifying round idea was to cut down the field in the event, the plan has succeeded admirably. There is one thing that is notable this year, and that is the absence of the horde of amateurs that have in the past tried their luck in the open event. Only five of the noted amateurs—players who have won either the amateur or the open crowns—have forwarded their entrance fees. Among these are Bobby Jones of Atlanta, the present title-holder, who is exempt from undergoing the qualifying test as a result of a recent ruling of the governing bodies; Max R. Marston of Philadelphia, the present amateur champion; Chick Evans of Chicago, former amateur and open champion; S. Davidson Herron of Chicago who, as a resident of Pittsburgh, won the national amateur title in 1919, and Jesse Guilford of Boston, national title-holder in 1921.

Sweetser and Ouimet Out.

It was expected that Jess Sweetser and Francis Ouimet would play in the Worcester qualifying event, but neither has forwarded entries and it is presumed that pressure of business has prevented their taking the time that the two events require.

Leading the Eastern qualifying contingent are Max Marston of Philadelphia, amateur champion; Jesse Guilford of Boston, former amateur titleholder, and such professional cracks as Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Jim Barnes, Tom Kerrigan, Henry Cuici, Charles Mothersele of the metropolitan district; Dan Williams and Bobby Cruikshank of Westfield, N. J., the latter runner-up to Jones last year; Jack Forrester, Deal, N. J.; John Golden, Paterson, N. J.; W. E. Donohue, Newark, N. J.; Willie Ogg, Worcester; Mack, George Aulbach, Boston; Marty O'Loughlin, Plainfield, N. J.; Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J., and Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City, N. J.

Several to Try Course.

Bobbie Jones, national champion, will arrive in Detroit on May 23 and will spend considerable time in advance on finals in familiarising himself with the intricacies of Oakland Hills. Chick Evans also will be in Detroit before the tournament for practice.

Walter Hagen is another who will spend considerable timei n advance on the Oakland course. Hagen is going to make a determined effort to win the National open. Having been the first professional at Oakland Hills, and therefore familiar with the course, Hagen is planning to capitalize upon this knowledge and will spend several days brushing up on play at Oakland. He will have a close contender in Mike Brady, who last year was the pro at Oakland and two years ago won the Western open championship on the same course.

Miss Stirling Goes Home; Will Not Defend Met. Title

Miss Alexa Stirling will not defend her title as metropolitan women's golf champion at the Cherry Valley Club next week. This fact was learned yesterday when inquiry was made as to whether or not the former national champion would play No. 1 on the Long Island team for the Golf Illustrated Trophy. Miss Stirling will leave today for her home in Atlanta to rest. Her stay there will be an indefinite one, depending on how soon she recovers from her illness. She has been a metropolitan player for the last two years at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club; in her first appearance in the metropolitan event, she captured the title. Until the recent rise of Miss Glenna Collett and Miss Edith Cummings, Miss Stirling was regarded as the greatest woman golfer that America had produced.

VAN VLECK AND KERR TRIUMPH WITH A 73

Win at Garden City Golf Club in Par Figures—Two Events Open Today.

C. E. Van Vleck and Hamilton K. Kerr of the Garden City Golf Club captured the best-ball honors yesterday in the competition that preceded the annual invitation tournament. Van Vleck, former Yale pitcher, and Kerr turned in a card that added up to 73, equaling par, and thereby outdistanced the other fifteen pairs who ventured out in the event.

The qualifying round of the invitation tournament will get under way at 8:30 this morning, and during the day it is expected that approximately 150 golfers will go through the test on the course which will be the scene of this year's international matches between the American and British teams.

The closest of the pursuers of Van Vleck and Kerr were C. M. Hall and Louis Livingston, two clubmates, who turned in scores of 76. After them came W. W. Pell and A. W. Biggs of Cherry Valley, J. M. Ward and W. L. Richards of Coldstream, F. Leake and D. Jarvis of the Bellemeade Club, Nashville, Tenn., and A. Robins and F. Snare of the home club.

Van Vleck was out individually in 35 and he and Kerr together in 34, three under par. They did not team up quite so well coming in on the homeward stretch, squandering strokes here and there and having a best ball of 39 for the inward journey, three over the par figure.

They started out with a birdie 3 at the first hole but lost it on the next, taking 4s. Three birdies followed in order and then a string of pars. They lost strokes at the tenth, twelfth, fourteenth and eighteenth holes and bagged only a single birdie after the turn.

Their cards, with par:

Out—
Par	4	3	4	5	4	3	4	4	—37
Van Vleck and Kerr	3	4	3	4	3	4	5	4	—34
In—
Par	4	4	3	5	4	4	5	3	—36—73
Van Vleck and Kerr	5	3	4	5	5	4	4	4	—39—73

C. E. Van Vleck-Hamilton K. Kerr, Garden City Golf, 34, 39—73; C. M. Hall-Louis Livingston, Garden City Golf, 36, 40—76; W. W. Pell-A. W. Biggs, Cherry Valley, 37, 40—77; F. Leake-D. Jarvis, Bellemeade, Nashville, 41, 37—78; J. M. Ward-W. L. Richards, Coldstream, 40, 38—78; A. Robins-F. Snare, Garden City Golf, 39, 41—80.

The annual team competition for the Golf Illustrated Trophy among the star players of the Westchester, New Jersey and Long Island teams will take place at the Cherry Valley club today. The competition will mark the first time this year that the stars of the three districts have had an opportunity to meet and it will serve to shed some light on the coming metropolitan championship, which will be held at the same club next week.

One of the features of the day will be the reappearance in competitive golf of Miss Marion Hollins of Westbrook, former women's national champion, who probably will play No. 4 on the Long Island team, opposed to Mrs. Thomas Hucknall of New Jersey and Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson of Westchester. Miss Hollins recently returned from California, where she proved that she has returned to health. She met Miss Edith Cummings, the national champion, on two occasions during her stay on the coast, winning once and losing once.

The present holder of the trophy is the New Jersey team, which won the honors by defeating Long Island at Apawamis and being the only team to have that distinction. The conditions of the match were changed this year and the competition will be decided in one day's play, the teams, fifteen on each side, playing in threesomes and the points determined by the Nassau system of scoring. On the New Jersey team will appear Miss Maureen Orcutt, young White Beeches star. Mrs. Summer Adams of Cherry Valley is leader of the Long Island forces; Mrs. E. C. Koempel of Glen Ridge of the New Jersey team and Mrs. C. H. Dickinson of the Westchester team.

FOUR YALE BOATINGS ANNOUNCED BY LEADER

First and Second Varsity Eights Will Not Be Changed for Regatta at Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 14.—With the possible exception of a slight shift in the make-up of the freshman eight, the boating of Yale's crews was announced today by Coaches Ed Leader and George Murphy for the regatta at Princeton on Saturday.

The Yale first and second varsity eights will be the same as those which defeated Pennsylvania and Columbia on the Housatonic two weeks ago. The 150-pound crew will be practically a new combination, although again stroked by Norman Freeman of Philadelphia, a former St. Paul school stroke.

The boatings follow:

Varsity Crew—Bow, Carpenter; No. 2, Sheffield; No. 3, Wilson; No. 4, Rockefeller; No. 5, Miller; No. 6, Kingsbury; No. 7, Spock; stroke, Lindley; coxswain, Harnard.

Junior Varsity Crew—Bow, Isham; No. 2, Shew; No. 3, Peterson; No. 4, Whitney; No. 5, Goodwin; No. 6, Quarrier; No. 7, Prudhomme; stroke, Potter; coxswain, White.

20 CORNELL OARSMEN LEAVE

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 14.—Twenty Cornell oarsmen left here late tonight for Princeton, N. J., to row Yale and Princeton on Carnegie Lake Saturday. Coach Hoyle had all four Cornell shells out on the West Shore course in a drizzle this evening and the Sophomore varsity and freshman eight came back at racing speed for about two miles.

HARVARD FRESHMEN WIN.

Row to Victory by Two Lengths Over the M. I. T. Yearlings.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 14.—Harvard's first freshman crew defeated Massachusetts Institute of Technology freshmen by two lengths over the mile and three-quarters course on the Charles River today.

The race, scheduled as part of the Pennsylvania - Harvard regatta, was postponed on Monday because of weather conditions.

U. S. GOLFER IN FINE FORM.

S. H. J. Brown Has Card of 67 Over St. Andrews Course.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 14.—S. H. J. Brown of Honolulu, the only American representative in this year's British amateur golf championship, made a brilliant round on the new course today for a total of 67. He went out in 35 and home in 32. His opponents were W. L. Hope and J. Braid.

RACE HOURS ANNOUNCED.

First Event in Columbia Regatta Saturday to Start at 5 P. M.

Columbia's crew management yesterday announced the hours of the four crew races on the Hudson River Saturday. The leading race between Columbia's first 150-pound eight and M. I. T.'s first lightweight crew race will be last on the program. It will start at 6:30 o'clock. The De Witt Clinton High School and the Blue and White second freshman boat will open the meet at 5 o'clock. Half an hour later the class crews will go against each other. At 6 o'clock Columbia's second 150-pound boat will race the N. Y. A. C. junior crew.

Billiard Results.

Albert Cutler, junior 18.2 balkline champion, played two exhibition games at the Fourteenth Street Academy yesterday. In the afternoon he defeated Charles Fredericks by the score of 200 to 42 in 11 innings, making a high run of 59. In the evening he was the winner over George Day at 200 to 87 in 9 innings, making a high run of 97.

Tonight and tomorrow evening Cutler will play Jean Bruno, the Austrian champion, at the same academy and on Monday night will meet Edgar T. Appleby, the international amateur title holder.

Tadao Suganuma, who lost the junior 18.2 crown to Albert Cutler, won two exhibition games at Julian's Fourteenth Street Academy yesterday. In the afternoon he defeated Fred Unger at 300 to 162 in 27 innings, making a high run of 71, to 34 for Unger. In the evening the Japanese player made a run of 227 to win at 300 to 26 against Sam Baumgarten in 9 innings.

Charles Harmon drew up to within four points of J. Howard Shoemaker in the third block of their 600-point exhibition pocket billiard match at Lawler Brothers' Academy in Brooklyn last night, when he ran 163 carroms while Shoemaker was getting 94, in nineteen frames. The score now stands 300 to 296 in Shoemaker's favor. Harmon made a high run of 87 in his first turn at the table, while Shoemaker's best run was 26.

CALL YOU THIS SUPPORT?

In looking at the vote of the Senate which sustained the President's veto of the Pension bill, yet so as by-fire, no one can find signs of any very ardent desire of the Republicans to support Mr. COOLIDGE. It is not simply that thirty-two Republican Senators were for overriding his veto, as against only twelve that were ready to uphold it. That by itself is a sufficient commentary on the present condition of Republican Party discipline. But the ominous thing is to see so many Republican eminences in the Senate arrayed against the President. Of course, the name of the greatest leader, with the fewest followers, led all the rest. Senator LODGE did not vote, but was paired against the veto. Then there were BRANDEGEE, and McLEAN of Connecticut, both the Ohio Senators, Senator WATSON of Indiana, who has been lately posing as one set for the special defense of President COOLIDGE in the Senate, and also Senator CURTIS of Kansas. The latter has the distinction of being the Republican "whip" in the Senate. How much whipping into line for the President can he be expected to do when he first whips himself out of it?

This extraordinary exhibition of party loyalty does not hold out much encouragement for the defeat of the Bonus bill by a Presidential veto upheld by the Senate. Yet the case need not be pronounced hopeless. If as many Senators can be induced to change their vote on the Bonus bill as changed it on the Pension bill, the former measure can also be beaten. But it is no time for the Administration and its friends to act like men at ease in Zion. They have got a hard fight on their hands and must use every legitimate weapon at their command. One such would be an appeal to the constituents of Senators shivering on the brink of a decision, in order to let them know what the voters at home would like them to do. But the ultimate dependence must be upon a just appreciation by Republican Senators of the way in which their party would be running down a steep place into the sea if in this vital matter it failed to hold up the hands of the President. He is to be nominated virtually by acclamation next month. Is he to be slaughtered in the house of his friends this month? If the Republican Party is not to confess itself a disorganized and leaderless mob, it will not permit so shrieking a political absurdity to occur.

BACKING THE DAWES PLAN.

Despite the inevitable delays while the French and German Cabinets are being formed, the prospects of speedy enactment of the necessary measures to put the Dawes report into effect are encouraging. Not only have the French elections created a more optimistic spirit in Germany and England, but in Italy, and even in France, the general impression prevails that it will now be possible to begin the reconstruction work promptly. Mr. MACDONALD struck the keynote when he said that "it's the whole report, "nothing but the report for us altogether." He elaborated his thought by adding, "I beg every nation concerned to follow the course we have "pursued—take the whole report, put "it heartily into cooperation, do the "level best to carry out the obligations "it imposes, and then trust to the "world's sense of justice to see that "the right is done in the end."

The latest Frenchman to echo this sentiment is LEON BLUM, who is expected to play an important part in the new French Government. Acceptance by France of the Dawes report, according to him, is based on "a resolve to proceed immediately "to realizing acts." Incidentally, he sounds a warning which cannot be too much stressed. "The German Nationalists," he says, "would commit the worst possible error if they "assumed that the arrival of the new "Radical Socialist majority in our "Chamber would furnish them pre"texts for opposing the experts' pro"gram and means of escaping their "obligations."

It is thus clear that, although the fundamentals of the reparations problem are unchanged, the growing spirit of conciliation now abroad will count for much in reaching a settlement. It is only necessary to recall the deadlock between POINCARE and Lord CURZON, which resulted largely from the lack of harmony between the two personalities to realize how important are mere methods of procedure in international intercourse. So long as POINCARE was the principal spokesman for France, the opposition to his unyielding and exacting temperament created constant obstacles. His reputation for stubbornness made him difficult to deal with. The very fact that the other nations now expect France to be conciliatory will go far in hastening the settlement. This is the true significance of the new optimism in Europe.

It is not improbable that different men will hold in succession the Premiership of France while the parliamentary situation is being crystallized. But even this will not alter any of the fundamentals. The methods of negotiation may differ somewhat, but the French people will stand fast on the program of demanding that Germany live up to her obligations and pay reparations. So also will they insist on sanctions and security. But even the "unpleasantest words" can be spoken pleasantly. The best diplomacy is that which accomplishes a disagreeable task with the smallest amount of friction.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Mr. GEORGE J. RYAN, in his address on being re-elected President of the Board of Education, dwelt chiefly upon the building program. A year ago it was estimated that nearly $200,000,000 would be required to eliminate part-time and double or duplicate sessions and to provide seats necessary to meet the increases in the September register for the next five years. According to President RYAN'S statement, the present building program provides for 210 new school buildings at a cost of $150,277,514. This amount added to what has been spent since May of 1923 will make a total approximating the enormous sum estimated to be needful to catch up with the increased school population. But even so, no allowance is made for reducing oversized classes, nor for the replacement of temporary wooden buildings or of buildings constructed fifty years or more ago. Unless, therefore, funds beyond the total named are available under the present educational policy, objectionable conditions will still exist.

The present building program proceeds upon the theory that a seat must be provided for every child five hours a day for 190 days in the year. The realization was no nearer at the beginning of 1923 than in preceding years, but a credulous public forgot the failure in a new hope. The slogan had an appealing sound. It gave the impression of a certain omniscient paternal concern on the part of the Administration. As a matter of fact, if the Board of Education and the Superintendents were free to adopt plans such as have been found to be sound educationally, and at the same time economical, in certain other cities, this great expenditure might not be wholly necessary. It is estimated by good authorities that if the constructive methods employed in Detroit and Pittsburgh, for example, were employed here, the congestion could be earlier relieved at a decreased expenditure for new construction of between 50 and 70 per cent. Educational values, under a plan which sought to utilize the school plant to the fullest possible extent, would be increased.

To the present Administration the suggestion of "the Gary plan," so called, has been as a red rag to a bull. There are, however, other constructive plans which have embodied the sound educational principle of an all-round training (including that given in the playground, the library, the assembly hall) and an economical full utilization of the physical provision. But a report which merely emphasizes the school buildings does not touch the vital factor in our educational system. What the public is most concerned about now is that the selection and promotion of teachers shall be wholly and solely on the basis of merit—that political influence shall not be permitted to find a seat or a desk in any of the thousand and more public school buildings in this city.

TARIFF INQUIRIES.

The Senate has instructed the Tariff Commission to answer ten questions asked by Senator WALSH of Massachusetts seconded by Senator LODGE. The New England States doubtless know that the depression in the textile industry is world-wide and that the tariff has not saved them. But they seem to think it might help if only the schedules were suitably hoisted. Many cotton mills are running half time and are passing or reducing dividends. Similar representations are made to the Tariff Commission on behalf of the woolen trade. The Secretary of Labor, Mr. DAVIS, is of the opinion that there is something wrong with the iron and steel tariff. How can the duties be adequate when pig iron is imported by hundreds of thousands of tons, and steel ingots by the million pounds, delivered on both the Atlantic and the Pacific Coast?

Senators from the South are less disturbed. There is reaction in the South also, but Congressmen from that section blame the price of cotton rather than the tariff. They think there is something like a buyers' strike against the cost of cotton cloths, and one of them suggests a conspiracy between foreign and American buyers of raw cotton to control the price and prevent total exhaustion of the supply before the next crop is available. It is plain that jumping up the tariff rates on cotton goods would not protect the New England mills against competitors in the South.

In the reference of the matter to the Tariff Commission can be seen only a forlorn hope. It has shown its readiness to raise duties more than once, but has yet to give sign that it would reduce them for any cause. Dissensions have sprung up within the commission, following dissatisfaction with its procedure, and its activity has exhausted its funds. It has only $7,000 left, and it would cost $100,000 to report on the cotton trouble alone in a year. Before the commission could report the emergency might have passed. Senator WALSH'S ten questions barely open the subject they were designed to close.

SCURVY BANDS, AVAUNT!

A day or two ago a stage-coach from the Black Hills or somewhere anchored in Broadway. Traffic stopped. A multitude of open eyes and open mouths watched that antique chariot—if it wasn't "faked." "Movies," said some. "What's the idea? Advertising some show?" asked others. Only a thoughtful observer, here and there, saw the gracious symbolism of that stage. It signified rapid transit according to the Hylan system. "We must come to buses," the Mayor has said thoughtfully. To insure that we do, the Mayor has issued to his Commissioners an edict ordering them and their subordinates to hold services of praise in honor of JOHN the Good and of commination against his opponents, all the workers of iniquity, the "selfish groups that are out for pri"vate gain at the expense of the "masses of the people"; the "interests" served by the "corporation-dominated newspapers"; the complicity of disreputable organizations like the Merchants' Association, the Brooklyn and the New York Chambers of Commerce, with these old offenders. In short, the Johannine bands of righteousness are to play their loudest and "reveal the double-dealing and "hypocrisy of scurvy bands that "would deceive the people."

It is the old, old tune, not executed with quite the volume of sound which connoisseurs have come to expect from a Hylanhearst corroboree; but it is welcome. The Mayor knows a good thing when he sees it. He proposes, or somebody proposes for him, four years more of it. At the end of that time he will be entitled to a pension. Indeed, he ought to have it now. Ventriloquism is hard work. A little different from General GRANT'S, the Mayor's third-term boost rests on "the arduous greatness of things" undone. To him, rapid transit is perpetual want of motion. He ought to be Mayor for life. But the less he does the more there is for him to do. Cutting up Central Park into building sites is in itself activity enough for four years more of HYLAN; and is as good a reason as can be urged for his re-election.

If his boom seems a little premature, we must remember that it is the early worm that finds himself inside of the early bird. Hasty judgments may conclude that there are some trifling matters, State and national, to be disposed of this year; that our good and great friend in the City Hall will be out of the picture. But these are base considerations. One of our best altruists, speaking the oracles of the sublimest altruist of the time, commands lauds for virtue and hymns of hate against group selfishness. Tammany may sneer, but its placemen in the municipal service must sing the Hylanhearst music or get out. Out of the abundance of the stomach the mouth speaketh. And, whether the scurvy bands are broken or not, whether heroic principles or sordid interests prevail, the good among us will not cease to murmur:

Summer or Winter, day or night,
JOHN F. is ever a new delight.

THE GREAT REJECTED.

Little by little the subtle political strategy of the La Follettians and Third Partyites is being unfolded. Nothing rash or premature is to be attempted. It is a waiting game that is to be played. The policies around which the heart-beats of the people are later to rally are not even to be framed until after malice and domestic treason have done their worst in the national conventions of the two great parties. The plan is to go first of all to the Republican National Convention with a set of demands and principles which the heroic twenty-nine delegates from Wisconsin know in advance will be spurned. Then the gallant band will shake the dust of Cleveland off its feet, and go into a campaign of its own on the very platform which the Republican builders have rejected.

Specimen planks to be offered at Cleveland have considerately been allowed to come to public knowledge. One of them is to consist of a general Republican confession of corruption, in connection with the oil scandals and other things, with a solemn promise to drive out the great number of scoundrels who still unhappily infest the party. Another plank would be a sort of denunciation of the course of Republican Administrations in tying themselves up with unscrupulous oppressors of the poor. Then the next step in tactics would be to leave the convention hall, bearing these and other symbols of Republican wickedness, and to mass all the rejected and discontented into a sort of grand Salon des Refusés.

It is a pretty scheme, but seems a bit too sentimental. Americans have not been noted for an impulsive readiness to take to their hearts men whose chief title to affection is that they have been scorned by those to whom they originally made love.

BOOKS ACROSS THE SEA.

To the second annual convention of the International P. E. N. Club came a message from JOHN GALSWORTHY, in which he described the gatherings of the club as "not just festivity, but "gestures of friendliness which have "a deep and far-reaching significance." In the same spirit the President of the American section of the P. E. N. proposed the other night for a club motto, "Books as Ambassadors." It was a reminder of an ancient truth which will bear restatement after the disruption caused by the World War. The printed word has been a great interpreter and binder of nations. The book is the democrat of diplomacy. For every man who can leave hearth and home to study the foreigner in his own country, a thousand can make progress toward understanding China or Peru without leaving the daily job and the evening armchair.

As between diplomacy under cover and diplomacy between covers there is little doubt which can do and has done the greater good for humanity. But we may as well admit that the book as ambassador is not always above reproach. There are wicked books just as there are wicked ministers plenipotentiary. Books have been written which have by no means contributed to peace on earth. The Houston Stewart Chamberlain school of fiction-science, devoted to the gospel of a narrow racialism and nationalism, is not peculiar to Germany. WAGNER'S son-in-law with an English name borrowed his doctrine from the Frenchman GOBINEAU, and it has been borrowed from CHAMBERLAIN in turn by our own specialists in race glorification and damnation. That kind of book is a mischievous ambassador. It misrepresents the foreigner to the ambassador's own people and it misrepresents his people to the foreigner.

Books as ambassadors must be subjected to one test to which the agents of the Foreign Office must submit when they go on duty abroad. They must offer their credentials. Many Germans have complained that BERNHARDI put them in a false light before the world; at home, they say, he had no representative standing. Many Frenchmen have complained that France is but ill-represented by the boulevard literature of Paris. And not very long ago a French magazine editor in search of an interpretation of the United States had a book written by a young American who succeeded in representing himself and probably an additional one one-hundredth of one per cent. of the truth about America.

These, however, are exceptions in the diplomacy of the written word. For the moment the more pressing problem is that of the high cost of literary diplomacy. Books are still fearfully expensive. To be sure, we are not paying for books anything like the price we have paid for the other kind of diplomacy, but we are paying more than enough. Especially the great monuments of world literature, whose creators being long dead draw no royalties, cost much more than the general price index as compared with prewar days would seemingly justify. The traveling expenses of these ambassadors between the nations should always be at the minimum.

ANOTHER NAVAL COMPARISON.

Deterioration of their fleet is worrying Englishmen, too. They are haunted by fears that the Washington Treaty ratio is not being maintained with relation to Japan. GEOFFREY DRAGE, who was Chairman of the National Conference on Sea Training, 1910-14, and who qualifies as a naval authority, writes to The London Times to say that "the time has come for plain speaking." He makes no comparisons between the British and the American fleets. It is the naval enterprise of Japan and the inertia of Great Britain that excite his apprehension. He introduces his study of contrasts by quoting Lord GREY on the Singapore controversy: "It will "really make much less trouble with "Japan if we admit frankly that the "contingency really in our mind "* * * is the possibility of war, "however remote, with Japan." Mr. DRAGE begins:

> With regard to battleships, the proportion of five to three laid down by the Washington conference can duly be maintained, but the ability to make use of our battleships to insure the security of Australia and New Zealand, or to safeguard the supply of essential foodstuffs and raw materials to those islands, has been denied us by the decision of the Government to delay the construction of a dock and repairing facilities at Singapore.

That is the Australasian view. In England it is held that the protection of British interests in China also requires a first-class base at Singapore. Hongkong would not be adequate; in fact, could be cut off from the empire by a Japanese fleet emerging from the Formosa Straits before relief arrived from Great Britain. It is not British policy to maintain battleships in the Far East, and it would not be practicable to use them in fleet formation unless they could be based on Singapore. That port is 1,520 miles south of Hongkong. The strategic value to Great Britain of a first-class base at the gateway to the Indian Ocean and to the China Sea is fully understood by Japan.

Taking up Great Britain's resources in light cruisers, Mr. DRAGE says that "those which we now have are more "suited to operations in the North "Sea. They have not the radius of "action required for ocean work, nor "are their guns of the necessary caliber to cope with the 8-inch guns "which the Washington conference "has made the standard." Great Britain has no destroyers of the ocean-going type, according to this authority, though two are to be built, "to try "them out before the large replacement program is undertaken." While the approximate destroyer strength of all types in 1920 is calculated at 120 for Great Britain and eighty for Japan, "our superiority," says Mr. DRAGE, "will rapidly fall, "having regard to the fact that the "life of a destroyer is twelve years." He continues: "In 1932 the relative "strength is approximately ten for "Great Britain, fifty-five for Japan." This would imply an expansion program on the part of Japan and little or no new construction by Great Britain. In 1929, unless Parliament provides the appropriations, Japan's majority in ocean-going submarines will be fifty. Great Britain has been almost at a standstill as regards construction of any types since the Washington Naval Treaty. Giving the Secretary of the Admiralty as an authority, Mr. DRAGE says that "Great "Britain has laid down submarine O1, "and Japan, so far as is known, six "light cruisers, seventeen destroyers "and thirteen submarines."

When it comes to personnel ("the worst point of all," says this critic), the proportion of executive and warrant officers is higher in the Japanese Navy. On Oct. 23, 1923, the Second Sea Lord made the disquieting statement that "we have now a navy "with a very much reduced personnel "of only two-thirds the pre-war "strength." The following month the First Sea Lord declared: "If the "proportion of 5 to 3 is to be main"tained, we are below our numbers in "the Royal Navy." Mr. DRAGE makes the estimate of 18,000. He concludes his analysis by saying that Great Britain is spending £55,800,000 on the navy and more than £400,000,000 "on various forms of public assistance." Japan now has the floor. Probably her experts could make out her navy to be shockingly neglected and weak.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Sacrifices and Resignations.

Who has not felt a certain impatience, mingled with more or less of cynical amusement, on reading that this or that man was willing to make the "large financial sacrifice" involved in "accepting" nomination and election to a public office paying a salary of from $5,000 up to $10,000 or $15,000 or $25,000 a year? But however one may doubt the reality of these "sacrifices"—may doubt if the particular man in question ever earned in private life as much as the office he talked about "accepting" would give him—at least one had to credit him with having had the grace to admit that an opportunity to serve the public was worth to him, and more than made up for, the loss of several thousand dollars.

In quite a different category are the men who, having had for some years an opportunity of that kind, announce the determination to resign because, as they say, they must make a better provision for their families than the salaries of the offices they hold render possible.

That plea usually is heard by most people with more or less of approval, but one of The New Republic's editors this week raises the question whether or not such approval is deserved, and argues with no little force that what is deserved in such cases is not approval, but something like condemnation.

He admits that many official salaries should be somewhat larger than they are, but he insists that the man with a chance to perform public service, especially if he has demonstrated ability in doing it, cuts a sorry figure when he allows the lure of the wealth to be acquired in private life to tempt him into one or another of the activities where the chief reward is money.

Largely a Question of Standards.

There is something of unnecessary harshness, perhaps, in The New Republic's article and in some of the cases covered resentment of the criticism probably would be justified. The argument, however, is more easily resented than refuted by many who are fitted by the cap, and quite sound is the contention that a decent life is possible, and even sufficient provision for a family can be made, on the salaries now paid in any of the offices and positions high enough to be public service as distinguished from mere departmental work.

Rarely will such salaries permit the enjoyment of life's more expensive luxuries, but that is no great calamity when balanced against honor and high repute, even when with them must go the necessity, as The New Republic puts it, "to live austerely." Great wealth is not essential to a widow's comfortable existence, and children are perhaps as often harmed as helped by the inheritance of fortunes. Even small inheritances seem to hurt them in many instances.

The world over, something has told everybody that public service should not lead to riches—that it is well Judges, statesmen and officeholders in general should die poor—poor, that is, in comparison with men who are in business or the professions avowedly for the purpose of acquiring money.

That the public servant should end his days in poverty is quite another matter, disgraceful to the public when it does happen, but it does not happen often.

Says Honesty Cost Him Much.

Signing his name and giving his address, a man writes to THE TIMES, protesting against some of the remarks made recently about JOHN COX, the taxicab driver who returned to their owner some valuable jewels that had been left in his cab by a careless woman. In that case, the writer of the letter admits, honesty was rewarded with honor as well as with money, but he denies that such happy experiences are always or even often the reward of that virtue, and he tells a moving tale of how his own rectitude in the handling of Government money during the war brought to him only the hatred and persecution of his officer associates, demotion in rank from Major to Sergeant, and ultimate banishment to "the most lonely place in Northern Alaska."

Judging from past and current revelations as to what sometimes happened to Government money during and since the war, it may be that this story is true or has in it elements of truth. Corruption and theft did exist at times and places in more than one of the military services, and an honest man unfortunate enough to find himself among a group of ruthless and conscienceless exploiters of war's opportunities for private gain certainly would be the object of dislike when he refused to share in or countenance the looting that was going on. It seems likely, however, that such a man, if of character sufficiently forceful, and of as much determination as honesty, somehow could have carried his knowledge sufficiently far and high to get for it the attention it deserved and for himself the recognition he would have earned as a faithful public servant.

To do this might be difficult, but it would not be impossible. Our correspondent may have done all he could, and failed, but that does not prove, as he apparently has come to believe, that "while honesty may be the best policy, it does not pay."

Criticism Must Be Careful.

Professor CASELLI, who is described in a dispatch from Spezia, Italy, as "a noted seismologist," announces that he has made and patented an apparatus that will give warning of an earthquake fifteen minutes before it arrives. This, if true, is of some importance, for though the time is short, it is long enough to permit those who get it to flee to an open place and to carry with them such of their possessions as are in easily portable form.

It is claimed for the professor also that with the help of his machine he already has been able to demonstrate unquestionably his powers of prophecy as regards earthquakes.

One cannot forget, however, that Professor CASELLI lives in a land where tremors of the earth are not rare, and the fulfillment of a single forecast, or even of several, does not prove much. One notices, too, that he ascribes earthquakes to the influence of the planets, and that verges perilously close to the frontiers of astrology.

But, of course, the planets do exert a pull on the earth, larger or smaller according to their positions; and though it is such a very little pull, it is just possible that it would be enough to touch off an earthquake that long had been preparing. So it is just as well, perhaps, not to laugh too loudly at either the professor's machine or at his theory.

Representative Government.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why all this pother about representative government breaking down? Granted that revolting and sinister conditions are being revealed by processes which remind one of a high school mock trial. Granted also that laws are being passed which the country does not want or need, while laws vital to the nation's peace and prosperity are pigeonholed and neglected. Granted, too, that political ambition seems to be the sole occupant of the Congressional brain cavity. Is not the answer this: that our Government reflects our own negligence and selfishness, and is pretty much what we insist that it shall be?

We have not yet as a nation attained representative government. California wants and gets an immigration law dangerous and obnoxious to the rest of the country. New England wants and gets a tariff law ruinous to the Middle West. A few Legionaries want, and are likely to get, a bonus which our Chief Executive has characterized as without reason or excuse.

When California sends to Washington representatives who hold the nation's welfare above the special desires of their home State; when New England's chosen lawmakers are willing to consider national prosperity before local advantage; when noisy blocs are no longer able to frighten legislators into creating laws detrimental to the country as a whole; when a few mental flat tires are no longer able to block the nation's desire to occupy a decent and dignified position among the Governments of the world; then, and not till then, shall we have representative government. And then we shall have sighted Utopia.

CHARLES BARNETT.

THE SEAMAN'S WIFE.

The sea is God,
The sea brings pain,
The sea brings peace
When it brings him home again;
It brings him home, but it calls him back again!

I hate the sea,
My hate is vain;
I love the sea
When it brings him home again;
It brings him home, but it calls him back again!

So few the nights
With me he's lain;
The sea claims more
But it brings him home again;
It brings him home, but it calls him back again!

When stormy clouds
Are loud with rain
I dread the sea
Will not bring him home again;
It brings him home, but it calls him back again!

If he loved me
And forgot the main,
Unlike it, I
Would not let him go again;
It brings him home, but it calls him back again!

JOHN MANLON.

GETS $300,000 PAINTINGS.

Fearon Obtains Stransky Collection of Famous Works.

A collection of paintings by famous nineteenth-century French artists gathered by Josef Stransky, well-known musical director, has been acquired by the Fearon Galleries, Inc., of New York, at a price, it is said, in the neighborhood of $300,000. The collection is rich in seven Renoirs.

The Phillips Memorial Gallery in Washington recently paid $120,000 for a Renoir, "Les Canotiers," which shows that their value is high. Mr. Fearon now owns "La Dame en Noir" and "L'Officier," which Renoir himself said were the best portraits he had painted. He also has "Lise," the Japanese Parasol," portraying figures in a garden in lovely colors; a little portrait of "Frank Lamy" in the uniform of a French soldier; "La Femme et l'Enfant," shown at the Loan Exhibition of French Art at the Metropolitan Museum in 1921, and a still life of "Les Fleurs."

The Stransky collection has been well known as exceptionally fine, although small, containing not over thirty examples. There are three Courbets of beauty and quality, two of them shown at the centenary exhibition of 1919 at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. There is also an Edouard Manet, "La Promenade," showing a Parisienne gowned in the fashion of the late '70 walking in the Bois de Boulogne. There is also the famous portrait of Mme. Cezanne, painted by Paul Cezanne in 1860, which was formerly in the Kann collection in Paris. Cezanne's work is a rarity in this country.

There are two examples from the brush of Toulouse-Lautrec, one of which was seen last May in the Retrospective Exhibition arranged by the French Government in New York. At that time only the finest work of each artist was selected by the jury and only one painting of each artist was shown. Boudin, Matisse, Pissarro and others complete this remarkable collection.

PLAN INDEPENDENCE PARK.

Stadium Also Suggested for Philadelphia Sesquicentennial.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Beautification of Independence Square as a memorial, pilgrimage park and the construction of a stadium in Fairmount Park to accommodate 150,000 persons were two projects announced by Mayor Kendrick today in connection with his decision to take charge of the sesquicentennial celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in this city.

The first suggestion, in which Mayor Kendrick heartily concurred, was made by Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, wife of the banker, and the second by Judge J. Willis Martin and a committee of citizens.

"Independence Square is really the heart of America," said the Mayor. "I feel that, despite the limited time, we can have a wonderful celebration—one of the pageantry that would utilize all the permanent structures we are building and make the affair representative of art, music and literature."

The Sesquicentennial Association voted at its meeting yesterday to adopt any plan the Mayor might decide on, offered to turn over to him the corporate character of the organization and suspended the by-laws to allow the Mayor to appoint directors.

FEDERAL OWNERSHIP MOVE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Government ownership and operation of telephone and telegraph lines and railroad and express companies under the direction of a department to have representation in the Cabinet is proposed in a bill that will be presented in the House tomorrow by Representative Berger of Wisconsin, the only Socialist in Congress.

The bill provides that the property of all the public utilities concerned shall be declared to be the property of the United States.

In case of refusal to surrender property for the amount offered by the Government it would be the duty of the President to take possession.

A commission of twelve would appraise the physical value of the tangible property, real and personal, and on their valuation the commission would be authorized to issue bonds bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent. which would be offered at a pro rata value in exchange for the shares and bonds or other securities of ownership of the companies owning the properties.

Among other requirements of the bill is one that the Government shall prescribe an eight-hour day for workers in the four divisions.

ASSAILS CONGRESS CRITICS.

Connally, in House, Denounces Gary, Butler and Orrin Lester.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Recent criticisms of Congress by Elbert H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation, President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University and Orrin Lester of the Bowery Savings Bank of New York were assailed in the House today by Representative Connally, Democrat, Texas, who declared the charges "constitute a subtle assault upon Congress as an institution."

Mr. Connally criticized Speaker Gillett and Representative Longworth of Ohio, the Republican leader, for not defending Congress "against its traducers."

From the accusations, he said, he "deemed it a fair conclusion" that their complaints rested on the failure of Congress to enact the Mellon tax plan and its investigation of the "scandals in American official life."

COUZENS IS CONVALESCENT.

Is Expected to Resume His Activities in Senate Before June.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Senator Couzens of Michigan, recently operated on in Baltimore, has so far recovered as to make it probable that he will resume his activities in the Senate investigation of the Internal Revenue Bureau before the June political conventions.

It was said at his office today that the Senator probably would be back at work in a week or so, although some further treatment might be necessary later.

Senator Couzens's employment of Frances J. Heney as counsel for the Revenue Bureau Committee stirred up one of the bitterest controversies of the present Congress, but recently the Senate authorized the committee to proceed. Sessions have been suspended awaiting the return of Mr. Couzens, under whose resolution the inquiry was undertaken.

Chomolonzo, Not Mount Everest.

Peter Taylor of the photographic section of the Mount Everest Expedition supplied to THE NEW YORK TIMES the photograph published as a view of Mount Everest in a rotogravure section of May 4. The authenticity of this picture having been questioned, THE TIMES, on cabled inquiry at Mr. Taylor's London office, has learned from his representative, Captain Daynon, that Mr. Taylor mistook for a photograph of Mount Everest one of Chomolonzo, a near-by peak generally similar to Mount Everest.

CIVIL SERVICE ASS'N PRAISES GOV. SMITH

EXEMPTIONS ARE ATTACKED

Approval of Governor Smith's attitude toward legislation relating to the civil service merit system and criticism of the Municipal Civil Service Commission were emphasized in the annual report of the Executive Committee of the Civil Service Reform Association, presented yesterday at the association's annual meeting at the City Club, 55 West Forty-fourth Street. Announcement was made of the re-election of Samuel H. Ordway as President of the association.

The report also commended Senators Antin, Rabenold, Robinson and Straus and Assemblymen Jenks, Kaufmann and Steinberg for their "constructive legislation and assistance in thwarting the many attacks on the merit system."

The Municipal Civil Service Commission was criticised for granting exemptions for positions of chauffeur-attendant for members of the Board of Estimate who had insisted on such exemptions because of the supposed confidential nature of the positions.

"A more improper application of the discretionary power of the commission to make exceptions could hardly be found," said the report. "The association regrets the State Commission found it possible to approve any such exemption."

The report assailed the exemption of a director of port statistics for Dock Commissioner Delaney, which was disapproved by the State Commission, and expressed satisfaction with the State Commission's refusal to approve the exemption of the Chief Medical Examiner and three assistants of the Board of Education.

Ryan Assailed in Report.

Assailing President Ryan of the Board of Education, the report said: "There was an apparent attempt by Mr. Ryan, the investigator, to discredit or neglect entirely the charges made by the Board of Examiners against Mr. Sheehan, one of its members, and to make the utmost possible out of the counter-charges brought by Mr. Sheehan against other members of the board. Public criticism of the attitude of the investigating committee finally compelled a change on the part of Mr. Ryan. Many facts were disclosed which indicated clearly that improvement could be made in the matter of the administration of the work of the Board of Examiners."

Approval was registered on Governor Smith's signature to a bill providing that removing officers be required to make a written statement of the reasons for the removal and to give the employe concerned an opportunity to answer the charges preferred against him, statement and defense to be a matter of public record.

Of the Steinberg bill for competitive examinations for appointment of district superintendents of schools, principals and directors of special subjects, which passed the Assembly but died in committee in the Senate, the report said:

"We feel that the only sure way to take politics out of the schools is to help those in the schools to keep out of politics. Under the present system of appointment to the higher, professional positions appointments are frequently made apparently for political reasons. Appointees are chosen with little regard for their comparative qualifications. Recent appointments to these positions in the school service best illustrate the need for the adoption of the Steinberg bill. It is unfortunate that the Senate by its failure to pass the Steinberg bill should perpetuate a system which is demoralizing the public school system.

Would Consolidate Pension Systems.

"There were introduced in the Legislature over forty separate proposals affecting the various pension systems for public employes. Only seven of these were passed by the Legislature. The association has opposed four of these measures before the Governor, all of which and one other were vetoed by him.

"The association has before recommended, and it renews the recommendation, that the State Pension Commission make a study of existing pension systems with a view to consolidating such various systems under a general, actuarially sound pension plan so that all employes may be treated equitably and with a due regard to the public interest."

Regret was expressed that Governor Smith signed a bill validating the promotion of Police Captains "who were illegally promoted after the expiration of the eligible list on which they had places." The association, by an appeal to the courts, procured a judgment that such promotions were wholly without legal authority. This legislative action and approval by the Governor were in conflict with the constitutional provision relating to the civil service. We sincerely trust that it will not be repeated."

The report regretted the Governor's approval of a bill increasing the number of deputies and assistants in the office of the Kings County Sheriff from eight to sixteen, and called attention to "the gross waste and extravagance in the use of public funds in political appointment in the Sheriffs offices." It was cited that in the Sheriff's jail in Kings County it cost $9.37 a day per prisoner, "or more than six times the average daily per capita cost in all the institutions of the Department of Correction in New York City."

MARYLAND FOR COOLIDGE.

Convention Insists Congressional Inquiries Had Partisan Bias.

BALTIMORE, May 14.—The Republican State Convention today declared overwhelmingly for President Coolidge as the choice of Maryland Republicanism, and instructed the delegation to support him at Cleveland. As the President won the State in a primary election against an "uninstructed delegation," the instruction today was a mere formality. Maryland will have nineteen votes at Cleveland.

The platform praises the accomplishments of the National Administration, condemns the "public waste, extravagance, greed and corruption which led to a considerable degree prevailed during and since the great war," and goes on to say:

"Wherever wrongdoing has existed it should be punished, and we commend the efforts of the present Executive to that end.

"We declare our firm belief, however, in the orderly processes of Government and protest against the destruction of private character by incompetent and criminal witnesses through the medium of so-called investigations, intended not so much to punish wrongdoing as to promote partisan purposes.

"We recognize in President Coolidge a man of serene courage and proven ability."

Senator O. E. Weller and Gales Li Tait head the list of delegates-at-large, of which fourteen were named with half a vote each. Twelve district delegates were chosen and Presidential electors nominated.

MISS GREEN TO WED PRINCE ON JUNE 10

She Will Be Married to Prince Viggo at Calvary Church by Bishop Manning.

FATHER TO BE BEST MAN

Owing to the Recent Death of Bride-to-Be's Father, Ceremony Will Be Quiet.

Plans have been completed and invitations will be sent out shortly for the marriage of Miss Eleanor Margaret Green to H. R. H. Prince Viggo of Denmark, which will take place in Calvary Church, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street, on the afternoon of June 10. Owing to the recent death of Miss Green's father, Dr. James O. Green, invitations for the wedding will be limited to relatives and the most intimate friends. Miss Green has closed her home at 15 Lexington Avenue and is at the home of her aunts, the Misses Sarah and Eleanor Hewitt, 9 Lexington Avenue, where she will remain until the wedding and where the reception will be held.

The ceremony will be performed by the Right Rev. William T. Manning, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, assisted by the Rev. Theodore Sedgwick, rector of the church. Miss Green will have only one bridal attendant, Miss Emily Lewis Stevens, daughter of Mrs. Edwin A. Stevens and of the late Colonel Stevens of Castle Point, Hoboken. She will be escorted to the chancel by her brother, Nervin Hewitt Green, who will give her in marriage.

H. R. H. Prince Valdemar of Denmark, according to the Danish custom, will act as his son's best man, as he did last February in Ottawa at the marriage of Miss Lois Booth to Prince Erik of Denmark, brother of Prince Viggo.

The ushers will be W. Dudley Carleton, Elliott C. B. Darlington, Robert G. Ingersoll Brown, Robert Hawthorne Fiedler, Lamont Dominick, Edwin A. Stevens and Dr. Donald Gordon of this city.

MRS. WANAMAKER TO WED.

She Will Be Married in Paris to a British Army Officer.

The marriage of Mrs. Cruger Wanamaker, divorced wife of Rodman Wanamaker, to a Major Viney of the British Army, will take place in Paris the end of this month, according to her brother, Bertram de N. Cruger, who sailed yesterday on the Paris to attend the wedding of his sister. Mr. Cruger could give no information regarding the family of Major Viney, or even his first name. Mrs. J. Frederic Tams, Mrs. Wanamaker's mother, also said last night that while the marriage would take place she had no further knowledge of the details.

When Mrs. Wanamaker was in New York some weeks ago a report of her engagement to a British officer was current but was denied by her and by members of her family.

The former Mrs. Rodman Wanamaker was Miss Violet D. Cruger, daughter of the late Eugene Gaillo Cruger of New York and of the present Mrs. J. Frederic Tams of Tuxedo and this city. She was married to Rodman Wanamaker in London in 1909. In November of last year Mrs. Wanamaker sued for divorce in the Paris courts and obtained a decree. Her family expressed surprise at the news, although friends said the couple had been estranged for the past two years and that the divorce was not unexpected.

MISS JOURDAN A BRIDE.

The marriage of Miss Natalie Jourdan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Jourdan of 410 Park Avenue, to Henry Lewis O'Brien of Garden City, L. I., took place yesterday afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Church. The Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of the church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. John N. Lewis of Waterbury, Conn. The ceremony was followed by a reception at Sherry's.

The bride was attended by Miss Ruth Engle as maid of honor, Mrs. Henry M. Minton, the Misses Louise Callender, Hetty Jamison of Pittsburgh, Margaret Covell, Lois Williams and Violet H. Tangeman. Donal C. O'Brien was his brother's best man. The ushers were Ramon O. Williams, Willard A. Kiggens, Robert B. Blum, Henry M. Minton, Briton Hadden, Walter Rice Brewster, Louis Brown Gately and Thomas W. Baife.

WEDDING A SURPRISE.

No Relatives at Ceremony of H. W. Bonwit and Miss Kathryn Lyons.

Harold W. Bonwit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bonwit of the Gladstone Hotel, 114 East Fifty-second Street, and Miss Kathryn Lyons of Brooklyn were married on Tuesday at Borough Hall, Brooklyn. Their marriage, which was hastily arranged, will come as a surprise to their friends.

No formal announcement of their engagement had been made, and when the young couple decided to get married they went to the Marriage License Bureau in Brooklyn, where the ceremony was performed, and then notified their relatives. Mrs. Paul Bonwit hurried over to Brooklyn to meet her new daughter-in-law, as she approved of her son's choice, although there had been no formal engagement announcement.

Harold Bonwit is associated in business with his father, who is President of Bonwit, Teller & Co., of New York. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Honore Lyons of Brooklyn. They will visit several cities in the East on their honeymoon.

MISS MARY WALLACE WED.

She Is Married to the Secretary of the Swiss Legation in Paris.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—President and Mrs. Coolidge attended the wedding this afternoon of Miss Mary Wallace, daughter of Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace, and Dr. Charles Bruggmann, Secretary of the Swiss Legation in Paris. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, the pastor emeritus, the Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, officiating.

Dr. Bruggmann and his bride will sail from New York Saturday aboard the President Roosevelt. They will spend a short time in Paris before going to his home in Switzerland to visit his sister. Later they will return to Paris, where Dr. Bruggmann was transferred from Washington a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Moody Wed 25 Years.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moody gave a dinner and dance last night in the Crystal Room of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Buck, Mr. and Mrs. William C. de Mille, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Grant, Mrs. P. P. Van de Water, Miss Dorothea Darlington, Miss Anita de Goll, Miss Minette Barrett, Mrs. E. C. Addison, C. Pelham Darlington, Rafaelo Diaz, John E. Moody, Addison de Goll and Oliver Denton.

Miss Agnes Ashford Engaged.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Snowden Ashford announce the engagement of their daughter, Agnes, to Ensign Robert Pierre Robert, U. S. N., son of Captain and Mrs. William Pierre Robert. The wedding will take place the first week in June. Miss Ashford was a débutante of the past season. Ensign Robert is a graduate of the Naval Academy, class of 1922.

STATE BALL IN LONDON TO RUMANIAN ROYALTY

Queen Mary Bans Fox-Trots at the Last Function Given for Visiting Sovereigns.

LONDON, May 14 (Associated Press).—The last state function in honor of the visit of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania to London was a brilliant state ball at Buckingham Palace tonight. The guests numbered about 2,000 peers, Ministers and distinguished personages of all ranks. The ballroom and other apartments were banked with flowers and the famous gold plate was on display in the gorgeous decorative scheme.

King George and Queen Mary and the Rumanian sovereigns having opened the ball by leading in the formal quadrille d'honneur, much of the evening was given over to dancing. The dances, however, were confined largely to waltzes. There were no modern dances, such as the fox-trot, in the program, which was arranged by Queen Mary herself.

The prospect of seeing two Kings and two Queens together brought a rush of visitors to the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley today, and when King George and Queen Mary and King Ferdinand and Queen Marie drove up to the gates in a motor car there were many thousands of persons waiting inside to catch a glimpse of the royal personages.

The sudden rise of forty-eight degrees in the temperature since yesterday and the glorious sunshine were rather too much for the two Kings, who frequently removed their hats and mopped their foreheads with handkerchiefs; but the Queens looked quite cool, dressed in light Summer attire, and examined everything with smiling interest.

CUSHING CHILD BAPTIZED.

One of the Sponsors Is Mrs. Vanderbilt—Vanderbilt Christening Today.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Cushing 3d was christened yesterday morning in the baptistry of the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral. The ceremony of baptism was performed by the Rev. William B. Martin, rector of the Church of the Holy Family in New Rochelle, assisted by the Rev. Bernard McQuaid of the Cathedral Parish. The child was called after his father and will be the fourth in line to have that name. He will be known as Harry C. Cushing 4th. The infant is a great-great-grandchild of Commodore Vanderbilt through his mother, who was Miss Cathleen Vanderbilt, daughter by the first marriage of Reginald Vanderbilt. Mrs. Cushing is also a granddaughter of Mrs. Frederic Neilson of this city and Newport. The sponsors at the baptism were Mrs. Vanderbilt, great-grandmother of the child; Reginald C. Vanderbilt, his maternal grandfather; Clarence H. Mackay and Miss Ellin Mackay. In addition to the sponsors and the parents of the infant there were no other witnesses for the christening. Mr and Mrs. Cushing were married last June in the Italian Garden of the Ambassador and now are living at 26 East Ninety-fifth Street.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, 12 East Seventy-seventh Street, this afternoon their infant daughter will be christened in the presence of numerous relatives and friends of the family. The child will be called after her mother, who was Miss Gloria Morgan, one of the twin daughters of Harry Hays Morgan, American Consul General at Brussels, and of Mrs. Morgan, who at present is with Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt until they sail for Europe on May 24. Mr. Vanderbilt and his second wife were married a year ago last March at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward von der Horst Koch, 6 East Ninety-second Street.

HOLD A GARDEN PARTY.

Fashionable Gathering Attends International Club's Event.

The annual garden party of the International Garden Club was held yesterday afternoon at its club house, the old Bartow mansion in Pelham Bay Park. The Colonial house with its garden blooming with cherry blossoms, dogwood and other flowers formed a striking background for the event, which was largely attended by a fashionable gathering. An Italian stringed orchestra in national costume played on the terrace while tea was being served. The hostesses included Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mrs. Frederick Prime Delafield, and Mrs. Frederick T. Allen.

Among the guests were Mrs. Edward R. Stettinius, Mrs. Robert Waller, Mrs. Charles G. Franklyn, Mrs. Edward R. Hewitt, Mrs. W. Henry Harrison, Miss Marie La Montague, Mrs. De Forest Grant, Dr. and Mrs. Leland R. Cofer, Mrs. James M. Varnum, Mrs. Philip A. S. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Davis, Mrs. Russell C. Leffingwell, Mrs. Benjamin Brewster, Mrs. Frederic H. Betts, Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, Mrs. Charles R. Henderson, Mrs. Pierson Hamilton, Mrs. Alfred C. Chapin, Mrs. Moses Taylor Campbell, Mrs. Grenville Kane, Mrs. Hamilton Fish, Mrs. Lewis Gawtry, Mrs. J. Todhunter Thompson, Frederic T. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harkness Flagler, Miss Dorothy Schiefelin, Mrs. Charles A. Child, and Mrs. Henry Redmond.

To Hold Garden Party Today.

The annual garden party of the Board of Managers and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the New York Zoological Society will take place this afternoon. A number of luncheons will be given in advance of the garden party, including that of Mrs. Henry Bird at the Plaza. Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, Chairman of the Ladies' Auxiliary, will receive and will be assisted by the other members of the auxiliary.

DEATH OF DR. SUN IS NOW ANNOUNCED

LONG A STORM CENTRE

HONGKONG, May 14. (Associated Press).—Dr. Sun Yat-sen, President of the South China Government, is dead.

Report of Death Had Been Denied.

The death of Sun Yat-sen had been previously reported but denied at his headquarters in Canton.

With the passing of Sun the future of the South China Republic is in doubt, as there is no outstanding figure to take his place.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen was the storm centre of Chinese internal affairs for nearly thirty years.

He was born in the Kuangtung province in 1866. His father was a native Christian farmer. He learned English at an early age and studied under Dr. Kerr of the American mission. From 1887 to 1892 he was a student at the College of Medicine in Hongkong and was an assistant of the Alice Memorial Hospital there. He received his degree as a Doctor of Medicine in 1892. He began the practice of his profession at Macao and then moved to Canton, where he organized the Young China Party and became an active revolutionary. At this early stage of his career he displayed more interest in politics than in medicine. He was an organizer of secret societies and leader of conspiracies against the established order of things.

In 1896 he arrived in England, and in October of that year was kidnapped outside the Chinese Legation. He was imprisoned in the basement but managed to smuggle a note addressed to his former teacher, Sir James Cantlie. Cantlie took the note to the Foreign Office and Lord Salisbury sent policemen to the legation. It was learned then that it had been planned to smuggle Sun Yat-sen aboard a vessel bound for China, where there was a price on his head. He was released.

Although an exile, he was generally regarded by the Young China Party as its leader. In 1911, when the Chinese revolution broke out prematurely at Wuchang, he was in England, but he hurried back to China and arrived in Shanghai in time to be acclaimed as the originator of the republican program and elected Provisional President by the delegates to the National Convention at Nanking.

On Jan. 5, 1912, he issued a manifesto, countersigned by Wu Ting-fang as Minister of Foreign Affairs, in which the purposes and policies of the Republican Government were proclaimed. A month later an Imperial edict announced the abdication of the Manchus and relinquished the Provisional Presidency in favor of Yuan Shih-kai. At that time he was applauded for his action as evidence of his patriotism, but later it was declared that he did so because he realized that he and the Cantonese Party could not had joined him were not sufficiently strong to form a national Government.

He was appointed Director of National Railways and advocated an extensive program of railroad construction. He strongly urged the transfer of the National capital from Peking to Wuchang or Nanking. His authority as Director of Railways was canceled at the outbreak of the rebellion and on the death of the Wuhan Shih-kai he became one of the Cantonese group of politicians which waged continual warfare against the party in power at Peking.

MACDOUGAL ALLEY FETE.

Southern Women's Educational Alliance Benefits by Event.

Macdougal Alley was transformed last night into a Southern garden for the opening of the fête given there for the benefit of the Southern Women's Educational Alliance, an organization which provides vocational training for young women in remote sections of the South. A large gathering visited the studios of well-known artists in the Alley, which were thrown open to the guests. Among the hostesses were Miss Bonnie Maclean, the young Texas sculptor, whose statue "Aspiration" has just been acquired by the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Specimens of the work of the various artists were on sale, a percentage of the proceeds going direct to the Alliance. Among the exhibits were etchings, pottery, wood-carving and paintings. Other attractions were a tea-room, where Southern dishes were served by waitresses in picturesque costumes; fortune-telling booths, and musical programs. The Norfleet Trio gave a concert of chamber music in the studio of Daniel Chester French. Other artists who appeared were Miss Nanna Johnson, soprano; Mme. Bianca Randall, soprano; Max Weiser, violinist; Angelo Travallo, tenor; George Beverly Bohee, colored banjoist, and Miss Betsy Ayres of the Capitol Theatre.

Among the artists appearing tonight are Rafaelo Diaz of the Metropolitan Opera Company and Miss Marguerite Agniel, who will give Oriental dances. Miss Agniel posed for Miss Bonnie MacLeary's "Ariadne."

MRS. SMITH BETTER.

Governor and His Family at Her Bedside All Evening.

Mrs. Catherine Smith, mother of Governor Smith, who has been seriously ill for a week with pneumonia at her home, 9 Middagh Street, Brooklyn, was reported last night to be showing a slight but steady improvement in her condition. Her family physician, Dr. John H. Reb, said that although the crisis of the illness was not yet passed, his patient was breathing easier than she had for several days and that she was resting comfortably. Her temperature had dropped to 101, her pulse was 90, and respiration 48.

Governor Smith, his wife and children were at the house throughout the evening. The Governor was obviously much cheered by the physician's report, which gave real hope that his mother would recover from this attack as she had from a similar one four and a half years ago. The Governor and his family are at the Hotel Bossert in Brooklyn. The next twenty-four hours will decide the outcome of Mrs. Smith's illness, her physicians say.

Greek Statesman Dies.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, May 14.—Emanuel Repoulis, one of the most trusted Greek statesmen, died this morning in his native town of Kranim, after a brief illness. A few hours before his death the Government awarded him the Grand Cross of the Order of the Redeemer in recognition of his services to the nation, and he will be accorded a State funeral.

Robert S. Paviour.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 14.—Robert S. Paviour, known throughout the country in insurance circles, died at a hospital here today after a brief illness, aged 65 years. Mr. Paviour held office in local, State and national agents' associations at various times and was identified with many progressive movements in the insurance field during the last quarter of a century.

John Duffy Dies at 104.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—John Duffy, pioneer resident of Missouri, former grain dealer and until recently prominent in horse-racing circles, died here last night within eleven days of his 104th birthday. He was an enthusiastic pedestrian and had attributed his longevity to walking.

BRIG. GEN. J. W. BARKER DIES IN A HOSPITAL

His Widow Will Arrive on Sunday on the Leviathan—Was Observer With French Army.

Brig. Gen. John W. Barker, who was Colonel of the 165th Infantry overseas during the early months of 1918 and before the United States entered the war was a neutral observer with the French Army, died yesterday morning in the Neurological Hospital, 130 East Sixty-seventh Street, of a paralytic stroke following a series of complications. He was 51 years old, a native of Syracuse and a son of Frederick W. Barker, President of the Syracuse Savings Bank. He leaves a widow and two brothers, Robert M. Barker of Syracuse, and Frederick W. Barker Jr. of Morristown, N. J. Arrangements for the funeral await the arrival from France of his widow, who is due Sunday on the Leviathan.

General Barker was graduated from West Point in 1894 and first served his country in the Pullman strike in Chicago. He fought through the Spanish-American War and nearly lost his life from yellow fever at Santiago. In 1911, in the course of his service in the Philippines, he was severely wounded in suppressing a Moro uprising, and the old injury, combined with the effect of his exhausting labors in the World War, led to his retirement for disability a year ago.

In the Spring of 1914 he was in France studying French infantry tactics and in the Fall of that year President Wilson appointed him an observer with the French Army. On our entrance into the conflict he was placed on General Pershing's staff and performed valuable work in translating French military textbooks. He took command of the 165th, the old Sixty-ninth, in February, 1918, succeeding Colonel C. D. Hines, and remained with the regiment through the battles of Luneville and Baccarat. In the Summer he was made a Brigadier General and transferred to staff duty at Washington headquarters. He received the Croix de Guerre and the rank of officer in the Legion of Honor. Last month he was cited for gallantry in Cuba and the Philippines.

Henry F. Urban.

Henry F. Urban, for many years a correspondent of the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, playwright and author of books on America, died Tuesday night of heart disease at his home, 101 West 100th Street, aged 61. He spent most of his life in this country, writing for various German-American publications. Recently he had conducted for the American Monthly the column known as the German-American Chronicle. Among his comedies performed at local German theatres were "Der Frescikönig" and "Dollarika." Last March an article of his published in Germany stated that Americans are very backward in artistic sense. Mr. Urban leaves a widow.

Dr. Charles B. Stevens.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 14.—Dr. Charles B. Stevens, aged 59 years, one of the most widely known of Worcester's physicians and recognized as a specialist in contagious diseases, died suddenly at his residence here this morning. Dr. Stevens was a member of the Worcester Club, Tatnuck Country Club, Amherst Alumni Association, and Economic Club, and of the Worcester District Medical Society, Massachusetts Medical Society and American Medical Association, and he was a prominent Mason.

Mrs. Adelaide Belle Colton.

Following a series of operations for pernicious anemia, Mrs. Adelaide Belle Colton, 46 years old, wife of Cecil F. Colton, who for nineteen years had been private Secretary to Reginald C. Vanderbilt, died late Tuesday night at the Fifth Avenue Hospital, Fifth Avenue and 105th Street. Mrs. Colton had been in ill health for two years. During the World War Mrs. Colton did notable work at General Hospital No. 1, on Gun Hill Road, and it was a result of unceasing efforts to aid during the national crisis that her health began to decline.

Dr. Carl E. Martin.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 14.—Dr. Carl E. Martin, for more than half a century actively identified with music in New York and Greenwich, died at the Greenwich Hospital tonight following a two months' illness, aged 74 years. He was widely known several years ago both in this country and Canada as an oratorio and concert singer.

Obituary Notes.

HULBERT DEFENDS INVASION OF PARK

Says It Would Be Better for the People to Go to Bronx or Van Cortlandt.

WINGATE FOR PLAY SPACES

City Recreation Committee Gets Reports on Welfare Work—Praise for Mrs. Rumsey.

Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, defended his stand in favor of appropriating acreage in Central Park for a site for an art centre and war memorial at the luncheon of the City Recreation Committee, at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday, by stating that 3,200 acres of park space has been provided elsewhere, and that in these places the children of New York will be much better cared for than they have been in the old parks.

Mr. Hulbert declared that the character of parks has changed, and that as the population of the city has increased the small parks have been wholly inadequate and are now more monuments than playgrounds. This is true, he said, even of Central Park.

"Instead of centring attention on the small parks where children are unable to get the recreation and fresh air they need," he said, "we should improve the State parks and create interest of the families in the congested areas in them. Practically all these people have to take the subway to get to Central Park, and it would be far better for them to go further to the Bronx, Van Cortlandt or other park areas where they can really enjoy nature."

General George W. Wingate, President of the Public Schools Athletic League, spoke on the importance not only of playgrounds, but of instructors and supervisors for them. He said that it was cheaper to establish playgrounds than to pay prison cost for the upkeep for youths who become criminals through lack of places to go as children.

A resolution of appreciation for the work done by Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, Treasurer of the organization, was read in which Mrs. Rumsey was credited with originating the idea of the committee and its cooperation with other committees in carrying on welfare work.

The City Recreation Committee is a common service committee of thirty-eight organizations interested in recreation, whose voting membership is composed of one delegate from each organization. It has been instrumental in having State lands in the city turned over to the city for park, playground and recreation development.

Officers elected yesterday were General George W. Wingate, Honorary Chairman; Raymond V. Ingersoll, First Chairman; Mrs. Charles Lay, Vice Chairman; Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, Treasurer; Mrs. J. J. McCormick, Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, Mrs. V. G. Simkhovitch, Merton J. Stickel, James V. Mulholland, Leo F. Hammer, John J. Downing, Seymour Barnard and Eugene C. Gibney, members of the Executive Committee.

BERLIN SUICIDES USE GAS.

Increasing Tragedies Lead to Equipping Firemen With Oxygen Tanks.

BERLIN, May 14.—Suicide by gas has increased to such an extent in Berlin within the last few months that the firemen have been equipped with oxygen tanks and the public is urged to call the firemen whenever such a case is discovered.

It has been found that firemen as first aid are much quicker in responding to calls than the emergency hospital ambulances. One morning recently there were ten attempted suicides in Berlin, each by gas, and the firemen saved them all.

King Albert Receives W. H. Booth Jr.

BRUSSELS, May 14.—King Albert today received Willis H. Booth Jr. of New York, President of the International Chamber of Commerce. After the audience Mr. Booth addressed the Industrial Central Committee on the work of the Chamber. In the evening he was the guest of honor at a banquet at which were present Premier Theunis and Paul Hymans, the Foreign Minister.

POTOMAC FLOOD ABATES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The flood waters of the Potomac River here were abating tonight and the greatest danger period had passed.

The high water mark of the flood was reached at 3:44 o'clock this morning, when the official gauge registered a rise of 12.1 feet above normal mark. This was six-tenths of a foot higher than yesterday.

There was another downpour of rain at Harper's Ferry, the juncture of the Potomac and Shenandoah, this afternoon, but Weather Bureau officials do not believe it will have any serious effect on the subsiding river.

Dispatches from Cumberland also reported that the flood had subsided to a point where trains were being sent over the main railroads to determine whether the traffic could be resumed.

FREDERICK, Md., May 14.—The third span of the old highway bridge crossing the Potomac River at Harper's Ferry collapsed this afternoon under pressure of the flood waters. There were no casualties.

Vacation in Alaska

NORTHERN PACIFIC

Where Glaciers and Ocean Meet

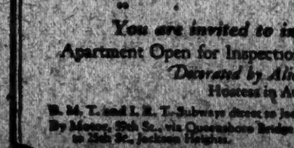
Plan to visit Alaska early in the season—in May and June this wonderland is especially alluring and the voyage delightful. September, too.

See Ketchikan creek teeming with fish, Wrengell's old Indian totem poles, the icebergs dropping straight into the sea from Taku glacier. Visit Juneau, the capital, and Russian Sitka, the oldest settlement on the Pacific Coast.

Attractive side trips by rail may be made into the interior of this remarkably interesting country.

$218.32 [Round Trip Rail and ship] New York to Alaska

The famous Inland Passage, Seattle to Skagway and return, is the route. Wonderful food, balmy weather and flowers tropical in their luxuriance combine to make this journey the wonder voyage of the year.



I shall be glad to give you literature and information on sailings and accommodations.

WARNS THE BOOKSELLERS

Tells Convention Delegates That "Nosey Minds" Hope to Control the Nation's Presses.

BARES BRIBE SOLICITATION

Says He Was Told He Could Show "Birth of a Nation" in Ohio by Paying $10,000.

Thomas Dixon, whose novel "The Clansman" was presented on the screen under the title of "The Birth of a Nation," told the delegates of the American Booksellers Association in convention at the Commodore yesterday that if a censorship of literature became a reality in this country it would be political in form and would bring corruption in its wake. As proof he cited his experiences in Ohio. There, he said, although "The Birth of a Nation" had been refused a license, he was informed recently that a license could be obtained in return for $10,000 cash and 10 per cent. of the profits. He was careful to say, however, that he did not accuse the Ohio Board of Censors.

Mr. Dixon asserted that unless every effort was made to fight the present movement to bring about a censorship of books and pictures, such a censorship would be nation-wide within ten years and that it would take fifty years to recall it and might not be accomplished without a revolution of violence.

Mr. Dixon stirred the delegates to prolonged applause. Many left their seats and surrounded him to grasp his hand in approval.

"I see I am down for a talk on 'Censorship,'" said Mr. Dixon. "That is peculiarly interesting to me, for I have been fighting it privately and publicly for fifteen years. As an author I am opposed to a pre-view censorship of pictures or of books. This power is absolutely unnecessary in a democratic free republic such as this because you already have the machinery of censorship of pictures and of books. Were I to write and some one to publish a filthy story I would be a fool and the publisher would be a fool, because the exploitation of filth never has succeeded in this country in plays or pictures or books. And our common law covers the matter, for the author or publisher of a filthy book can be arrested and fined and imprisoned and the book can be confiscated.

"The itch for censorship is a contagious mental disease. Once it starts it goes on. It spreads from one nosey mind to another. It began ten years ago in the censorship of moving pictures. The identical principle is involved in a censorship of books. I told those men who were seeking it then that once they got a censorship of pictures they would seek a censorship of books and they said 'No.' But there the bill is pending in Albany and now they openly avow that they will not stop until they control every press in the United States.

"If this succeeds do you know what sort of censorship we will have here? This is a republic in which the peanut politician is supreme. A censorship would be that of a group of peanut politicians. It would not be an intellectual or moral censorship. It would be political. If there was a Democratic Administration we would have a Democratic board of censors, and if there was a Republican Administration we would have a Republican board of censors.

"And in the wake of such a censorship there would come—but let me tell you by my own experience. When 'The Birth of a Nation' was first made the Republican Board of Censors in the State of Ohio refused to let it be shown on the ground that it would cause race hatreds. Well, at the next election we asked the candidates for Governor for their opinion on censorship, and one of them—he was a Democrat and his name was James M. Cox—was against it. So we got behind him and he was elected and then he turned out that terrible Republican board and appointed a Democratic Board of Censor.

"Now these Democratic censors—they were angels, these men—gave a license for 'The Birth of a Nation' and it was shown for two years or so and there were no riots and no race hatreds.

"Then there was another election and the Republicans won. They appointed a Republican Board of Censors and they at once withdrew the license for 'The Birth of a Nation' and we had to stop showing the film. But within the past six weeks we have had offers from two different men in two different parts of the State of Ohio to procure a license for 'The Birth of a Nation' from that Republican Board of Censors in return for $10,000 cash and 10 per cent. of the profits. I don't say that the Board of Censorship of Ohio sent the offers, but some one did and I draw attention to the fact that two offers from two different quarters of the State ask identical terms.

"God Almighty never made a man or a woman good enough, broad enough, wise enough to hold the autocratic power to place hands on the throat of an author and say, 'You shall think only as I think and write only what I say shall be written.'"

Later Mr. Dixon said the solicitation of the bribe came in six telegrams and seven letters, three of which were addressed to him personally. He also said that he had seen one of the men and had spoken to him. He denied, however, that any step had been taken to accept the proposition.

SAYS WE STARVE VETERANS.

Judge Frees Soldier Who Stole and Scores Government.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 14.—Governmental penuriousness in the treatment of disabled veterans of the World War was roundly scored by Judge James P. Gorter in Part 2 of the Criminal Court today following the conviction for larceny of Charles E. Dowling, a wounded veteran living at 3,805 Hamilton Avenue.

Justice Gorter dismissed the charges against Dowling, and said:

"The United States Government is the real criminal in this case. Here is a man who served his country willingly and fearlessly when his country needed him. He was wounded and gassed in this service and is now unable to work.

"He has a wife and child dependent upon him, and yet, for all that he has done for his country, his country will not, in his extremity, give him enough money so that he and his family can live. Thus he is driven to dishonesty.

"It would be far better to cease this talk of a bonus for ablebodied soldiers and give disabled men an allowance which would enable them to live without stealing."

Court Warns Pickpockets Not to Come for Convention

A warning to pickpockets coming to New York for the Democratic National Convention was issued yesterday by Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman in Jefferson Market Court when he sentenced two negroes, who had been in town but a week, to the workhouse on a charge of jostling passengers in the Interborough subway's Times Square station. William Armstrong got three months and Charles Thomas five months. Both have been living at 809 Sixth Avenue.

Magistrate Goodman said he had heard numerous pickpockets were coming here in the hope of rich "hauls" during convention days and he was going to do his share to protect delegates and citizens.

Saying that Thomas had been arrested twenty times in Detroit, the Court added:

JURY OF CITIZENS TO CENSOR PLAYS

ITS DECISION TO BE FINAL

All Parties Bound by Verdict Even If It Involves Withdrawal of the Production.

Delegates to the 141st diocesan convention of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, which ended late yesterday afternoon at Synod House at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, were told that definite arrangements have been agreed to by all parties concerned for putting into effect with the new theatrical season next Fall the "citizens' jury" system of passing on complaints of immorality in theatrical productions.

The Rev. Charles A. Gilbert, Executive Secretary of the Social Service Commission of the diocese, said that the final arrangements had been made ten days ago, but that no announcement was made then because of the possibility of an actors' strike.

Mr. Gilbert told the convention that although the scheme had been proposed some time ago it had never become operative, largely, he said, because the Commissioner of Licenses had not been persuaded it was the best way to handle the problem.

At the recent conference, however, Mr. Glatsmayer, meeting with representatives of the commission, the Drama League, the producing managers, the Actors' Equity Association and the playwrights, had agreed to accept the plan and invoke the citizens' jury when necessary.

"The agreement that was made," said Mr. Gilbert, "binds all parties to accept absolutely the verdict of the jury, even if it calls for the total withdrawal of the production in question, involving a great monetary loss."

Controversy Is Barred.

No differences of opinion between the Fundamentalist group and the Modernists were allowed to be aired yesterday. The committee recommended that the two resolutions which it had been feared might start a controversy be tabled. The Rev. Philip W. Faunteroy of Lake Mahopac, who had offered the resolution that the convention endorse the "Fundamentalist" pastoral letter of the House of Bishops, attempted to object to this disposition of the subject.

Bishop Manning, who presided, ruled that a motion to table was not debatable. The motion to table was carried by an overwhelming majority. When the Rev. Mr. Faunteroy attempted to speak, urging that a rule gave him two minutes to defend his motion, the Bishop ruled him out of order and requested him to resume his seat.

In recommending that the two controversial resolutions be tabled, the Rev. Dr. E. Clowes Chorley, Chairman of the committee, read a resolution adopted by the committee which concluded as follows:

"We believe endless confusion would result if the pastoral letters were generally canvassed by the dioceses. No useful purpose would be served by the adoption of either of these resolutions and the discussion might revive a controversy which would result in incalculable harm."

Some of the leading liberals were not present in the convention when the matter was being discussed. The Rev. Percy Stickney Grant was just coming in when reported told him the "Fundamentalist" resolution had been tabled.

"This convention should have the largest table ever made," he said. He made the point that as a result of the action taken the diocesan delegates to the triennial convention in New Orleans in 1925 would be without guidance or instruction as to the sentiment of the diocese with regard to disputed doctrines.

Diocesan Officers Elected.

Standing Committee, class of 1928—Clerical, Rev. Dr. H. Percy Silver; lay, Edmund L. Baylies.

Board of Religious Education, class of 1927—Rev. Dr. Lawrence T. Cole and Rev. Dr. Raymond C. Knox; lay, Mrs. Joseph Peck Robinson and H. H. Pike.

NEW RADIO SALES PLAN.

Dealers Ask That Improved Sets Not Be Announced Until Ready.

At a luncheon of the Talking Machine and Radio Men's Association yesterday at the Café Boulevard it was decided to suggest to radio manufacturers that no announcement be made of new, improved sets until the apparatus actually is ready for distribution to dealers and for sale to the public.

It was said that announcements of new sets caused the public to defer buying those now offered for sale and that retailers were having difficulty in disposing of their present stock.

FULLER TESTIFIES HE KNEW RENDIGS

Bucketeer Swears He and the Defendant Became Acquainted Six Years Ago.

TELLS OF A CONFERENCE

Accused Juror and Fallon Met in W. F. McGee's Apartment Before the Trial, He Says.

Edward M. Fuller, head of the brokerage firm which failed for $5,000,000 three years ago and who, with his partner, William F. McGee, is under a fifteen-month sentence for bucketing orders of customers, was the principal witness yesterday in Judge Talley's part of General Sessions at the trial of Charles W. Rendigs, a manufacturer, on an indictment that Rendigs committed perjury when he was being examined as a juror in Fuller's third trial, which resulted in a disagreement.

Rendigs swore before being accepted as a juror that he didn't know Fuller or McGee or William J. Fallon, their lawyer in the criminal proceedings against the bucketing brokers. Fuller told the jury yesterday that he had been acquainted with Rendigs for almost six years and that they first met when both of them occupied apartments in a house in West Fifty-fifth Street.

Fuller also swore that several months before Rendigs was accepted as a juror in the third trial, and when Fuller was about to be placed on trial for the first time, when the jury also disagreed, he saw Rendigs and Mr. Fallon, who is appearing as counsel for Rendigs, with Leonard Snitkin, a lawyer, in the apartment of McGee, Fuller's partner, in West Seventy-fifth Street. This testimony was in corroboration of the testimony given the day before by McGee, when he was on the witness stand for the prosecution. Marshall Ward, a member of a Stock Exchange firm, also corroborated McGee's statement about this meeting when he was called to the stand by Assistant District Attorney Wintner earlier in the day, and Fuller closed his testimony by telling of another meeting between Mr. Fallon and Rendigs, before the last Fuller trial, in the Knickerbocker Grill, Broadway and Forty-second Street.

Fuller and McGee have been kept on Governors Island for a year, on a commitment signed by Federal Judge Goddard holding them in contempt for failing to produce papers of their firm which they had obtained from the bankruptcy trustee after the failure. While they were in Ludlow Street Jail on this commitment they pleaded guilty before Judge Nott in General Sessions on a bucketing charge, and will begin the sentence of from fifteen months to four years in Sing Sing when Judge Goddard cancels the commitment.

Lived in Same House With Rendigs.

Fuller, under examination of Assistant District Attorney Wintner, said that Mr. Fallon had been retained to defend him in the criminal proceedings by Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, who was a witness in the Fuller & Co. bankruptcy proceedings, and who recently was indicted as a result of his testimony. Then he told of his acquaintanceship with Rendigs, explaining that Rendigs lived on one of the lower floors of the West Fifty-fifth Street house, while Fuller lived on the sixth floor.

He swore that the meeting between Mr. Fallon and Rendigs in McGee's apartment took place on Nov. 12, 1922. He said that Mr. Fallon and Ernest Hellitz, then a client in the latter's office, and who is a missing witness in the Rendigs case, called for him at Fuller's home and accompanied him to McGee's apartment. Fuller also swore that after their arrival, on instruction from the lawyer, used the telephone, and soon after Rendigs appeared. There were several others in the McGee apartment, he continued.

In a few minutes, he went on, Mr. Fallon and Rendigs went into an adjoining room, and remained closeted there for half an hour. He denied that in return for his testimony he had been offered a reward by the prosecuting authorities. He added that his only hope was that he could keep out of further trouble.

Before Fuller was turned over to Mr. Fallon for cross-examination Judge Talley, at the request of Mr. Wintner, instructed the witness that he could decline to answer questions on the ground that they might "degrade and incriminate" him. Fuller took advantage of this advice when Mr. Fallon asked him many questions about amounts of money he had stolen from customers.

Fuller admitted in reply to other questions by the cross-examiner that he had discussed with United States Attorney Hayward indictments which were pending against the witness in the Federal Court, and added: "He told me to tell the truth and he would see what he could do about it in Washington."

Mr. Fallon then asked Fuller if the names of "Tom" Foley, Tammany leader, and Charles A. Stoneham, former broker and now head of the Giants baseball club, had been mentioned by Fuller to the Federal Grand Jury or the Fuller bankruptcy investigation, and the witness answered: "Stoneham's name was mentioned, but not Foley's."

McGee, Fuller's partner, had testified at the trial the day before that Stoneham's first time was a part owner of Fuller & Co.

Admits Stoneham Was in the Firm.

Pressed with more questions about Foley, Fuller declared that he had never testified about the Tammany leader. Then Fuller admitted that Stoneham for a short time was a member of Fuller & Co.

Fuller denied that while he and McGee, his partner, were in the Tombs on the bucketing indictments, he made demands for money on Foley and Stoneham as the price of withholding their names from connection with Fuller & Co. He denied that he made such demands through Harold Norris, a representative of a surety company, that his mother and Fuller's wife, Florence Ely, the actress, made such demands.

Mr. Ward, who is a member of the brokerage firm of Einstein, Ward & Co., when called as a witness by Mr. Wintner before Fuller took the stand, said that he was in McGee's West Seventy-fifth Street apartment on the day Mr. Fallon and Rendigs were alleged to have had a conversation. He admitted that his recollection of the meeting was hazy. He said that there was much drinking in the McGee apartment while he was there.

Fuller denied that liquor had ever been served to him on Governors Island. He admitted that Mr. Ward visited him there once or twice.

"Who cooked your meals and attended to your affairs at Governors Island?" asked Mr. Fallon.

"McGee," the witness replied, and several jurors laughed.

The witness said that Florence Ely had made it a practice to visit him on the island two or three times a week, and, in reply to a question from the lawyer, said he didn't know where she was stopping, but believed she was with an aunt.

The trial will be continued this morning.

Glass Wins Harvard's Nomination.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 14.—Senator Carter Glass of Virginia received the Presidential nomination in the Harvard Mock Democratic Convention, which ended here tonight, after being two nights in session. The Senator won on the sixth ballot with 716 votes. McAdoo ran second. Senator Walsh was nominated for the Vice Presidency.

Mormons Will Erect Church in Washington, Amid Embassies, a Mile From White House

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A plot of ground in the foreign embassy quarter, one mile north of the White House, has been sold to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints—better known as the Mormon Church—as the site for the erection of a church.

The property is situated at the southwest corner of Sixteenth Street and Columbia Road and was sold by Mrs. John B. Henderson, widow of Senator Henderson of Missouri, to Farley F. Eccles, secretary to Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, the latter of whom is an apostle of the Mormon Church. Mr. Eccles acted for the Mormon Church.

Immediately south of Mormon plot is the parcel which Mrs. Henderson recently sold to the Italian Government on which will be erected the new Italian Embassy building. Several blocks south is the ground at the northeast corner of Sixteenth and Euclid Streets on which the French Government will shortly begin the construction of an embassy building. The Spanish, Polish, Cuban and present French Legations are on Sixteenth Street in the same neighborhood.

There are more than three hundred Mormons in Washington, who have been meeting in what was once the ball room of the so-called Howland House, which was the Washington home of August Belmont's only daughter, at 1,701 I Street, N. W. The nearest Mormon Church edifice to Washington is a small one at Capitol Heights, Md., just east of this city.

SLAIN NEAR CHURCH SHE BUILT FOR SON

HUSBAND AND NEPHEW HELD

Mother Was Constructing Edifice as Thank Offering for Return of Youth From War.

Mrs. Marie Sferrazzo of Paterson, N. J., was found murdered yesterday next door to a church being built in West Paterson through her efforts as a thank-offering for the safe return from the war of her son Charles.

Her assailants had cut her throat and then dragged her body into a one-room shack in which she had lived for three weeks so that she could oversee the work on the church. Her body was found by a boy on his way to school.

Three men were held as material witnesses: Mrs. Sferrazzo's husband Salvatore, 66; her nephew, Frank Carbone, 20, nicknamed "Half-past Three"; and a West Paterson milkman, Angelo Ratiso, 36.

The police believe robbery was the motive for the crime. Mrs. Sferrazzo hired and paid for the four carpenters at work on the church, and also made daily collections from the other parishioners for the building fund. She carried from $100 to $150 most of the time, but no money was found either in her effects or on the premises.

The husband was held when police heard he had struck his wife having given shelter at times to the nephew, Carbone. The nephew, whose nickname was inspired by his late hours, was taken into custody because he was usually out of a job. Police said they found him in the house of a neighbor who did not know he was there. And the milkman was held as a suspect because of a pint bottle of milk left at the shack about 7:30 o'clock.

The milk bottle interested the detectives because neighbors told them Mrs. Sferrazzo had never taken milk before. Tracing the bottle to Ratiso, they learned he had attended a party at the shack the night before. He said he had gone home with the others about 9:30 o'clock.

Near the bottle was a pool of blood, presumably where Mrs. Sferrazzo had been slain. At first Ratiso denied any blood had been there when he had left the bottle. Later he admitted he had seen it, but had kept silent for fear the inevitable questioning would make him late for an appointment with his wife.

Police expressed the conviction that more than one man had taken part in the crime. Mrs. Sferrazzo was a large, muscular woman, and although she was 53 years old, they believed she could have protected herself had she been attacked singly.

West Paterson and the surrounding communities have been following the construction of "Mrs. Sferrazzo's church" with much interest. When the Austrian drive broke the Italian front along the Piave, Mrs. Sferrazzo, a broad-cast the word that if one of her sons, Charles, got home alive she would build a church as a mark of her gratitude.

Upon his return, Mrs. Sferrazzo kept her promise, donated the lot on which the structure is being raised, and started raising subscriptions. Due to her push, enough money was pledged to make a start. She continued to devote herself, and for the last three weeks had been watching over the structure day and night.

ABBY ROCKEFELLER GUILTY OF SPEEDING

Daughter of John D. Jr. Receives Suspended Sentence on Her Second Summons.

After business in the Traffic Court apparently had been concluded yesterday afternoon, the case of Miss Abby Rockefeller, 21 years old, of 10 West Fifty-fourth Street, daughter of John D. Rockefeller Jr., was called. She was charged with speeding twenty-nine miles an hour on Tenth Avenue several days ago.

Miss Rockefeller was not in court. She was represented by an attorney, whose name could not be learned, the papers in the case having been taken from the files.

Motorcycle Patrolman Edward Fleming of Squad 1 was the prosecuting officer, but he refused to discuss the case with reporters. Magistrate Norman E. Marsh found Miss Rockefeller guilty as charged but suspended sentence.

This was the second time Miss Rockefeller had been summoned for speeding in her automobile, the first charge having been dismissed.

BROKER SENT TO PRISON.

H. A. Mack Gets From 18 Months to Three Years and a Half for Fraud.

Herbert Arthur Mack, former Consolidated Stock Exchange broker of 740 West End Avenue, was sentenced to from eighteen months to three years and a half in Sing Sing on his plea of guilty yesterday before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions for defrauding a brokerage firm in a bond transaction.

Two indictments charging grand larceny were returned on April 29. Mack pleaded guilty to one charging that he stole three $1,000 bonds from Peabody, Houghteling & Co., 360 Madison Avenue, on the pretext that he wanted them to sell to a customer in Philadelphia. He gave a post-dated check which he failed to make good.

TAX CONFEREES ACCEPT MANY ITEMS

THEY MEET IN SECRET

House Radicals Declare for the Senate Bill, but Democrats Have Not Decided.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Behind closed doors and bound by agreement to say nothing of what took place, the Senate and House conferees began their work on the tax bill today, holding two sessions. In spite of the secrecy, it was learned later that the business was confined to the adoption of uncontroverted technical amendments inserted by the Senate, all those of consequence being postponed for later decision.

Senator Smoot and Representative Green, the heads of the Senate and House conferees, as well as Representative Garner, Representative Collier and others, said this morning they were willing to give out information regularly, but when the matter came up this morning there was a move for secrecy. At the afternoon session the motion was ratified unanimously, Senator Curtis, the Republican whip, and one of the conferees, said afterward.

When the new bill was received from the printer today, it was seen that the Senate had made 260 changes, but only a few are of paramount interest.

These include the Simmons income tax rates, the Jones graduated corporation levy, the publicity amendments, the Walsh gift and inheritance taxes, the McKinley partially lowering amendment affecting postal rates on newspapers, the changes in the stock dividend rating, the earned income provision, the capital losses limitation, and the changes in the jewelry, art, automobile parts and slot machine taxes.

Opinion still persists in many quarters that the Jones corporation tax will be thrown out and the publicity amendments modified by the elimination of the clause which exposes returns of individual taxpayers to unlimited inspection. Two points seem to bear out this idea; first, that the House is supposed to want these changes, and second, that Mr. Garner desires to send Mr. Coolidge a bill that he will have little reason to veto.

House conferees are thought to be in a better position to enforce their own demands than those from the Senate, as they are in closer harmony. Mr. Green and Mr. Garner agree better on the bill than do Senator Smoot and Senator Simmons. Under the conference rules the representatives of each house vote as a unit and not as individuals.

At a meeting of the House radicals today it was decided to support the Jones corporation tax and the Norris amendment on publicity of tax returns. No preferences was expressed on the income tax rates. Representative Frear of Wisconsin arguing that the Mellon worth and Simmons scales were so close below $200,000 that there was practically no difference.

The Democrats in the House did not caucus today on the radical Senate amendments and so it cannot be said as yet that the party strength there favors them. Without the full Democratic vote the radicals cannot hope to have them adopted in the House, even if the conference report recommends them.

CURLEY CHARGES TO GO BEFORE THE SENATE

Walsh May Ask an Inquiry on 'No Limit' Coolidge Campaign Fund in Massachusetts.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Charges by Mayor Curley of Boston that a Coolidge campaign organization in Massachusetts is soliciting campaign funds on a "no limit" basis are to be laid before the Senate, Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts, said today after a conference with some of his colleagues.

The exact form in which the subject is to be presented is still to be determined but an official investigation may be proposed. Should this course be taken there are indications that a general inquiry such as that which preceded the 1920 national political conventions would not be unlikely.

Senator Johnson, Farmer-Labor, of Minnesota, already has obtained the adoption of a resolution calling on the Chairmen of the Republican and Democratic National Committees to report to the Senate all campaign contributions of more than $500 made by the "Big Five" packers or any persons connected with them since the 1920 campaign.

At that time there was a suggestion by Senator Norbeck, Republican, of South Dakota, that the Farmer-Labor Party be included in the scope of the resolution. He charged that there had been excessive expenditures by that party, and added that officials of the party "admitted" the expenditure of more than $360,000 in this State alone.

Mayor Curley's accusation, made in a letter to Senator Walsh, was that the Calvin Coolidge Finance Committee was assuring contributors that large gifts would be "divided so as to give full observance to the requirements of the statutes."

Senator Walsh said today that he still had the request for an investigation under consideration.

Are We All "Cave Men?"

Professor Ogburn of Columbia University, well-known sociologist, says that we are; that we have not changed fundamentally since the Cro-Magnon man of 25,000 years ago, and because we have not, we are completely out of place in the modern city.

NEW YORK RAILWAYS SOON OUT OF COURT

CAPITALIZATION REDUCED

Provision Made for Accident Victims —Old Leased Lines May Be Resumed—Hedges Praised.

A plan to reorganize the New York Railways Company, under preparation for several months, was approved yesterday by Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer and will become effective as soon as it receives the approval of the Transit Commission. It is expected that the new company, with a name to be chosen later, will be in sole control of the properties not later than July 1. In the meantime the receiver Job E. Hedges, will continue to function.

It was said that the reorganization committees hoped that the new arrangement would yield dividends almost from the start. The old company's capitalization in the hands of the public was $91,366,445 and the fixed annual charges $3,428,533. The new company capitalization is fixed at $40,163,622 and the annual interest charges at $2,133,628. The reduction in capitalization therefore is $51,202,823 and in annual charges $1,494,905.

The Capitalization.

	Principal.	Annual Interest.
Bonds to remain undisturbed or privileged to conversion	$14,653,000	$728,000
Bonds to be converted	900,000	34,500
New Sixth Avenue purchase bonds	200,000	15,000
New prior lien bonds	3,500,000	190,000
Tentative total of fixed charge bonds	$19,253,000	$967,500
New income bonds	19,455,472	1,166,128
New preferred stock, 184,830 shares at $6	924,150	.....
New common stock, 90,200 shares at $5	451,000	.....
Tentative total capitalization	$40,163,622	$2,133,628

That the new company may have sufficient capital the plan authorizes the issue of prior lien bonds not to exceed $5,000,000; these bonds to be a lien on the company's property and on all property acquired by use of the money obtained through their sale. Authority is also conferred upon the new company to create an issue of income bonds of a face value of $21,000,000, which shall be a lien junior to the prior lien bonds.

Preferred stock may also be issued of a par value to be determined later, with non-cumulative dividends payable at periods to be determined, but no dividends shall be paid on the common stock "unless and until in the same calendar year of such payment the full dividend of $7 per share shall have been paid or set aside for payment on the preferred stock." The preferred stock is limited to 184,830 shares.

The common stock may be of no par value or of such value as may be determined, and with a total issue of approximately 90,200 shares will have the sole voting power. It may be placed in a voting trust.

May Resume Old Lines.

Judge Mayer pointed out that the plan provides for the continuance, under the control of the new company, of all the present trolley service in Manhattan, except that of the Third Avenue Company, which is under other management, and of the Ninth, Eighth and Fourth and Madison Avenues lines, operated by the New York & Harlem Railroad Company, which were formerly under lease to the New York Railways Company, but which withdrew because of defaults in rentals. That the new company has some expectation of renewing the leases with these three companies is indicated in the following paragraph in the plan:

"The new company will not, in connection with the reorganization, make any offer of securities in the reorganization in exchange for properties not now being operated in the receivership (although previously owned or operated under lease by New York Railways Co., Eighth Avenue Railroad Company, Ninth Avenue Railroad Company and New York & Harlem Railroad Company) but securities of the new company may be reserved for that purpose."

Judge Mayer added a special satisfaction concerning the basis fixed for the settlement of tort claims on a basis of the full amount of the allowed claim of each creditor in prior lien bonds without interest added, or cash to the amount of two-thirds of the claim without interest.

The prompt approval of the Transit Commission would be sought, Judge Mayer said. He expressed appreciation of the commission's cooperation in assisting the Court to end transit receiverships and called attention to the fact that when this receivership ended there would be no longer any active transit receiverships in the Federal courts of this jurisdiction. Judge Mayer said that when the receivership began in March, 1919, the property was in very bad condition and embarrassed by a seemingly insuperable load of debt and that, despite "numerous economies and the careful management under the receiver," it had been plain at all times that it was necessary substantially to reduce the capitalism.

Eager to Return It.

Then Judge Mayer spoke of the complicated legal and financial structure which explained the difficulty of inducing the various groups of investors to agree on a reorganization plan, although he had believed for some time that the property should be returned to and operated by its owners in the public interest as well as in the interest of the investors.

"After the parties had failed to agree the Court felt that it was its duty, while not preparing a reorganization plan, nevertheless to force those concerned to a conclusion. A committee appointed by the Court in July, 1923, after months of careful study and numerous hearings, formulated the principles upon which an ultimate plan should be based. Beginning about a year ago, many hearings have been held before the Court to settle and dispose of a very large number of complicated legal questions, and nearly all of the important questions have now been decided.

"The reorganization is not usual in that it does not call for any syndicate or banking underwriting, but is intended to be accomplished by the bondholders. Nearly all the committees of bondholders interested in the property have approved the plan and are giving it their support.

"The plan also commends itself to the Court in view of the treatment accorded to the ultimate creditors. It offers to these creditors prior lien bonds of the new company to a face amount equal to the face amount, without interest, of the adjudicated accident claims, or in the alternative (at the option of the holder of the claim) 66⅔ per cent. of such face amount of the claims, without interest, in cash on completion of the reorganization.

"The plan, I am sure, will receive prompt and serious consideration by the public authorities. It is well worthy of earnest attention and presents a hopeful alternative to the breaking up of the system which would carry not only additional loss to investors but would add burdens to the traveling public.

"The committees that have approved the plan are:

"P. J. Fuller, M. C. Laffey and Reginald Foster representing the Lexington Avenue and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company's first mortgage 5 per cent. gold bonds deposited with the Central Union Trust Company.

"James B. Mabon, J. Y. G. Walker and Adrian H. Larkin, who acted under an agreement as representatives of the stock of the Sixth Avenue Railroad Company, deposited with the Central Union Trust Company.

"John Candler Cobb, Oscar Cooper, Haley Fiske, Frank L. Hall, Duncan A. Holmes, Ernest Stauffen Jr. and Richard H. Swartout, representing the adjustment mortgage thirty-year 5 per cent. income bonds of the Railways Company, deposited with the Bankers Trust Company.

Selling Cosmetic Cocktails Gets Barber a Year in Jail

HUNTINGDON, Pa., May 14.—One year in jail, $700 fine and costs of the prosecution were imposed by Judge Thomas F. Bailey today in sentencing Thomas Quinn, a barber, convicted of violating the prohibition laws.

Quinn, it was testified, sold redistilled denatured alcohol and hair tonic of high alcoholic content at his shop. The sentence was said to be the most severe yet imposed here in a prohibition case.

W. S. STONE WANTS LA FOLLETTE TO RUN

COMMUNISTS ARE NOISY

Throw Clothing Workers' Meeting Into Turmoil Until "Internationale" Pacifies Them.

Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, believes that both of the old parties will be "drowned in oil" in the coming Presidential election and hopes to have the opportunity to support Senator LaFollette at the head of a third ticket. He expressed these sentiments yesterday at Carnegie Hall at a tumultuous session of the sixth biennial convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

The Communist wing of the union demonstrated its disapproval so noisily that it held up proceedings for ten minutes, when Sidney Hillman, the President, introduced Israel Feinberg, Vice President of the National Ladies' Garment Workers' Union which, at its convention in Boston, shut out its more radical members. There were boos and hisses and cries of "Shame on you!" when Feinberg started to speak. Mr. Hillman tried in vain to quiet the uproar. Excited delegates rose and shook their fists in one another's faces. It was not until a band marched around the auditorium, crashing out the Communist "Internationale," that the disorder was quieted. The disputants seemed to lose their anger in the enthusiasm the revolutionary hymn inspired and Mr. Feinberg was able to proceed. The "Internationale" was played at frequent intervals during the day and always drew an outburst.

After promising the clothing workers the support of the 90,000 members of the Locomotive Brotherhood, Mr. Stone said:

"At a time when it would seem that both of the old parties are going to be drowned in oil and no one knows what the result will be, I want to impress upon you the importance of using the power you hold in your hands. Seventy-two per cent. of the votes cast in the United States today are cast by those who labor for their daily bread and yet only twenty-seven union men are in Congress. Why is that name? You are. Half of you don't register and half of you who register don't vote.

"I have handled a few strikes in my time. But the time to strike is at the ballot box on election day. If you would use your franchise you would not have to strike so often.

"At the present time we are torn asunder in the West with a doctrine that is not at all good for our institutions in this Eastern country. An organization is sweeping like wildfire arraying family against family, friend against friend and neighbor against neighbor. Because of what? Why, they say, so you can become 100 per cent. Americans. I don't care whether you are a Jew or a Gentile, a Protestant or a Catholic. All I am interested in is: Are you conducting your life so that when you pass the country will have been a little better off because you have lived in it?

"I rarely talk politics. Some one has asked me who is going to be the next President. If I knew I could make a lot of money. It is a pretty safe bet who is going to be nominated on the Republican ticket. It is not so safe who is going to be nominated by the Democrats, but personally I have never favored a third party ticket. Personally I believe you may see an independent candidate nominated for the Presidency. Perhaps this man will be Robert M. LaFollette, although I am not sure and have no authority to speak. I hope to live long enough to have an opportunity to vote for him myself. Further than that I would not care to go, with so many reporters sitting around taking notes."

At the close of the afternoon session the delegates and members of the New York locals went to Coney Island for dinner at Stauch's. The session here was an interlude in the convention being held in Philadelphia. The delegates came to town on a special train in the morning and returned to Philadelphia at midnight. The congestion there will continue the rest of the week.

RUMBLINGS IN P. E. N.

Rumors of Discord Among Delegates to Literary Congress Here.

Although members of the P. E. N., the International Association of poets, Essayists and Novelists, which is meeting here, attended a reception given last night at the Grand Central Galleries by the Painters and Sculptors Association and all appeared to be peaceful on the surface, it was reported that disappointments had arisen among both the foreign and the American delegates. A foreign delegate admitted that a meeting would be held at the National Arts Club this morning to take up certain matters on which they said they had so far been no opportunity for discussion. The Secretary of the association said this meeting was news to him.

The whole thing has been run on a shoestring," said a member of the club who preferred to be anonymous, "and its program has been more like a vaudeville bill than a gathering of intellectuals. First came a reception at the City Hall at which the delegates were told—with what was meant for humor—not to exceed the speed limit and not to violate the Volstead act. One prominent author at first declined to come because he was not invited to speak and then compromised when placed at the speakers' table. Then some of us were amazed to learn that tonight's reception was to be a reception and dance."

Maxwell Aley, secretary of the American Centre of the P. E. N., denied that any complaints had been made to him. "It is true that we had no money," he said. "The P. E. N. has no treasury, and its officers are unpaid. We did get some money from some publishers, but it was not much, and we did write to the members for $5 each. It is true that we have had no formal business sessions, but the P. E. N. is primarily a social organization. We have no constitution, and I don't know how we could hold business sessions."

At the reception last night a message from President Coolidge was read. It came in the form of a telegram from C. Bascom Slemp, the President's secretary, to Ida Clyde Clark, and was as follows:

"The President asks that you will extend to the international meeting of the P. E. N. Club his greetings and good wishes and the assurance of the welcome which American always extends to those distinguished by letters."

One Listed for Elimination Immediately Is That at Rockaway Boulevard.

Company Satisfied to Accept and Act on Transit Commission's $2,000,000 Program.

ATLANTIC AV. MUST WAIT

Harkness Says East New York Situation Requires Subway Method and Funds Are Not Available.

At the conclusion yesterday of a long series of hearings on the subject of grade crossings on the lines of the Long Island Railroad, the Transit Commission took steps for the immediate elimination, at a cost approximating $2,000,000, of ten of the most dangerous ones on the system.

Those listed for elimination include that at Rockaway Boulevard, on the Atlantic Avenue Division, where three firemen were killed and two injured a year ago, and the Broadway crossing in Elmhurst, on the Port Washington Division, where there have been six accidents with four fatalities within the last fifteen years.

Eight crossings on the Montauk Division, which also are listed for elimination, are those known as the Farmers Avenue, the Merrick Road, the Springfield Road, the Lakeview Avenue, the Willow Place, the Maple Avenue, the Central Avenue and the Locust Avenue.

The commission was eager for immediate action and the railroad company was satisfied to accept and act upon its recommendations. But action on the report of Commissioner LeRoy T. Hark

Children Wanted!

THERE are some hotels that don't want children. Gedney is not that kind of a hotel. We like to have somebody around who is too young to have developed those inhumanities which are the curse of growing up. We know they make a noise, but that's good for "dead ones"!

Also, we have children of our own, and like to have them with us on a vacation, and we don't expect you to leave yours behind.

Bring them to Gedney where they're WANTED!

His first little suit was bought here 27 years ago—27½, to be exact, for he's 30 now and our outfitting begins at 2½.

How he romped through our Junior Norfolks—

Always big for his years, he was wearing our big boys' suits way ahead of time.

Our youths' suits he skipped entirely, qualifying at an early age for the models we cut specially for young men.

But though he had developed tremendously while at college, golf and business made him bigger.

But he's got to go some yet to outgrow the "five corners."

Our biggest men's suit's a 54 stout. What's more, our provision for 250 to 300 pounders includes some of our finest imported patterns.

Prices likewise are attractive.

MRS. HARRIS LEAVES CELL ON $1,000 BOND

Says if Letter Ex-Husband Calls Forgery Isn't Genuine It Was Trick to Hurt Her.

CASE SET FOR TOMORROW

Banker Tells Magistrate That He Will Not Offer Bail for His Ex-Wife.

Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris, former wife of Beverley D. Harris, until recently a Vice President of the National City Bank, was released in $1,000 bail for a hearing tomorrow when she was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager in the Tombs Court on a second degree forgery charge made by Harris. Mrs. Harris was arrested the evening before in her suite in the Hotel McAlpin, after Harris had identified her in the presence of a detective and Assistant District Attorney Alexander. She spent most of the night sobbing in a cell in the Clinton Street Police Station, but when she entered the court she talked cheerfully with her lawyer, Alexander T. Hussey.

Her arraignment followed the signing of a formal complaint against her by Harris, who said he was 52 years old and gave his address as 278 Main Street, Port Washington, L. I. He said he was "out of employment at present." Mrs. Harris gave her age as 28, her occupation as housewife and her address as the Hotel McAlpin.

Harris charged in the complaint that an incriminating letter, submitted in the Supreme Court by his former wife after a recent verdict recommending an annulment of the marriage, was forged from tracings of letters he had written to Mrs. Harris and her sister before their marital troubles reached the courts. He alleged that the letter was patched up from words and phrases written by him in different letters. He charged that the resulting document, addressed to another woman, made him say that the charges he had made against his wife in the annulment proceeding were "wholly unjust and untrue." He accuses Mrs. Harris in this connection with having "uttered a false document."

Says She Acted in Good Faith.

When Mrs. Harris was being taken to the police station after her arrest in the hotel she declared that had she thought that the letter was not genuine she would not have used it as the basis for her request in the Supreme Court for a new trial on newly discovered evidence. "I have acted in this matter in good faith," she said, "and still am of the opinion that I was when the letter was produced in court—that it is genuine."

It developed that a few minutes after Mrs. Harris had been held for examination yesterday, her counsel and Harris's attorney had agreed to withdrawal in the Supreme Court of Mrs. Harris's application for a full record of the annulment proceeding, which was based on the discovery of the alleged forged letter.

While Mrs. Harris smiled frequently in court, Harris wore a serious mien. When Magistrate Oberwager asked him if he proposed to offer bail for Mrs. Harris, he replied emphatically "No." Assistant District Attorney Alexander told the Magistrate that he had no objection to an adjournment of the hearing and asked that Mrs. Harris be held in $3,000 bail.

The prosecutor explained that on Tuesday Harris had applied to Magistrate Oberwager for a warrant for Mrs. Harris's arrest, which was refused. Then Harris made a like request in District Attorney Banton's office and was told to call a policeman and have his former wife arrested on a forgery charge.

Harris then said that he based his charge against Mrs. Harris on the letter alleged to have been written by him to a "sweetheart," and added that a handwriting expert had declared the letter a forgery. Mr. Hussey here interposed with the statement that the letter was not produced until it had been shown by Mrs. Harris to a handwriting expert, who expressed the belief it had been written by Harris.

Feels She May Be a Victim.

"If the letter is not in Mr. Harris's handwriting" the lawyer continued "then Mrs. Harris feels she is an innocent victim."

The prosecutor said that he had been informed by counsel for the complainant in the case that Mrs. Harris's expert had since changed his mind about its genuineness, and repeated his demand that the prisoner be held in $3,000 bail. Mr. Hussey told the magistrate that his client's financial circumstances were such that she could not arrange for bail so high, whereupon Mr. Alexander remarked: "She is in rather peculiar reduced circumstances if she can afford to live at the McAlpin Hotel."

"Do you feel that the defendant will leave the jurisdiction of the Court?" asked Magistrate Oberwager of Harris.

"I'm not in a position to make a statement in regard to that possibility," he replied. "She had a ticket for St. Louis when she was arrested last night."

The Magistrate finally fixed bail at $1,000, which was furnished by a surety company. As she was leaving the Court, Mrs. Harris said: "I had absolutely nothing to do with this letter, which we alleged Harris wrote, and which I believe he did write, Aaron Louis, a handwriting expert, had expressed the belief that the letter was written by Harris, and it was filed on the advice of my lawyer, Max Steuer, in the application for the new trial.

"I advised Mr. Steuer not to file the letter until the advice of other experts was obtained, but he insisted on filing it. I do not care for the opinion of Harris's experts. I am absolutely convinced the letter is genuine. If it is not, then it is a plant of Harris through the woman who gave it to me, to discredit me and to bring about this premeditated and planned outrage.

"This man had nothing to do apparently but lounge about courtrooms and do everything imaginable to discredit me. For two years, although ordered by the court to support me, he has not paid me one dollar. There is nothing in the Stokes case that ever equaled this. If this letter is not genuine, then I repeat that it is none other than a brazen plan to bring disgrace upon me. I have been the victim of Harris and lawyers."

Mr. Steuer confirmed Mrs. Harris's statement that he was her attorney in the application in the Supreme Court for a new trial, based on the alleged forged letter, but declined to make any comment on her arrest. He added: "I do not want any conclusion against Mrs. Harris to be arrived at by you or any one else because of my being out of the case. I simply must decline to talk about the matter."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Eugene O'Neill's "All God's Chillun Got Wings" will open tonight at the Provincetown Playhouse.

"Round the Town," which comes to the Century Roof next Wednesday night, will give midnight performances on Tuesdays and Thursdays, instead of matinees.

All three of L. Lawrence Weber's current attractions—"Cobra," "Moonlight," and "Little Jessie James"—will give professional matinees during the week of June 1.

"Beggar on Horseback" will be published in book form within a few weeks by Boni & Liveright.

Next Sunday night's concert at the Winter Garden will be the final Sunday performance of the season at that house.

Richard Bold, of last year's "Scandals," will also appear in the new edition.

The Professional Children's School will act "Dick Whittington," a pantomime by Moritz Jagendorf, at the Longacre Theatre on the afternoon of May 26.

Galle Beverly, daughter of Commander Nelson H. Goss, U. S. N., will appear in "Innocent Eyes," coming to the Winter Garden next Tuesday.

Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt will sail for Europe on the Albert Ballin this morning. They will return in the Fall to act Molnar's "The Guardsman" for The Theatre Guild.

Foreign delegates to the convention of P. E. N., together with a number of well-known American writers, will attend the performance of "Abie's Irish Rose" at the Republic Theatre on Friday night of next week. Mary Austin will head the party.

Few plays of a generation ago can be expected to retain their vitality in revival, and those plays that depend for their effectiveness upon plot and situation necessarily age the most with the passing years. Of "The Kreutzer Sonata," which Bertha Kalich acted anew at the Frazee Theatre last night, it may be said that it comes through the ordeal of revival moderately well.

One who went fresh to it last night, carrying along no knowledge of its earlier performances or of Mme. Kalich' triumphs therein, found it to be crude at times to the point of absurdity, and yet strangely compelling at other moments. It tells, it will be recalled, the simple story of a Russian Jewess who loves a Christian officer, and who, after his suicide, is hastily married to another for the sake of her coming child. When, some years later, there develops a love affair between her husband and her younger sister, she kills them both. The final curtain finds her stark and raving mad.

This brief summary is given because the character of the acting opportunity that it affords its principal player is thus made clear. It demands to be acted, and Mme. Kalich plays it intensely, passionately, but necessarily always theatrically. It is a role that is long and unrelievedly lugubrious; although the reasons vary from act to act there is never a moment when Mme. Kalich is not plunged deep in despair. When, in the final act, despair yields to madness, Mme. Kalich does her best work. Here, for a moment, she made the old tragedy seem real—in most of its earlier scenes it was too frankly a thing of the theatre to be brought to life.

The other rôles are handled in varying fashion. There are especially good performances, however, by Manart Kippen, as the husband, and by Cielia Benjamin, an attractive newcomer (or nearly a newcomer) as the younger sister.

A RECITAL BY CURTIS.

The Audience Is Enthusiastic Over His Compositions.

A demonstrative audience filled the Town Hall last evening for the recital arranged by Ernesto de Curtis, whose compositions, to the number of a dozen or more, furnished the bulk of the program. Uproarious was the reception of Beniamino Gigli, who sang two of Mr. Curtis's songs and, in answer to shouts and deafening applause, had to sing three encores.

Owing to indisposition, Giuseppe Danise, the Metropolitan baritone, could not be present, but Caterina Gobbi, the lyric soprano, who will shortly make her operatic début at the Manhattan Theatre, compensated for his absence. The musical purity of her voice was greeted with enthusiasm. At this point William Guard of the Metropolitan came forward and made a speech praising the Italians, their gifts to civilization and Signora Gobbi as possessing "one of the most beautiful voices that I have ever heard."

The vocalists enhanced the compositions of Ernesto de Curtis, who was warmly applauded throughout the evening. Vito Carnevali played two piano groups with delightful effect. In the second one Mme. Maria Luisa di Lorenzo added a violin obbligato.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Madrigal chorus of the Institute of Musical Art, 120 Claremont Avenue, will give a recital this morning at 11:30.

At Carnegie Chamber Music Hall this evening at 8:30 Mark Markoff, tenor from the Russian Imperial Opera, will be heard in recital.

That's one reason that it's as easy to get good motion pictures with the Ciné-Kodak as it is to make ordinary snap-shots with a Brownie.

Let us show you, on the screen, pictures that other amateurs have made by simply pressing the button and letting Eastman experts do the rest. Some of them are masterpieces—all of them are good. See for yourself.

Flint's Fine Furniture

The gifts the bride needs most

THERE are two sides to every wedding gift. Too many people think only of themselves. If you will give just a moment's thought to the necessities of the bride, you can hardly fail to reach the conclusion that furniture is the gift for you to send. You will find hundreds of gifts here at Flint & Horner's, eminently suitable for gifts and eminently satisfactory as to price.

The majesty of a mahogany secretary bookcase, such as this one, does not eclipse its friendliness. When you consider that Colonial is permanently popular, it is hard to imagine a finer wedding gift. In genuine mahogany, $116.

A small table will be as welcome, in its small way, as a secretary in its more pretentious way. This fine walnut table costs only $24.50.

CHARGE ABANDONING POOR WOMAN'S BABY

Deputy Sheriff, Who Said He Found Child Playing in Puddle, Faces Two Charges.

DENOUNCED BY THE MOTHER

Declares She Gave 18 Months' Old Girl to Be Adopted—Hearing This Morning.

Philip Smolensky, Deputy Sheriff of Kings County, was placed under arrest in the Brownsville Police Station last night charged with abandoning the eighteen-month-old baby girl which he turned over to the police last Monday with the statement that he had found it playing in a puddle in New Lots Road between Sackman and Powell Streets, Brooklyn.

The arrest followed the identification of the baby yesterday as Pauline Goldstein, daughter of Mrs. Rose Goldstein of 101 Stanton Street, Manhattan. When the mother was informed that the child being held in the Kings County Hospital as a foundling was hers she flew into a rage and denounced Smolensky.

According to Mrs. Goldstein, she turned over the child to Smolensky, who, she said, claims to be a doctor, on the understanding that he would give it to a childless friend of his for adoption. Mrs. Goldstein, who cooks in a restaurant in the same building in which she lives, has two other children and found it difficult to pay some one else to look after the child while she was at work.

The police began unraveling the case yesterday afternoon after the child had been identified in the hospital by Mrs. Yedda Glassman of 82 Ridge Street. From her story and that of Mrs. Goldstein the police learned that Mrs Glassman had been employed by the mother for several months to look after the child, but that the expense proved too much. According to the mother, she took the baby to the Kings County Hospital on Monday afternoon to have a cataract on its left eye treated, after which she said she gave the child to Smolensky to take to his friend. She said she heard nothing more until visited by the police yesterday.

Smolensky is married and has four children. His wife said last night that he had been a model husband and father. On his business card he calls himself "Dr. Philip Smolensky," a masseur.

The baby is still in the Kings County Hospital, the police refusing to turn her over to the mother. The case against Smolensky will come up this morning in the New Jersey Avenue Court. In addition to abandonment, he is charged with having committed perjury in the affidavit police required him to make out in regard to finding the child.

"The Grand Street Follies."

"The Grand Street Follies," in which the Neighborhood Players annually satirize their own productions, will open at the Neighborhood Playhouse on Tuesday night of next week. The company, made up primarily of those who have taken part in Neighborhood productions, will include Lily Lubell, Albert Carroll, John F. Roche, Aline MacMahon and Junius Matthews.

"The Wonderful Visit."

"The Wonderful Visit," acted here for the first time in February at the Lenox Hill Theatre, began an engagement last night at the Princess Theatre. The play is a dramatization, by H. G. Wells and St. John Ervine, of Mr. Wells's novel. Margaret Mower continues to head the cast.

"Keep Kool" Opens Wednesday.

"Keep Kool," a revue by Paul Gerard Smith and E. K. Nadel, is announced to open next Wednesday night at the Morosco Theatre. The cast will be headed by Hazel Dawn, Johnny Dooley and Charles King.

SALE of exchanged Phonographs

EXTRAORDINARY BARGAINS IN INSTRUMENTS of LEADING MAKES

PRICES $15 Upward

DURING the course of the season, we have taken a large number of phonographs of various makes in exchange for Period Styles and Graduola models of the Aeolian-Vocalion. It is these instruments, reconditioned by Aeolian experts, that we are putting on sale during this week. They are all phonographs of standard makes, all in perfect condition and so guaranteed, many of them practically new, and the price reductions have never before been equalled.

Included are a group of the Console Period Models now so popular and of popular models of the Vocalion which are entirely new, but styles to be discontinued from our catalog. Many of these possess the Graduola, the famous tone-control feature with which you may vary the tone volume of each record as you wish.

As their number is limited, an early selection is advised.

Upright Phonographs from $37.50

Delivery will be made on all instruments for a small down payment

Terms as low as $1.00 weekly

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Of the two markets which were upset on Monday by the unexpected news which had come after last week's closing, one took a turn for the better yesterday, the other for the worse. Each movement had a basis in the news which was before the markets at yesterday's opening. The declarations made by the leaders of the party which will name the next French Ministry were entirely reassuring as to its attitude toward the Dawes plan and German reparations, and the franc recovered rapidly. At home, however, while the President's veto of the Bursum Pension bill was sustained, the narrowness of the margin left uncomfortable doubt over the Senate's action on a veto of the soldiers' bonus.

Such political apprehension as may have served either to depress the stock market, or to bring it to a halt, has had reference partly to developments immediately impending, notably the fate of the Tax and Bonus bills, and partly to the more distant considerations of the nominating conventions. When the Bonus bill of 1922 passed the Senate after the conference report, it had a majority 1 vote larger than the required two-thirds; after the veto message, the Senate's vote fell 4 short of the necessary overriding majority. The margin of 11 over a two-thirds majority, in the Senate's vote of April 23 for the Bonus bill, requires a considerably larger reversal, and the veto of the Bursum bill was sustained Tuesday night by a margin of only 1. Margins to sustain a veto have a way of being narrow, however. The kind of pressure which is applied to force them is apt to stop with the achievement of its purpose; and the country has yet to see the next move in the Bonus bill controversy. This doubt, along with the various uncertainties surrounding trade, very probably had a hand in the selling down of yesterday's stock market. No change in the financial public's position was in evidence, however; the day's transactions were not much larger than Tuesday's and substantially under the Monday total.

The positive statements by several leaders of the French party which carried Sunday's election, that the new political régime was "determined to apply the reparation experts' program" through a loyal acceptance, based on resolve to "proceed immediately to realising acts," had instantaneous influence on the markets. At Paris, where the price of sterling had risen 4½ francs on Monday and Tuesday, it fell nearly 4 francs yesterday, and French Government bonds on the Bourse recovered with similar violence. On the Wall Street exchange market, where the franc had sold down from 6.06⅜ cents at last week's closing to 5.52⅛ on Monday, it got back yesterday to 5.94½; which is higher than its price on a couple of days last week and close to the now familiar 6-cent figure. This incident may mark another in the fairly long list of surprises at the sane and conservative action of a European Ministry whose accession to power, after a political overturn, had caused consternation on the markets.

Two statements bearing on the home industrial position were given out yesterday. One, the Census Bureau's cotton consumption figures for April, showed progressive reduction in the takings of both home and foreign spinners. The two combined give a total consumption less by 15,312 bales than in March and by 322,118 bales, or more than 20 per cent., than in January. This shrinkage, which has been continuous since January, is the real explanation for the recent reaction in cotton's price from the 37¼ cents of Dec. 1 to the recent figure of 30 to 31.

The other industrial sidelight was the mid-week report on steel trade conditions, which showed the industry as a whole to be working now at only 65 per cent. of capacity, as against something like 70 a week ago and more than 90 around the end of March. Yet even so, the attitude of the steel trade, like the attitude of the financial markets, seems to be one of cautious hesitancy pending the disclosure of events, and not either actual alarm or actual depression.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 14, 1924.

Money market conditions and rates continued unchanged again, call loans going at 3½ per cent., in very quiet market, with 3¼ trades reported in the outside market; time money, for short periods, was bid 3¾ per cent., offered at 4, and a little new money for three months loaned at the lenders' charge; the more distant maturities being quoted at 4@4¼. Dealers expect no immediate change in quotations, either up or down, until something resembling increased commercial activity and stock market interest calls for credit accommodation.

EXTRA RAIL DIVIDEND REPORT AIDS STOCK

J. R. Kenly, President of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, arrived in New York yesterday to attend the special meeting of directors this morning. Following the policy of other officials, he declined to discuss the purpose of the meeting, although he was willing to talk about conditions of his railroad and the improvements now under way.

When told that there had been rumors of action to be taken on extra stock or extra cash dividends, he said he could not discuss the matter.

The shares of both the Atlantic Coast Line and the Louisville & Nashville were active in the stock market yesterday. The Louisville & Nashville is controlled by the Atlantic Coast Line. Both stocks touched new high records for the year, the Atlantic Coast Line at 126 and the Louisville & Nashville at 94½.

Discussing the improvement of the Atlantic Coast Line, President Kenly said that fifty-seven miles of second track were laid in 1923, and that it was expected to equal that amount this year. Between Richmond and Jacksonville, Fla., a distance of approximately 650 miles, the railroad has now double tracked about 400 miles, and it is planned to complete the remainder by 1927, excepting certain single-track bridges across the wider rivers.

Mr. Kenly said that the business outlook on the Atlantic Coast Line territory was promising, and called attention to the good prices being received for cotton. The growers, despite the inroads of the boll weevil, were in a more optimistic frame of mind than for some time, he said.

Cuts Price of Bunker Fuel Oil.

The Texas Company yesterday announced a reduction of 10 cents a barrel in the price of bunker fuel oil, to $1.75 a barrel.

SETTLES DISPUTE IN VIVAUDOU BOARD

Head of Corporation Tells Stockholders to Send Proxies to Regular Committee.

Differences which cropped out two or three days ago between Victor Vivaudou and members of the Board of Directors of V. Vivaudou, Inc., have been adjusted. In a letter to stockholders yesterday, Mr. Vivaudou said he had rejoined the original proxy committee. Previously Mr. Vivaudou had written to stockholders soliciting proxies personally and asserting that there were too many directors on the board whose interests were financial rather than in merchandising lines.

In his letter to stockholders yesterday Mr. Vivaudou said:

"I take pleasure in informing you that the differences which resulted in my call for personal proxies for the annual meeting of May 30 have been satisfactorily adjusted. Any impression which may have been created that my letter to you referred to J. B. Eache or Edward A. Wise personally should be dispelled, as I have no reason for objecting to the presence of these two gentlemen on the Board of Directors, inasmuch as I have always welcomed their cooperation.

"The understanding arrived at, which is satisfactory to me, should lead to harmony and cooperation for the best interests of the business.

"I have, therefore, resumed my position on the original proxy committee, consisting of Messrs. Eache, Wise and myself, and request you to send in your proxy accordingly, if you have not already done so."

MacAndrews & Forbes Income Up.

MacAndrews & Forbes reported for 1923 a net income of $1,809,771, including $502,027 transferred to the income account. This compares with $1,153,023 in 1922. Profit and loss surplus at the close of 1923 was $2,390,338, compared with $1,948,951.

Beginning March 22, 1923, the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty Bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures of highest and lowest prices during 1924 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

MARKED GAIN MADE BY STANDARD OIL CO.

EARNS $2.06 ON COMMON

Net Income of $56,295,282 Is Shown, Against $46,242,436 for Preceding Year.

Although the oil industry faced adverse conditions in 1923, due to the long period of overproduction, the annual statement of earnings of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the largest individual factor in the trade, makes a better showing than in 1922. The statement shows gross earnings of $367,334,410, against $328,286,927 in 1922, and gross operating profits of $27,027,489, against $22,494,250 the year before.

The net earnings for 1923 aggregated $15,506,982, against $12,587,741, and total net income for the year, including the parent company's share in affiliated organizations, amounted to $56,295,282, against $46,242,436 in 1922. After allowing for the regular 7 per cent. dividend on the preferred stock, there was a balance left equal to $2.06 a share earned on the 20,083,968 shares of common stock of $25 a share par value outstanding at the close of last year. This is equal to more than double the annual dividends of $1 a share now being paid. In 1922, after regular preferred dividends, the company reported earnings equal to $1.62 a share on the 19,943,484 shares of common stock outstanding.

The report also shows that the company took advantage of the low prices prevailing for crude oil last year to add to its inventory. The detailed statement of earnings for 1923 and 1922 follow:

The current assets included $11,086,985 cash, $267,888,285 accounts receivable, inventory carried at cost or less, $245,908,138; total investments, $155,356,075. Total assets were given as $1,148,004,953, the largest ever reported in the history of the company.

Reviewing conditions in the industry last year and the operations of the company, A. C. Bedford, Chairman of Directors, in a statement to stockholders said that "of the aggregate earnings of the company less than $20,000,000, or under 36 per cent., was derived from its domestic oil business, the balance accruing from its foreign subsidiaries, its fleet and its subsidiaries not engaged in the oil business."

MEXICO ANNOUNCES $15,000,000 LOAN

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—The Mexican Government will receive a loan from American bankers, it was announced today, and the sum of $15,000,000 will be paid into the Mexican Treasury within a week.

Government officials decline to state what bankers are taking part in the new loan, as they say the bankers insist on complete secrecy.

Officials believe that by June 1 the financial crisis will be settled by the new loan.

The Mexican Government will continue to pay on the foreign debt according to the Lamont agreement.

The Government expects to make a part payment on the back salaries of Federal employes within the next ten days.

President Obregon will leave Mexico City on May 24 en route to the State of Sonora, making the trip from the Port of Manzanillo to Mazaltan on a Mexican gunboat. It is believed the President will be away from the capital at least one month.

Members of the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico said yesterday that they knew nothing about the signing of a contract for a loan to Mexico. There have been numerous reports that various groups of Americans had visited Mexico with the idea of discussing a possible loan. It was also learned that the Republic of Mexico two weeks ago had sounded out the international bankers as to the possibility of a loan. It was said, however, that the advances made by Mexico had not led to anything definite, the American bankers desiring to look over Mexican resources and to ascertain the character of security that Mexico could provide for a loan. One banker said last night that Mexico had hardly started to pay interest on a small fraction of a total face amount of $500,000,000 of Mexican bonds which have been in arrears for ten years. In view of this fact, he said, it was considered doubtful if the American public would be desirous of buying more Mexican bonds.

Buy Mercer Plant for Mortgage.

TRENTON, N. J., May 14.—Representing bondholders of the bankrupt Mercer Motors Company, John L. Kuser and William L. Kinney of New York today obtained Referee Samuel D. Oliphant's approval of their offer of $100 for the plant, subject to the mortgage of $450,000 held by Kuser, Kinney and the other bondholders. All liens and encumbrances were assumed by the new owners, but no announcement was made relative to reopening of the works.

Inquiry Halts Stock Trading.

Trading in the shares of the Metals Production Company and the New Dominion Copper Company on the Curb Exchange was suspended yesterday pending an investigation by officials of the Exchange. Officials declined to state the reason for the investigation.

Western Maryland Earnings.

Gross earnings of the Western Maryland Railway Company from the first of the year to May 7 were $6,948,762, according to a statement issued yesterday. This is $1,045,915 less than for the same period of last year.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

List Rallies Under Leadership of French Franc—Government Support a Factor.

European exchanges continued higher yesterday, the French bill marking an especially noteworthy gain as a reflection of Government support of the franc. Higher cables from abroad, which indicated that the interest of the foreign speculators had been curbed, helped the market here off to a 20 point advance, at 5.86½ cents. Good size blocks were taken up in the forenoon, no small part of which represented covering, and this stimulated a further gain to 5.95 cents, an improvement of 41½ points from Tuesday's low. Profit taking brought a slight reaction at the close to 5.89 cents. Belgian franc moved along to 4.09½ cents, a gain of 17½ points.

Sterling was strong at an improvement of ¾ cent at $4.37, while there was another new top for Sweden exchange at 26.57 cents. Italian lire was heavily offered after a firm start, yielding 4¼ points to 4.43¾ cents. Holland, Spanish, Swiss and other Scandinavians were firm. Covering operations strengthened the Japanese yen, which ran up 6 points to 40.21 cents, while other Easterns were steady.

BOND CLUB TO HOLD OUTING

Financial Firms to Be Represented at Annual Games Tomorrow.

The New York Bond Club will hold its annual outing tomorrow at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club. A larger program for this outing than for any previous entertainment has been promised. It will be attended by 450 investment bankers, of whom 40 will come from Philadelphia. Virtually every New York financial firm will be represented at the annual games.

The day's sports will start at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, when 450 golfers and near-golfers will take the field. Other events include a band concert, whippet races, a tennis tournament, baseball, exhibition tennis and a dinner featured by entertainers.

The "Bond Street Journal" will also make its appearance.

LINK BUILDING BOOM WITH BOND ADVANCE

TURN TO THE LIBERTIES

Government Securities Reach New High Prices for the Year—New York Bonds Up.

Liberty bonds again advanced sharply in yesterday's bond market, the Third 4¼s going to a new high for the year and the Liberty 3½s touching par for the second time this year, representing also the high figure for 1924. The Treasury 4¼s, which have been unusually active since the first of the year, pushed through to a new record high.

Back of this buying was evidence that three and probably more of the larger savings banks of New York City had reached the limit of real estate and building mortgage investments authorized by State law. As a consequence, these institutions were diverting funds which ordinarily would go into investments of this character, into the Government bond field.

In Brooklyn, particularly, was this the case. Brooklyn savings bankers recently asked Manhattan bankers to enter the Brooklyn building loan field. The construction boom of 1924, according to Brooklyn bankers, has been going ahead at a pace that taxes Brooklyn's ability to provide adequate financial support.

For the State at large, figures compiled yesterday showed there was still a substantial margin before any likelihood of restriction of funds for new construction. The savings banks, under State law, are authorized to invest 70 per cent. of their total resources in real estate and building mortgages of proved character. The present average for all the State is about 54 per cent. This is greater than for the corresponding period of last year, which in turn was regarded as a high point for new construction.

Law Changed to Aid Building.

Under the former law, a ratio of 60 per cent. was allowed for savings banks' investments in building loans. This was changed in anticipation of the building boom of the last two years. Had it not been changed, it was said yesterday, a large number of Manhattan and Brooklyn savings banks would by now have been automatically removed from this activity.

Liberty bond dealers reported that only a minimum amount of buying yesterday was for private investors, virtually all of the purchases having been made for savings banks, insurance companies and other large institutions. The transactions in Liberty bonds and the Treasury issue totaled $4,060,600, as against $5,698,000 in domestic bonds and $898,500 in foreign bonds, making an aggregate of $10,657,100 for the day in all classes of bonds.

C. F. Childs & Co., Liberty bond specialists in their June investment bulletin issued yesterday said that the demand "for all Government securities has been due to the timidity of capital and lack of confidence respecting general political manoeuvres. Capital recoils from venturing into enterprises which are sensitive to Congressional interference." The advance in Liberty bonds, it was suggested, had been "helped also by the reluctance of bondholders to sell and pay taxes on their profit, or reinvest the proceeds in other classes of securities."

The following table shows the gains recorded yesterday by the most active of the Government bond group:

First 4¼s	100.14	100.13	2-32ds.
Second 4¼s	100.10	100.10	4-32ds.
Treasury 4¼s	(b)102.6	102.6	5-32ds.

(a) Touched previous high for 1924.
(b) New highs for 1924.

New York Bonds High.

Reflecting also the strong demand for gilt-edged securities to meet investment needs of banks, was the activity yesterday in other classes of high-grade tax-exempt securities. New York State bonds continued to sell at a premium, the interest yield on these bonds being even less than on the Liberties, which are now near prices that will return investors only 4 per cent.

New York City bonds were more active yesterday, although this market still continues a nominal one. An advance of one-eighth of 1 per cent. in the bid price was noted in two city issues, these having been the 4½s, due, respectively, in 1953 and 1959. New York City issues as a group were selling at prices to yield from 4.16 to 4.20 per cent.; the Liberties to yield a shade above 4 per cent. and the State bonds to yield 3.90 to 3.97 per cent. Buying of Federal Intermediate Credit securities resulted in establishing a premium of approximately one-quarter of 1 per cent. above par on these securities.

Another factor in Liberty Bond price advances was said to be the demand for such bonds by Massachusetts savings banks. Last February, the Savings Bank Association of Massachusetts reported that so many institutions were close to the limit of 60 per cent. set by that State on real estate and building mortgages that they would have to go out of the construction field to place new loans, and they, like some of the larger of the New York savings banks, were said to have resorted to the Government bonds as an outlet for funds.

GROSS INCOME UP, NET CUT.

Adirondack Power's April Report Not So Good as That of a Year Ago.

The Adirondack Power and Light Corporation reports $587,448 gross revenues for April, an increase of $23,420 over a year ago. Gross income was $233,346, against $212,615, and net $117,693, against $120,225. For the four months ended with April gross and net incomes showed gains respectively of 26.99 per cent. and 31.22, while gross revenue increased 7.95 per cent.

The Southern Utilities Company yesterday reported gross operating revenue of $279,071 for April, against $243,439 a year ago. Operating income was $85,715, against $82,037, and net $52,979, against $52,070.

Gross operating revenue of $102,357 was reported for April by the Augusta-Aiken Railway and Electric Corporation, a decrease of $4,212. Net income was $16,271, a decrease of $200.

GENERAL MOTORS TO REFORM CAPITAL

Common Stock to Be Cut 4 to 1 and Other Stock to Be Replaced by 7 Per Cent. Pfd.

STOCKHOLDERS TO VOTE

Criticism of Complicated Capitalization Led Management to Plan Simpler Form.

John J. Raskob, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the General Moors Corporaion, sen a letter yesterday to stockholders outlining plans which will be submitted to stockholders at a special meeting on June 16 to simplify the capital structure of the company. The proposal is to reduce the number of no par value common shares outstanding from 20,646,397 to 5,161,600 by the exhange of one share of the new stock for each four shares now held, and also to convert the debenture and preferred stocks into a new issue of 7 per cent. preferred stock redeemable at $125 a share. The company then would have outstanding only two classes of stock instead of four as at present. The proposed change was approved by the directors as a result of criticism on the part of stockholders, particularly from the owners of the 6 per cent. debenture and preferred stock.

	Common shares issued, capitalized.	Value
As proposed	5,161,600	258,080,000

At present the company has three issues of senior securities, namely, 7 per cent. debenture stock, 6 per cent. debenture stock and 6 per cent. preferred stock, all of which enjoy the same preferences with respect to dividends and security, but differing as to voting privileges. The 7 per cent. debenture stock is subject to redemption at $120 a share, while the 6 per cent. debenture may be redeemed at $115 and the 6 per cent preferred at $110.

In connection with the proposed plan to simplify the capital structure the company asks the stockholders to approve the consolidation of all three of the senior securities into one issue of 7 per cent. preferred stock, redeemable at $125 a share, which stock will enjoy a prior preference over all present issues on the entire assets after the debts of the corporation.

Regarding the proposed exchange, the letter says that the holders of the present 6 per cent. debenture and 6 per cent. preferred stocks shall be given the right to exchange their stocks for this new 7 per cent. preferred stock share for share upon the payment of $10 a share in cash. This results in an increased income of $1 per annum on each share exchanged through the payment of $10 and, according to the company represents an income return of 10 per cent. per annum on the amount of this payment.

Upon accomplishment of the plan the capital structure of the organization would be:

Seven per cent. preferred stock (constituting a first charge on entire assets after debts of the corporation, all as more fully explained herein)	$109,916,000
Common stock (5,161,600 shares of no par value capitalized at $50 per share)	258,080,000
Total capital and surplus	$448,663,000

"The $109,916,000 7 per cent. preferred stock presently to be issued is protected by upward of $448,663,000 of net assets, representing a ratio of protection of better than four to one."

PORT MAY GET RAILROAD.

Bill Introduced in House to Sell Line for $1,000,000.

Sale of the Hoboken Manufacturers Railroad Company to the Port of New York Authority for $1,000,000 will be brought about if favorable action is taken on a bill reported to the House of Representatives by the Military Committee.

The railroad is approximately eleven miles long. The United States Government purchased the assets of the American Warehouse and Trading Company, including all the stock of the Hoboken Manufacturers' Railroad Company, and took possession of the property on July 1, 1917. Since then the Government has received an offer of 1,000,000 for the property from the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company, but the Military Committee opposed such a sale in favor of disposing of the property to the Port of New York Authority.

Payment is to be made by the Port of New York Authority in bonds of the port.

PROSPERITY FOR RAILROAD.

St. Louis-San Francisco Has One of Best Years in Its History.

The St. Louis-San Francisco Railway reports $3,762,858 net income for 1923, after allowance for fixed charges and interest. After dividends on the preferred stock, this is equivalent to $6.51 a share earned on the $50,447,000 of common stock. It compares with $753,013 net income in 1922, or 56 cents a share on the common stock. The report is one of the most favorable in the company's history.

Non-operating income	451,827	494,649
Net income	3,762,858	753,013

CHICAGO ELEVATED'S PLAN.

Reorganization Securities to Be Delivered by Committee June 10.

The new securities deliverable by the reorganization committee of the old Chicago Elevated Railways Company to holders of certificates of deposit will be ready for distribution on and after June 10, it was announced yesterday. Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Bank, is Chairman of the committee.

The distribuiable securities comprise first lien and refunding mortgage bonds and adjustment debenture bonds of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company, the new company, and voting trust certificates for common stock of this company. The committee will continue to accept deposits of secured gold notes, whether they have or have not been extended, and of 10-year 6 per cent. debentures of Chicago Elevated Railways, subject to the plan and reorganization agreements.

S. H. Kress & Co. Elects Directors.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the S. H. Kress Company the following directors were elected to serve three years: H. R. Ickelheimer of Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co., C. T. Green and J. J. Parkhurst.

Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Gains.

Second Consolidation in Jersey Town Within Recent Months.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., May 14.—Harry S. Pond, President of the Plainfield Trust Company, announced today that plans for a merger of it and the City National Bank of Plainfield had been approved by both institutions. Each bank will continue under the supervision of its own officers and directors until a modern building can be built for the enlarged institution. The combined capital surplus and undivided profits are $1,642,682 and deposits are $18,314,017. Both banks are members of the Federal Reserve system.

A merger of the First National Bank and the State Trust Company was announced recently.

Utilities Company Reports Gain.

The Iowa Southern Utilities Company reports for the year ended March 31 gross income of $1,151,159, against $1,113,449 for the previous year. After deducting operating expenses, maintenance and taxes, net income was $445,985, against $416,196.

Purchase of Antilla Sugar Delayed.

Directors of the Punta Alegre Sugar Company meeting yesterday failed to take any action approving the purchase of the Antilla Sugar Company. It was stated that action could not be taken until the Bank of Canada had completed its audit of the Antilla books.

American Syndicate Reported to Be Negotiating for a Loan to Spain.

UTILITY NOTES ON MARKET

Los Angeles County $1,000,000 Issue Among Several Other Investments Announced.

An American banking syndicate was reported yesterday to be negotiating with the Government of Spain for an issue of bonds to be placed in the American market, the proceeds to be used in consolidating Spanish public utility properties.

Confirmation was lacking, but advices from Paris indicated that a movement has been started in Spain looking toward the building of 1,500 miles of additional track and development of Spanish water-power for electric traction and industrial power. The project, it was said, was receiving the study of a Spanish commission.

Two New York institutions reported to be interested denied that they were concerned in the negotiations. Both had heard the report, they said. Financing of this project, according to foreign advices, was to be undertaken jointly by American and British bankers.

New bond offerings scheduled for today amount to approximately $6,500,000. Estabrook & Co. and Stone and Webster, Inc., are offering a new issue of $2,700,000 Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric Company two-year 5 per cent. gold notes due May 1, 1926, at 99.54, to yield approximately 5.25 per cent. These notes are a direct obligation of the Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric Company, and interest payments are to be made semi-annually in Boston without deduction for the normal Federal income tax not in excess of 2 per cent. They are callable as a whole or in part at 100½ on Nov. 1, 1924, at 100¼ on May 1, 1925, and at par on Nov. 1, 1925.

George B. Gibbons & Co., Inc., offer a new issue of $1,020,000 City of Amsterdam, N. Y., gold 4½ per cent. school bonds maturing April 1, 1925-1964, at prices to yield 4.15 per cent.

A new issue of $1,000,000 Los Angeles County, 5 per cent. bonds, maturing July 1, 1928-1947, is being offered at prices to yield 4.60 per cent. by the Anglo-London Paris Company, the Detroit Company and the Bank of Italy, the first and last named of San Francisco.

Offering of $720,000 Columbus, Ohio, 5 per cent. coupon bonds due March 1 and Nov. 1, 1925-1947, is being made by Estabrook & Co., Curtis & Sanger, Hannahs, Ballin & Lee and Otis & Co. at prices to yield 4.30 to 4.35 per cent.

McBee, Jones & Co. are offering a new issue of $600,000 Mississquoi Pulp & Paper Company five-year guaranteed 7 per cent. convertible gold notes due April 1, 1929, at 99¼ to yield a shade in excess of 7 per cent. This company manufactures fine cardboards at Sheldon Springs, Vt. The bonds are convertible into the company's 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock up to Oct. 1, 1928, at 93½ for the preferred and par for the notes.

E. W. Clucas & Co., Morin S. Hare & Co. and C. H. Hensel are offering 47,000 shares of R. E. Thompson Radio Corporation capital stock at $12.50 a share.

It was reported that the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company, a tightly closed corporation, would shortly offer stock for public subscription. The company does all but a small part of the world's fire alarm business, and has been in existence fifty-five years.

Willys-Overland Earnings.

Earnings of the Willys-Overland Company in the first three months of this year were $2,160,520, according to estimates presented to stockholders at the annual meeting. This compares with $2,729,469 in the same period of 1923. No action was taken by the directors on the payment of accumulated dividends on the preferred stock. Retiring directors were re-elected.

CHANGE IN CONTROL OF MARLAND OIL CO.

New Executive Committee, Composed Chiefly of J. P. Morgan & Co. Associates, in Charge.

A new Executive Committee, composed chiefly of those associated with J. P. Morgan & Co., was named yesterday by the Marland Oil Company, according to announcement made last night. It will have general charge of the company's operations.

J. P. Morgan & Co. became interested in Marland Oil several months ago, when the banking house purchased 800,000 shares of the company's stock at $30 a share. Part, at least, of this stock was resold. At the same time J. P. Morgan & Co. took an option on an additional block of the capital stock of the Marland company amounting to approximately 275,000 shares at $30 a share, for which it agreed to pay $1 a share, thereby netting the company $40 a share should the option be exercised before its termination, nine months from the date of the option.

George Whitney, a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., was one of the members of the Executive Committee named yesterday. He succeeds S. W. Hayes as a director. The new committee will be composed of E. W. Marland, President; W. H. McFadden, W. G. Lackey, Vice Presidents; William C. Potter, President of the Guaranty Trust Company; George Whitney of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Charles Smithers of F. S. Smithers & Co.; R. N. Potter of Potter & Co.; Leonard P. Taylor and Charles E. Stephenson, Secretary.

Safe Deposit Men to Meet.

A meeting of the New York Safe Deposit Association, embracing 500 active and associate members among financial institutions, will be held at the Aldine Club this evening.

Airplane Concern's Earnings.

PRODUCTION DROPS IN IRON AND STEEL

READJUSTMENT UNDER WAY

Less Curtailment of Output Is Noted, With Improvement in Conditions in General.

Iron and steel production continues to fall sharply, according to reviews of the trade issued yesterday. Operations are at approximately 65 per cent. of capacity. In summing up the situation, The Iron Trade Review says:

"With production down 25 to 30 per cent. within a period of thirty days and still being reduced, though more slowly, readjustment in the iron and steel market continues under way. As the situation becomes better balanced, sentiment is improving. New business remains considerably below shipments, but the very vigor by which the latter have been eating into unfilled orders, evidencing present consumption, supplies the best ground for the hope of the maintenance of industry on a substantial basis of activity.

"The reduction in the United States Steel bookings in April is the largest by percentage in any single month in many years. However, this decline does not indicate the extent to which shipments were made by the leading interest because much business for immediate dispatch was taken and delivered within the month. Much of present buying is of this character. Excepting possibly the strike period of 1919, steel ingot production fell more precipitately in April than in any period since the monthly statistics have been available."

The Iron Age makes the following comment: "Some additional blast furnace and steel-making units have been put on the inactive list, but the curtailment is smaller than that of the preceding week. Buying has been notably light both in pig iron and finished steel, yet here and there a seller reports orders at a better rate than that of ten days ago. That would be easily possible without the attaching of significance to the change. As a whole, the steel industry is operating at about 65 per cent. of capacity or at the rate of 55,000,000 tons of ingots a year."

MUST SUSPEND DIVIDENDS.

Public Service Railway Co. Ordered to Increase Depreciation Fund.

TRENTON, N. J., May 14.—An order issued by the Public Utilities Board today takes issue with the contention of the Public Service Railway Company that earnings in 1923 did not justify setting aside more than $550,000 for depreciation and directs that no dividends be paid until the full amount of $1,100,000 be set aside as directed in a previous order, which the board holds to be not an "unreasonable stipulation."

The board directs the company to charge to an appropriate expense account $800,000 for depreciation, and further directs that up to and including July, 1926, the company shall pay periodically into the proper account sums to aggregate $300,000, and concurrently to credit these amounts "to accrued depreciation of road equipment"; that is, to depreciation before the board's order was first issued in 1921.

The company is ordered to re-form its books of accounts from Jan. 1, last, to conform with the conclusions of the board.

NEW TERMINAL IS OPENED.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., May 14.—Amid the cheers of a multitude of guests from all parts of South Jersey, Philadelphia and New York, and with an exultant toot of its whistle, the first train pulled out of the new $3,000,000 terminal and ferry house of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad in Camden today. At the attending ceremonies Reading officials were applauded. E. T. Stotesbury, Chairman of the committee, introduced Agnew T. Dice, President of the Reading & Company, who told of the difficulties in building the terminal. Charles H. Ewing, Vice President, sketched the future of the terminal.

Governor Sliser accepted the terminal on behalf of the State. Mayor King of Camden, Mayor Bader of Atlantic City and Mayor Kendrick of Philadelphia spoke briefly.

Crocker-Wheeler Election.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Crocker-Wheeler Company, the following were elected directors for the ensuing year: Edward W. Brown, Arthur L. Doremus, Hampton D. Ewing, Theodore S. Fuller, Ernest B. Humpstone, Frank H. Jones, Edmund Lang, Herbert C. Petty and Professor Michael I. Pupin. At an organization meeting of the directors all officers of the company were re-elected.

Flad on Mississippi Commission.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Edward Flad of St. Louis was selected today by Secretary Weeks to be civilian engineer member of the Mississippi River Commission. His nomination will be sent to the Senate at an early date.

SUPER-POWER LINK READY TO OPERATE

Completion of an electrical way between Pittsburgh and Cleveland for high-power transmission lines of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company, the Northern Ohio Traction and Light Company, the Ohio Power Company and the West Penn System was announced yesterday by the West Penn Company, a subsidiary of the American Water Works and Electric Company, Inc.

The connection of power companies in this industrial zone by high-tension lies will release large reserves of electricity for use at any point in the coal-field system. At present this zone stretches from Cleveland as far south as Weston, W. Va.

By building a relatively short power line in Maryland, between Oakland and Cumberland, the West Penn system may be connected with the Potomac Edison Company, another subsidiary of the American company, supplying the territory from Cumberland to Hagerstown and Frederick.

Another advantage from the association of the power companies, it was pointed out, will be the saving on reserve generating equipment. This reserve equipment probably will be greatly reduced and the millions of dollars saved can then be applied to the construction of plants that will engage in the production of electricity at "high load."

The coal-field group of companies has a combined capitalization of $315,000,000 and a generating capacity of more than 2,000,000 horsepower.

AUTO SALES INCREASE.

Industry Never in Better Shape, Says Trade Journal.

Increase in sales of automobiles in the last few days is noted by Automotive Industries, which thus sums up the situation in that industry:

"The April shower is over and automobile manufacturers have checked their umbrellas, satisfied that the business skies have cleared and that it will be 'fair and warmer' for some little time to come. Production, it is evident, is one a pre-April basis, dealer stocks are moving with the advent of more seasonable weather, and there seems to be no reason for any further setback while the Spring demand is on.

"While it is yet too early in the month to predict the May output, it is apparent that the manufacturers have been so cheered by the reports from the field as to retail sales as to resume the even tenor of their ways, disturbed for the moment by the April slow-down in the plants. Financially and otherwise, the industry never has been in better shape, say those who ought to know. Car builders are working in such close harmony with their distributers and dealers that the ebb and flow of demand can be sensed almost instantaneously and production increased or decreased as occasion demands."

COPPER AT NEW LOW PRICE.

Trade Circles Hear of Offer at 13 Cents for New England Delivery.

According to a report in trade circles yesterday, a large wire manufacturer received an offer of a round quantity of copper at 13 cents a pound, delivered in the New England district. This is the lowest offering price since the decline started in February. Sellers advanced the theory that this particular offering was probably in resale material and for prompt delivery.

Regular sales of spot copper have been made at 13¼ cents delivered, while future shipments have been held at 13¼ cents by the interests credited with making the low prices. The present market compares with 13¼ to 13⅝ cents, according to delivery, at the beginning of the week. Export business is small, quotations being 5 to 10 points lower at 13.05 to 13.10 cents f. a. s. New York Harbor and 13.30 to 13.35 c. i. f. London or Hamburg.

EXTEND WILSON & CO. NOTES

Tangle Which Grew Out of Plan for Stock Issue Is Clearing.

More than 85 per cent. of the bankers holding notes of Wilson & Co., packers, have agreed to extend the time of payment for six months, it was announced yesterday. When a tentative agreement was reached a short time ago the holders of one-half of the face value of the notes were in favor of granting an extension.

According to bankers interested in the tangle which grew out of the obstacles to the offering of new stock by Wilson & Co., substantial progress has been made in the last week. Regarding the anticipated plan for a recapitalization of the company, it was said that nothing would be done until next month. A report by auditors is expected shortly after June 1.

H. L. DOHERTY IS 54 TODAY.

25,000 Employes in 120 Communities Will Celebrate.

Twenty-five thousand employes of the Cities Service Company, its subsidiaries and Henry L. Doherty & Co., in 120 cities and towns in the United States, Canada and Mexico, will celebrate today the fifty-fourth birthday of Henry L. Doherty.

Outings have been arranged for the afternoon and in the majority of places the Doherty companies have planned athletic exercises. New York employes will celebrate at Semler's Park, Grant City, S. I.

Consumers Become Stockholders.

D. M. Watt, President of the South Pittsburgh Water Company, announced yesterday completion of a sale by its employes of $500,000 par value 7 per cent. preferred stock of the company to consumers. The sale of stock was in accord with the policy of the American Water Works and Electric Company, the parent company, to obtain funds for extensions and improvements.

APRIL CONSUMPTION OF COTTON MUCH REDUCED

Takings of Home Spinners 3,918 Bales Below March, Exports Down 11,394.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Cotton consumed during April amounted to 450,016 sales of lint and 42, 289 of linters, compared with 483,928 of lint and 41,030 of linters consumed during March this year and 576,514 of lint and 32,595 of linters in April last year, the Census Bureau announced today.

Cotton on hand April 30 was held as follows: In consuming establishments 1,228,273 bales of lint and 130,245 of linters, compared with 1,498,266 of lint and 128,349 of linters so held on March 31 this year and 1,378,198 of lint and 147,941 of linters so held on April 30 last year.

In public storage and compresses 1,512,086 bales of lint and 83,244 of linters compared with 1,983,544 of lint and 89,032 of linters so held on March 31 this year and 1,965,714 of lint and 55,807 of linters so held on April 30 this year.

Exports during April totaled 250,774 bales, including 9,581 bales of linters, compared with 332,168, including 17,091 of linters, in March this year and 259,584, including 2,769 of linters, in April last year.

	Apr. 30.	Mar. 31.	Apr. 30.

The largest monthly export of cotton since the war was 929,671 bales in January, 1920; smallest, 146,668 in August, 1920. The smallest of wartime was 126,778 bales in September, 1914.

For the nine completed months of the cotton season, home spinners' takings have been 4,659,374 bales, against 5,054,004 last year. Exports have been 5,003,129, against 4,320,108.

NEW STEAM ENGINE IS RIVAL TO ELECTRIC

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 14.—Supremacy in hauling of railroad freight, claimed recently for electricity upon production of an electric locomotive, driven by oil burning motors and capable of moving heavy trains at low cost, will be challenged soon with the introduction of a steam locomotive, operating at 350 pounds pressure and incorporating features of design upon which engineers have been working four years.

The locomotive, produced through the joint efforts of the American Locomotive Company, the Delaware & Hudson Railroad and accessory engineers, is nearing completion in the locomotive company's shops in this city. After final tests it will be shown to Atlantic City for exhibition at the Master Mechanics' Convention during the week of June 20. It then will go into service in the Albany-Susquehanna Division of the Delaware & Hudson, operating between Oneonta and Mechanicsville.

John E. Muhlfield, son-in-law of L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson, receives credit for a major share of the design of the new engine. The cost is said to approximate $100,000. It has a pair of small wheels forward, followed by four drivers, but lacks the usual trailer wheels, the idea being to concentrate the weight usually carried on the trailers upon the drivers in order to provide greater tractional force.

In its superstructure the new locomotive, which is of the compound type, bears slight resemblance to modern engines. The smoke-box is small and the boiler scarcely can be seen under a maze of huge steam pipes. The heating apparatus is of marine design, "water tube" type. The tubes carrying the circulation water are placed outside the firebox.

Encased in extra heavy asbestos insulation, the outside tubes give the firebox an unusual width, so that it is only a few inches narrower than the cab, which itself is of the maximum width permissible for railroad use.

The steam is admitted under high pressure first to the cylinder on one side, and then passed, under slightly decreased pressure after using, to the cylinder on the opposite side. It then is exhausted through the stack. The second cylinder is larger in diameter to produce the same power.

The usual "booster" is attached as the forward truck of the tender. Steam is carried through steel pipes to the "booster," which, with its small wheels and consequently lower gearing, is used in starting the train, after which the pressure shuts off automatically and the wheels act like an ordinary trailer. Greater efficiency in freight haulage at less expense than the average engine is claimed for the new locomotive.

Manila Road's Profits Drop.

Net profits of the Manila Railroad Company for 1923 were 1,285,275 pesos, as compared with 2,281,318 pesos in 1922, after deducting profit and loss adjustments.

MAY CALL HUGHES ON SALE OF VESSELS

CASE CAME UP IN 1920

Secretary Says He Represented the Martha Washington Owners Before Taking Office.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A proposal to summon Secretary Hughes before the House committee investigating the Shipping Board in connection with its inquiry into the sale by the board of the steamer Martha Washington to an Italian corporation of Trieste was made today. A decision would be reached about summoning him, committee members said, after they had studied the statement Secretary Hughes made today denying that he had anything to do with the sale of the ship, which was seized by the United States from Austria in the war and sold after Mr. Hughes became Secretary of State.

He characterized as "absolutely false" the statement that he "had anything to do with the sale of the steamship "Martha Washington" to its former owners by the Shipping Board.

Representative Davis, Democrat, of Tennessee, yesterday read the correspondence as well as records of hearings by the House Merchant Marine Committee, to show that Mr. Hughes in December, 1920, three months before he became Secretary of State, was active as counsel for a Trieste corporation to have title of the ship transferred back to that company. He also produced a resolution of the Shipping Board two years later under which the ship was sold for $60,000 to the corporation after the Board had been advised by the State Department that the Trieste company was than Italian owned, through the annexation of Trieste.

Correspondence read by Mr. Davis included that between William Phillips, then Under Secretary of State; A. A. Adee, Second Assistant Secretary, and Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board. It involved the forwarding of representations on the part of the Italian Ambassador and other interested persons, as well as information as to the national status of the corporation claiming the ship.

Hughes Contradicts Davis.

"The statement that I had anything to do with the sale of the Martha Washington," said Secretary Hughes in his statement today, "is absolutely false. I have had nothing to do with this matter since I became Secretary of State.

"In 1920, when I was practicing law, and before I had any idea of becoming Secretary of State, I was consulted by the attorneys of the Italians who claimed the vessel. I believed their claim was a just one and took the matter up. While the vessel had been seized by this Government because she flew the Austrian flag, she belonged to Trieste and the corporation organized and controlled by Italians. When Trieste went to Italy, the corporation was recognized by Italy as an Italian corporation and the Italians sought the return of the vessel.

"The question was whether the Government should confiscate a vessel which really belonged to its associates in the war. My connection with the matter completely ended before I became Secretary of State.

"When a long time afterward I learned that the Shipping Board had brought questions relating to the vessel before the Department of State, I declined, because of my previous connection as above stated, to have anything to do with it. The matter was handled exclusively under the direction of Mr. Phillips, the Under-Secretary of State, on the advice of the Solicitor's office, without any reference to me.

"I did not discuss the questions involved with any one in the department, and gave no instructions or suggestions directly or indirectly as to what should be done. I did not even know what had been done about it until a short time ago when one of the newspaper correspondents mentioned it."

Phibin Wants Ships Retained.

The committee today temporarily postponed further consideration of the sale of the Martha Washington, and resumed its inquiry into ship sales generally. J. Harry Philbin, manager of the board's ship sales department, making his fourth days' appearance on the stand.

Philbin testified regarding a new sales policy under which ships are sold on a basis of their individual appraised value instead of a $30 flat rate per ton on all vessels excepting lake types.

Philbin said there was no question that world shipping conditions would improve "at no far distant date," and that many obsolete vessels would have to be scrapped, creating a demand for the practically new ships of the Government fleet.

The "bottom of values of shipping" has been reached, the witness continued, and he thought no vessels should be sold for less than the basic price as fixed by the board.

"We ought to retain all the ships under American flag," he continued, "even if we have a surplus. We should lay them away as an insurance for at least five years."

YALE COURSE FOR LAWYERS.

University Inaugurates Summer Graduate Study for Doctorate.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 14.—A new development will be inaugurated this Summer by the Yale University School of Law. It consists of a graduate Summer session for teachers of law and for lawyers, in which special advanced and research courses will be given, in addition to the regular session for undergraduates in law.

The first term extends from June 19 to July 26, and the second from July 28 to Sept. 3. The experiment will be continued for three years, in order that those who attend this year may obtain a doctorate in law after three Summers' work. Thereafter the continuance of the graduate Summer session will depend on the results disclosed.

This Summer the work will be conducted entirely by members of the regular Yale teaching staff, but in subsequent years distinguished scholars from other universities may also be engaged. The graduate courses will include "Roman Law and Modern Developments," by Professor Ernest G. Lorenzen, a course to be continued in the Summer session of 1925; "Problems in the Conflict of Laws," by Professor Walter W. Cook; "Legal History," by Professor George E. Woodbine, to be continued in the session of 1925, and "Legal Analysis," by Professor Arthur L. Corbin. The undergraduate law courses will also be open to graduate students."

GOOD WEATHER FOR COTTON

Week's Conditions Help Wheat, Too, but Hinder Corn.

The weekly weather report of the Department of Agriculture issued in Washington yesterday in part follows:

"Rainfall was mostly light to moderate in the cotton States, and the showers that occurred in West Gulf sections were beneficial. The weather on the whole was favorable for field work, and planting made mostly good progress in the northern portions of the belt, though seriously interrupted in northeastern sections by frequent heavy rains the latter part of the week. It was entirely too cool, however, for the germination of the late planted and the growth of early planted cotton, and the progress was generally poor.

"Stands are irregular in Texas, where the general condition of the crop ranges from poor to fair, but there was very good progress in cultivating and chopping; weevil were appearing in the lower coast section. The crop deteriorated in Oklahoma because of the unseasonably cool weather causing the seed to rot and making necessary heavy replanting.

"Corn planting was seriously interrupted during the week east of the Mississippi where but little was accomplished. This work is becoming very late in the area, while the cool, wet weather was unfavorable for germination of corn planted. In the transmississippi planting progressed favorably in most sections except in Iowa, where the cool weather and the mostly dry soil were detrimental to both planting and germination. Early planted corn in the South made slow growth because of the cool nights, although conditions continued mostly good in the West Gulf district, and stands are fair to good in the Southeast. The crop has been mostly planted in Missouri, but the plants that are up are turning yellow on account of the cool weather, while growth was slow in Kansas and Oklahoma.

"The cool, damp weather was favorable for the growth of Winter wheat in all sections from the Mississippi River Eastward and the crop shows considerable improvement in the Middle Atlantic area. There was some complaint of rank growthe and weeds locally in the Ohio Valley, but on the whole the field not Winter-killed made satisfactory progress in that area.

"Wheat continued its good advance in the Transmississippi States except that the growth was slow in some areas because of low temperatures and dry soil, especially in Iowa and parts of Nebraska. Rainfall was also needed in Western Oklahoma and quite generally in the more Western and Northwestern States. The growth of Spring wheat was slow, but on the whole satisfactory. The crop was greening up slowly in Minnesota, and the early sown has a good color in North Dakota, while the weather was favorable for rooting in South Dakota. It was mostly too cool and windy for Spring wheat in the Rocky Mountain district, but the warmer weather was beneficial in the far Northwest, although moisture was deficient.

"Oats were favorably affected by the weather in Central and Northern States east of the Mississippi, where the early seeded were reported as up to a good stand and looking well. Both oats and barley are in good condition in the lower plains, but dry, cool weather was unfavorable for oats in Nebraska and Iowa, while there was some complaint of seed-rotting in Wisconsin. Both small grain crops were heading low because of continued drought in California.

Cattle Prices at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Dwindling receipt of hogs, only 15,000, the smallest Wednesday run of the year, was largely responsible for a five to ten cent advance in the price. The top was $7.50 and the general average $7.30. Larger packers favored the cheaper grades, which held down the average price. The Colorado lamb season is practically at a close. Prices were easy early and firmer later with the top wooled $17.25. Aged sheep were 10 to 15 cents higher, due to scarcity. Handy weight live steers were 25 cents higher and cows and heifers moved up 15 to 25 cents. Receipts were small.

CURTAILMENT FAILS TO DEPRESS COTTON

CROP VEGETATION IS SLOW

Consumption in the Last Three Months of Season Reported as Comparatively Heavy.

The census report on domestic consumption for April showed 480,000 bales, compared with 483,000 the previous month and 576,000 during April last year. While the figures reflected curtailment, the reduction was hardly as great as expected and failed to depress the cotton market yesterday. Uneasiness over progress of the new crop caused further covering in late months and this, with a demand for May contracts, advanced prices 30 points at one time. When the buying movement failed to broaden, scattered liquidation and professional reselling brought a setback and loss of most of the gain in later trading. Prices closed 2 to 21 points higher than Tuesday.

An improvement in Liverpool, larger domestic consumption that had been considered probable, heavy rains in parts of Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley and persistent covering in the May position, all operated toward the steady market during early trading. The volume of business in late months increased moderately as a direct result of unfavorable crop advices and disappointment over the failure of weather to show a radical change for the better. Temperatures in Oklahoma and Arkansas were lower again yesterday. Rainfall in certain sections proved the heaviest in a week. The weekly weather summary reflected slow advance in vegetation, but more rapid progress in planting operations.

October advanced 30 points at one time, which brought quotations to 25.20, or within 5 points of high levels reached last week. The advance in July met contracts around 29 cents and above where scale selling orders supplied cotton. A weaker stock market brought reselling of new crops. Buying power was not broad enough to carry on the improvement, and while May gained $1 a bale, late months closed only slightly higher.

Census figures showed that spinners held 1,328,000 bales on May 1, compared with 1,878,000 a year ago, a decrease of 550,000 bales. Mills still had over a million bales at the close of last season which was carried over into the new crop year. Consumption during the three remaining months of the season of 1922-3 was comparatively heavy; that during May aggregating 320,000 bales, while mills used 542,000 bales in June and 461,000 bales in July.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.

The local market for spot cotton was steady, 15 points advance, at 31.70c for middling upland.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston 30.75c, unchanged; New Orleans 31c, 20 points advance; Savannah 30.17c, 9 points advance; August 30.13c, 13 points advance; Memphis, 30.50c, unchanged; Houston 30.50c, unchanged; Little Rock 30c, unchanged.

LABOR BOARD ENTERS RAIL WAGE DISPUTE

Intervenes to Protect Commerce as Enginemen Ask Rise of Each of Ninety Roads in West.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The Railroad Labor Board decided today to intervene in the matter of 60,000 locomotive engineers and firemen asking for a 5½ per cent. wage increase from ninety Western railroads. This action had been requested by the railroads, but not by the employes, who intended to pursue their negotiations with each individual railroad.

In announcing that it would take jurisdiction, the board said:

"In view of these circumstances the board has reason to believe that a dispute exists which is likely to substantially interrupt commerce."

That there was no such likelihood was the assertion of an hour previously by Harry P. Daugherty, Assistant Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. All possibilities of the men and roads reaching an agreement had not been exhausted, he said. He denied reports that he and D. B. Robertson, President of the Brotherhood of Firemen, had "bolted" the wage conference that terminated Monday.

The board's decision to intervene, which was unanimous, is also, despite the bill now in Congress, supported by the rail brotherhoods and unions seeking to abolish the board.

CALLS 38 NASSAU BANKERS.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 14.—Deputy Attorney General Timothy N. Pfeiffer, who is presenting evidence to the Extraordinary Grand Jury about the $1,000,000 Long Beach bridge, today began an investigation to see whether G. Wilbur Doughty made any deposits or investments while the bridge was under construction or just after it was completed.

Mr. Doughty is the Republican leader of Nassau County, State Committeeman for the First Assembly District and a County Supervisor.

Cashiers from thirty-eight banks in the county have been subpoenaed to appear before the Grand Jury with transcripts of any accounts Doughty might have had in their institutions between Jan. 1, 1920, and Jan. 1, 1924. Twenty-two appeared at the Court House today and told Mr. Pfeiffer that Doughty had no accounts in their banks.

Mr. Pfeiffer announced that the search for information about Doughty's finances had extended to other States, including Pennsylvania.

NEW FARM RELIEF BILL.

Senator Smith Offers Measure to Unite Farm Bloc Factions.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A new farm relief bill providing for the creation of agricultural associations with power to lend money on farm products, limit production and market commodities was presented today by Senator Smith, Democrat, of South Carolina.

The bill was drawn, its proponents said, with the idea of providing a compromise upon which the whole strength of the farm bloc in the Senate could be centred.

It provides that associations shall be organized to handle the principal farm commodities, with one particular crop allotted to each association. This arrangement is designed to simplify the problem by obviating differences between producers of various crops.

SCRAP IRON PRICES RISE.

Steel Interests Are Encouraged by the Firmer Market.

Dealers in scrap iron at Pittsburgh and Chicago, according to advices received in local steel circles, have stiffened their prices materially. The Weirton Steel Company has bought 5,000 tons of heavy melting steel at an advance of 50 cents over prices recently prevailing, and inquiries from the Jones-Laughlin Steel Company and other independents in the Pittsburgh district are reported to have buoyed up the scrap market.

Steel interests are encouraged by a slightly firmer attitude in pig iron and advances in scrap, pointing out that these developments usually precede a better market for steel products.

WHEAT AND CORN UP IN A DULL MARKET

Trading Interest Is Small, but Some Commission Houses Talk for Buying Side.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Wheat traders are taking small profits when they appear and much July, bought around $1.05 of late, came out today around $1.06½. The market is in a rut with little interest on either side pending the developments at Washington, but sentiment is becoming much more bullish, and several commission houses were out with statements strongly advocating the buying side. Closing trades were unchanged to ¼ cent higher after a range of 1¼@¼ cent for the day.

There was some selling of wheat by a local trader who is going to Europe on Saturday and he came in on a liberal sized line of short September corn. The latter grain was easy early and ⅛@¼ cent higher at the last, with September leading.

Oats were ⅛ cent higher and rye ¼ cent lower, the latter on Northwestern selling.

Crop reports were somewhat more mixed than of late and a few scattered complaints of deterioration are coming from Kansas, but they are not sufficiently serious to cause more than passing comment. Should anything happen, however, to lower the yield materially in the Southwest, the statistical position of the country would be radically altered and might show that there is very little Winter grain available for export east of the Rockies.

The shifting of the acreage into the Pacific Coast States has caused a material change in the domestic situation, as the bulk of the grain raised there must go for export owing to the high eastbound rail freights.

Export demand was slow, with sales of 300,000 bushels of Manitobas. Winnipeg May was 1 cent higher at the last. Foreign news was slightly bullish, with Liverpool up ⅛ to ¾d. on the deferred deliveries. Sentiment taken as a whole is more bullish now than for some time past, but the disposition is to go slow on either side until the McNary bill is disposed of.

Corn receipts are 407,000 bushels; week ago, 675,000; last year, 240,000, and shipments, 736,000 bushels; week ago, 515,000; last year, 507,000.

Features of Canada Crop Report.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, May 14.—A general decrease of Fall wheat Winter killed in the Dominion of Canada is reported in the first crop report of this season issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Of the 767,200 acres of Fall wheat sown in Canada last year, 702,100 are in the Province of Ontario; 49,500 in Alberta and 15,600 in British Columbia.

COAL COST TO BE FAIR, SAYS ASSOCIATION MAN

Brydon Cites Wage Stability, Rail Efficiency and Large Supply on Hand.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 14.—Assurance that there would be an abundant supply of coal for consumers in this country, and at mine prices below those of any land in the world, was given at the opening session here today of the seventh annual convention of the National Coal Association. The point was stressed that the coal industry does not seek an unfair advance, and that with a three-year wage agreement with miners in force, and on the basis of present transportation facilities, prices would be fair to the consuming public.

Bituminous operators, executives and officials from twenty-two producing States are represented. J. C. Brydon, President, said in his annual address that it was the largest gathering of coal men ever held in this country, and he expressed the belief that the meeting would result in a better understanding of the problems of the industry and more satisfactory service to the public.

BUSINESS BUREAU ASKS AID.

Seeks Subscriptions to Finance Work for Fiscal Year.

The Better Business Bureau of New York City mailed letters yesterday to 1,200 banks, investment houses, brokerage firms and savings institutions in New York City requesting subscriptions to finance the bureau's work during the fiscal year begun last May 1. The letters were signed by Gates W. McGarrah, Bayard Dominick, John J. Pulleyn and Henry Hayes, as joint Chairmen of the committee.

The appeal says: "We ask you to subscribe to this work and support this effort to make it impossible and unprofitable for the crooked dealer in securities to carry on his business in this community," and points out that the elimination of the bucket shop and kindred evils will divert "to legitimate channels of business savings which would otherwise be lost."

REORGANIZATION

To the Holders of:

Certificates of Deposit for Secured Gold Notes and Ten Year Six Per Cent. Debentures of Chicago Elevated Railways, issued by The National City Bank of New York, or by the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank (Chicago):

The Plan and Agreement, dated July 14, 1923, for the reorganization of Chicago Elevated Railways, having heretofore been declared operative as to all classes of securities and claims entitled to participate therein, notice is hereby given that the new securities deliverable by the Reorganization Committee to holders of Certificates of Deposit above mentioned, will be ready for delivery, on and after June 10, 1924, to those entitled to receive the same in accordance with the provisions of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization.

Holders of such Certificates of Deposit, in order to obtain the new securities to which they severally become entitled, must surrender their Certificates of Deposit (in negotiable form), on or after June 10, 1924, to the respective depositary which issued the same. The distributable securities comprise First Lien and Refunding Mortgage Bonds and Adjustment Debenture Bonds, of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company, and Voting Trust Certificates for Common Stock of that Company.

Holders of Certificates of Deposit representing Gold Notes (extended) and Ten Year Debentures, and who will therefore be entitled to receive Voting Trust Certificates, may minimize delay in receiving the new securities by filing in advance with the appropriate depositary applications specifying the name or names in which they desire their Voting Trust Certificates to be issued, and at the same time surrendering their Certificates of Deposit. Form of such application may be obtained from either of the depositaries, or from the Secretary of the Committee.

Certificates of Deposit presented for surrender on exchange for new securities must be in negotiable form; and signatures must be guaranteed by a bank or trust company having an office or correspondent in the City of New York, or by a member of the New York Stock Exchange, where presented to the New York depositary, or by a bank or trust company having an office or correspondent in the City of Chicago, or by a member of the Chicago Stock Exchange, where presented to the Chicago depositary.

Until the close of business on June 5, 1924, the Committee will continue to accept deposits of Secured Gold Notes (extended or not extended) and of Ten Year Six Per Cent Debentures of Chicago Elevated Railways, subject to the Plan and Reorganization Agreement.

Such redemption will be effected by payment of the redemption price upon presentation of such bonds at the banking house of the Bank of the Manhattan Company in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, or at the banking house of Alexander Brown and Sons in the City of Baltimore, Maryland, or at the office of the London Joint City and Midland Bank Limited in London, England, now known as Midland Bank, Limited, at the holders' option on the first day of July, 1924. In case any such bonds be not presented for redemption on the date above specified, all interest on said bonds so called for redemption shall cease from and after said date.

JOHN L. BAILEY, Treas

WELCOMES INQUIRY ON COTTON GOODS

He Says the President of the National Council of Importers and Traders.

WILL DISCLOSE THE FACTS

Also Show Futility of Flexible Tariff Provisions and Why Clothes Cost So Much.

According to Frederic B. Shipley, President of the National Council of American Importers and Traders, no greater public service could be performed at the present time than an investigation by the United States Tariff Commission of cotton manufacturing in America. In a statement made public yesterday Mr. Shipley declared that an investigation by the Tariff Commission of cotton goods imports would be welcomed, and that if this investigation is conducted the American people may then learn why they are paying so much for their clothing. The result, he pointed out, is bound to be beneficial to the cotton goods industry as well as to the people.

Commenting upon the request of Congressman John Jacob Rogers of Massachusetts addressed to Chairman Marvin of the United States Tariff Commission, asking for tariff increases on cotton and woolen cloth, Mr. Shipley said:

"Congressman Rogers's letter to Chairman Marvin is a hopeful sign. If the Tariff Commission follows his advice, we may presently get at the truth. The more light thrown on the Fordney tariffs beholden the better for the trade and the country. Mr. Rogers strenuously favored the Fordney law and assured his constituents that its increases would bring them higher wages and better times. The reverse has resulted. The high rates have been in effect a year and a half and, in his own words, 'unemployment, short-time employment, pecuniary hardship and unusual unrest are common, if not general, in New England today.' He attributes the situation to what he calls the 'enormous flood' of cotton cloth importations amounting to 219,000,000 square yards in a year, and seeks to remedy the ill by larger doses of the same medicine. What is the remedy? he asks; 'obviously, to reduce the enormous flood of textile importations.' This enormous flood is about 3 per cent. of the domestic output, gauged by the latest figures at hand, those of 1921, when domestic mills produced 6,723,556,963 square yards of cotton cloth. Unless hopelessly uninformed, how can Mr. Rogers seriously contend that competition upon 3 per cent. of its production can so ruinously effect the whole of so great an industry? Again, he complains of the situation in his own district.

"There have been no appreciable importations in competition with the kinds of cloth made in Lowell. If Mr. Rogers would study his subject he would find that the recent increases of importations have been almost wholly of four kinds of cloth, for which there has been a fashion demand, and which cannot efficiently be made in America. He would find also that these cloths pay already the highest rates of the Fordney tariff, generally around 40 per cent. He would find that this 'protection' is roughly double the total wages paid in New England mills. What can he expect—an embargo upon cotton cloth? Other men attribute the conditions to the inability or unwillingness of the public to pay the present prices. Does Mr. Rogers expect to start the looms by making the public pay still more? Again, in the same year of the 219,000,000 yards of imports, of which he complains, the exports were 464,293,597 yards, or more than double. Mr. Rogers must look farther than the tariff to find the trouble. A deeper study will show him that there are certain kinds of cloth that cannot well be made in America, some of which will be imported under any conceivable tariff. The quantity will always be negligible in proportion to the whole, but cannot totally be stopped by anything short of Volstead legislation. Nor will any sort of a tariff enable their proper production in America, any more than a tariff could enable Massachusetts farmers successfully to grow oranges. Mr. Rogers might as logically advocate a Massachusetts tax upon oranges to promote the apple industry of that State. If he did it would scarcely be less violative of the Constitution than the flexible tariff he seeks to invoke.

"Another point of which Mr. Rogers is perhaps uninformed is that the very tariff he advocated was 'rigged' to encourage the importation of cloths that have been coming in. The New England cotton manufacturers who devised the mystic mazes of the Fordney cotton schedules well knew the situation and fixed preferential rates for the grey or unfinished cloths, so that the final manufacturing processes (bleaching, dyeing, printing and finishing) must be done in domestic plants in which some of these gentlemen are financially interested. If profits couldn't be made for one pocket, why not the other, so long as Congressional committees were willing to be 'coached'? These preferentials were made in face of full knowledge that the processes involved were much cheaper in America than abroad. Interesting proof of this will publicly be furnished before the Tariff Commission, if Mr. Rogers secures the investigation he seeks.

"Another vital point overlooked by Mr. Rogers, and of which Chairman Marvin no doubt will inform him, is that no material increases of duty upon the importations in question are possible through the flexible provisions. The section clearly reads:

"Sec. 315 (d) * * * Whenever it is provided in any paragraph of Title 1 of this act that the duty or duties shall not exceed a specified ad valorem rate upon the articles provided for in such paragraph, no rate determined under the provision of this section shall exceed the maximum ad valorem rate so specified.

"Now then, Paragraph 906 of Title 1 provides: * * * In no case shall the duty or duties imposed upon cotton cloth * * * exceed 45 per centum. ad valorem.' So, if the law means what it appears to mean, the highest rate upon cotton cloth that could be fixed by the Tariff Commission and the President is 45 per cent. As the cloths complained of already pay 45 per cent. or close to it, the flexible tariff offers small consolation. However, the distinguished Representative from Massachusetts could perform no greater public service than to induce the Tariff Commission to conduct a public investigation of cotton manufacturing in America. The American people may then learn why they are paying so much for their clothing, and the ultimate result is bound to be beneficial to the industry as well as to the people."

Tunic Blouse Showing Up Well.

Despite all the activity there has been this season in tailored blouses, especially mannish effects of white silk, buyers of waists are generally showing a satisfactory interest in tunic models. The latter are particularly favored for sports use, for wear with pleated skirts, and are shown in prints and plain crepe de chines, as well as in the heavier and more expensive silks. Such novel trimming effects as the use of attached scarfs, lace frills at neck and wrists, crescent-shaped pockets, &c., give these blouses a particular style value.

Tailored Bags Are Leading.

Novelties continue to dominate in women's handbags, although wholesale activity in this field generally has been quiet. The tailored merchandise is wanted mostly, the silk underarm bag standing out best at this time. Black goods with white piping or trimming are favorite in the flat bags. The demand for the tapestry bags is said to have eased off somewhat, the pre-Easter business being considerably more active than now. In leather bags, cut out designs are prominent. The cheaper grades of leather bags may be advanced in price as the result of the demands of leather goods workers.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Irving Fain has resigned from the Presidency of the Fain Knitting Mills, Inc., effective as of May 31. He will then become head of the Famous Textile Mills, and will open a store shortly thereafter at 52 East Fourteenth Street.

Melvin M. Goldstein, who was formerly associated with Harry P. Eckstein, is now with the General Merchandise Exchange in the capacity of manager of the woman's and children's wear manufacturing department.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the National Retail Dry Goods Association will be held at 200 Fifth Avenue next Wednesday. Among the business to come up will be the question of holding a merchandise fair this year.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

Commercial Paper.

Yesterday—4½ per cent. for the best names. Tuesday—4½ per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

Draperies Bought for Sales.

Draperies for sales purposes are passing in fair volume, wholesalers here say. There is a continued demand for artificial silk curtainings in both plain and figured effects in the neutral shades. Some of the lower quality marquisette weaves have fallen off in demand, and concessions have been made on these goods in order to move them. The finer French marquisettes are understood to be moving with the better grade trade. Interest is also good in white and colored dot grenadines and sateens. The business done in cretonnes so far is somewhat of a disappointment, but this may change as the season advances.

The guimpe is proving to be one of the most important items in women's neckwear at the moment. For wear with sweaters and the new flannel suits, many of them made without sleeves, guimpes and vestees of lace and net in fluffy styles are well to the fore, according to a bulletin issued yesterday by the United Neckwear League of America. The established neckline for the Summer is V-shaped, and the jabot continues popular. Very short sleeves are attached to some of the guimpes now in vogue, while others show long sleeves of gathered net that are trimmed with lace to match the front.

Industrial Fair at Budapest.

Many American buyers are expected at the Industrial Sample Fair which will be held at Budapest, Hungary, from May 31 to June 10. The Hungarian Government, patron of the fair, has granted valuable privileges to foreign visitors. Passes to the exposition costing $2 entitle the holder to free entry into all of the halls of the fair, to a rebate of 50 per cent. of the fare on all railroads and steamships from the Hungarian frontier and back, as well as to a rebate of 50 per cent. of the passport visa fee. During the term of the fair, the holder of a pass will be permitted to enter Hungary without a visa, and, upon request, the lodging office of the City of Budapest will secure proper lodgings for visitors. Information regarding passes may be obtained at the offices of the American Hungarian Chamber of Commerce, Room 816 of the Flatiron Building, this city.

Silverware Trade Not So Active.

Reports from the Maiden Lane district indicate that sales of silverware, both sterling and plated, are not as active as they might be. While retailers in some of the more remote parts of the country, especially in the South and West, were said yesterday to have placed business approximating normal, other sections of the country, including that in and adjacent to this city, have failed to produce the orders that had been expected after the end of Lent. The lateness of Easter, and the consequent shortening of the April matrimonial season, was said at that time to be responsible for the somewhat limited business placed by retailers, but predictions were made that the end of Lent would witness general improvement. While retailers appear to be doing a fair business, their stocks have apparently not been cut into very much as yet, and they appear unwilling to anticipate the future to any great extent.

As to Fall Style Tendencies.

So far there has been little indication of a definite style trend for Fall ready-to-wear. At this time in other seasons there has been a fairly workable basis on which the leading lines would be formed. At present the tendencies are in a state of flux and the producers in the market recognized as style leaders do not care to commit themselves as to what will be outstanding in the new garments. The change in fabrics, particularly coatings, from the bolivias to the closely shorn leather colored cashmere goods plays a part in creating some of the style uncertainty, as it is yet a question as to how the fastidious woman consumer will take to these goods.

Gray Goods Very Quiet.

The dullness of the earlier days of the week continued in the local gray goods market yesterday, with the result that a very limited volume of merchandise changed hands. In the printcloths there was some further spot trading at Tuesday's prices, which were 10½ cents for 39-inch 68-72s, 9¾ cents for 38½-inch 64-60s and 7½ cents for 38½-inch 60-48s. Sellers were more or less generally asking an eighth higher than those figures for June deliveries and a quarter higher for shipment in July. Buyers, however, showed little disposition to trade at the advances. Sheetings were quiet and without feature, with prices based on 10¾ cents for 37-inch 48-squares for goods. For 36-inch five-yard sheetings sellers wanted 6¼ cents, with ¼ cent quoted for 5.50s in the same width. It was said to be probable, however, that a few spot goods of the latter construction might be got out at 7¼ cents.

More Reorders for Skirts.

More reorders for Summer skirts are coming to wholesalers here, and further improvement is expected with the advent of real balmy weather. The wrap-around style continues a favorite with retailers in most sections. Flannels lead in the higher grade sports garments, and in combination with the sleeveless flannel vest are expected to be popular. A new sleeveless guimpe in flannels and fancy silks is also being offered. Skirts of wool crepe and silk and wool weaves are taking well in the moderate price category. Silk and satin skirts are expected to figure strongly in later orders, with white and black color combinations featured.

Finds Collections Fairly Good.

While men's wear retailers are doing only a fair business, wholesale collections have been growing better, according to Willard B. Stevens, Secretary of the National Wholesale Men's Furnishings Association. He attributed the improvement to more balanced buying on the part of retailers, which places them in much better condition to meet their bills when due, although the retail trade in haberdashery items lacks snap. The adoption of the budget system by a growing number of stores is a strong factor in this. Many retailers are also cutting their overhead as much as possible, Mr. Stevens said, and this is helping to make collections better.

Burlap Market Active Here.

An active demand for spot and afloat goods features the local burlap market at the moment. Not only is the call coming from users of the goods in this country, but an excellent demand is reported for goods in bond for export. This business is coming from consumers in South America and Canada, the former being active buyers of heavyweight burlaps. Spots and afloats are not in very large supply at the moment, according to C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc., and there is a possibility of a "squeeze" in them. Calcutta is reported firm but quiet, with little interest shown here in futures. Asking prices here yesterday for spots and afloat were 5.10 cents for 40-inch, eight-ounce cloths and 7.35 cents for 40-inch, 10½-ounce goods. For May-June and July-September shipments from Calcutta the goods were held, respectively, at 5.35 and 7.75 cents, with October-December shipments quoted at 5.50 and 7.45 cents. Bids from 5 to 10 points under spot and afloat figures failed to bring out the goods here.

ARMY WILL MOBILIZE ALL LAND DEFENSES

Sept. 12 Will See First Gathering of Forces on Peace-Time Basis.

WILL BE EMERGENCY TEST

Regulars, Guardsmen and Reserves to Be Called on Eve of Pershing Retirement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—For the first time in its history, the national land defense forces of the United States will be mobilized on a peace-time basis on Sept. 12, the anniversary of the battle of St. Mihiel and the day before General Pershing retires as Chief of Staff. On that day the bugle will sound the assembly in cities, towns and hamlets throughout America, and the three-fold army, the regulars, the National Guard and the organized reserves will be called out.

President Coolidge today authorized the War Department to proceed with the project, the object of which is technically to represent the mobilization requirements of the national defense policy.

The industries of the nation will be mobilized on paper, transportation facilities will be organized and plans made for troop and vessel movements on either coast. The movements of railway guns of heavy calibre are part of the scheme, and making railway bridges stronger and the extension of spur tracks from points on the road proper to advantageous localities on the coast are under consideration.

Efforts to prevent Mobilization Day have met with no success, so far as the War Department is concerned. Among organizations active against the plan, one has dubbed it "goosestep-day" and called it General Pershing's valedictory. Secretary Weeks, under the National Defense act, could do nothing to prevent the mobilization since the law requires that the army always be in a state of readiness.

The military map of the country shows three armies of three army corps each. In each corps there are, in addition to the regular forces, National Guard and skeleton organized reserve divisions which can be increased to full strength over night, according to the scheme worked out by General Pershing since his return from France.

In the future there will be no division camps. Secretary Weeks has discarded the scheme of Newton D. Baker, his predecessor, and has accepted the French plan of smaller headquarters and the billeting of troops.

While the soldiers of the organized reserves will be drawn in a draft, only the enlisted men, the regular army and the National Guard will be called out. Reserve officers will be ordered to report to their respective regimental headquarters.

Local plans for the national defense mobilization on Sept. 12 will be outlined at a dinner of the Reserve Officers' Association at the Hotel Astor on Saturday evening, at which General Pershing will be principal speaker. Other speakers will be Senator Wadsworth, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs; Major Gen. Bullard, commander of the Second Corps Area, and Brig. Gen. John Ross Delafield, President of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States.

The dinner will bring together for the first time all of the 5 000 reserve officers of Greater New York. Announcement will be made of the opening of Camp Blauvelt, formerly a target range, which has been set aside by the Palisades Interstate Park Commission for the use of reserve officers. The camp is located two miles west of Nyack. Accommodations will be provided there for 200 officers, and advanced military training will be taught.

General William Weigel, commander of the reserves of the Second Area, has arranged to detail regular officers and a detachment of troops to maintain the camp and provide military practice, terrain rides, instruction in tactical problems, and military road and position sketching.

VOIDS SALE OF OIL CONCERN.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., May 14.—The receivership sale of the Empire Transportation and Oil Corporation on October 30, 1922, to the Bankers Trust Company of New York, trustee, for $1,800,000, was set aside today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in an opinion reversing the judgment of the Richmond District Court.

The decision is in favor of Joseph Button, Insurance Commissioner of Virginia, and other individual stockholders, who intervened for the protection of their interests when the receivership proceedings, alleged to have been instituted at the instigation of Henry L. Doherty & Co., of New York, were brought. It was charged by the intervenors that the Doherty Company plotted to defraud fellow stockholders.

On evidence that a contract with the Sinclair Oil interests had been made without the knowledge of the court during the pendency of the receivership proceedings, the judgment today said:

"Upon this ground, if there were no others, we hold that the exception to the ratification of the sale should have been sustained."

HUGE SAPPHIRES FOUND.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COLOMBO, May 14.—Several remarkable sapphires were discovered in Paddy Field in the Feimadulla district some months ago. Gem merchants are finding some difficulty, however, in marketing the stones, as they are so large, some weighing between 350 and 450 carats.

Experts agree that the find is unprecedented, as much smaller stones are generally found only at depths of about 200 feet, while these were found less than fifteen feet from the surface. The owners of the field are reported to have received nearly £35,000 for those already sold and the supply is not yet exhausted.

These stones cannot be cut up, as they lose color and value in the process. They are yellow, and there is less demand for them than for the dark sapphires which are favored by fashion.

GUILTY OF $10,340 THEFT.

Inventor Convicted of Selling Government Autos Without Authority.

In less than half an hour a jury in Judge McIntyre's part of General Sessions yesterday returned a verdict of guilty against Francis Dwight Prevost, an inventor, of 400 West 148th Street. Prevost was charged with the theft of $10,340 from Campbell C. Grdel, a warehouse broker at 105 Hudson Street, who lives in Orange, N. J.

Mr. Grdel testified that in October, 1920, Prevost, representing himself as an inspector for the Government, contracted to sell him $50,000 worth of automobiles at Camp Holabird, Md., before the commission and disappeared until last February, when he was arrested in this city.

RECORD DAY MARKS SMITH RUG AUCTION

Jobbers bought heavily yesterday in the Alexander Smith & Sons rug sale and were responsible for the largest day's business since the auction opened Monday. Sales for the session amounted to $1,050,000, the same as for the third day of the March sale, but yesterday it bought 20,200 bales of rugs, while in March an equal sum was paid for 17,000 bales. The price ranges at the auction remained yesterday about the same distance below those of the March sale as on Monday and Tuesday, about 15 per cent. In general the bids were somewhat under the list prices.

While the jobbers were the heaviest buyers, mail order houses and department stores bid vigorously for special consignments.

Renard of St. Louis continued as one of the large buyers, along with Marshall Field & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., Trorlicht-Dunker of St. Louis and Claflin's. Other heavy buyers were Spear of Pittsburgh, Seliger Brothers of Dallas, W. S. Moore of Memphis and the New York Floor Covering Company.

The Beattie Manufacturing Company yesterday reduced prices on its general stock about 15 per cent. below those it quoted earlier this month, which action is considered due to the Smith auction. The Sanford concern, which cut its prices Saturday between 10 and 20 per cent., raised them again yesterday about 7 per cent., having sold its stock on hand in two days at the lower rates.

Over half the entire Smith stock to be auctioned has now been sold. The total realized in the first three days was $2,486,300, which is $9,000 less than for the similar period in March. The sale, which is being held in the Textile Building, 385 Fifth Avenue, will be resumed this morning at 9 o'clock, with Lot 1145, which comprises seamless Ardsley axminsters, 9 feet 3 inches by 10 feet 6 inches. The auction probably will be finished tomorrow.

Sales yesterday were:

Public School Notes.

REPORT OF SECRETARY MILLER—Secretary of the Board of Education Joseph Miller Jr. has submitted to the board a report of his management of the office since his election on Feb. 2, 1924. Mr. Miller points out a number of changes he has made, resulting in greater efficiency in his department. The minutes of board meetings are so expeditiously printed at present, he points out, that a copy reaches each member of the board before the next meeting. He also reports that within the last year, the calendars of meetings have been improved in design, that his office has issued a reprint of the New York City Record, that inquiries from citizens about the public schools are better handled, that the filing system has been improved, and that the work of the office has been expedited by the centralization of authority.

SAFETY DAY ESSAYS—To arouse the interest of school children in the Safety Day parade on May 17, which will proceed from Washington Square up Fifth Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street, Special Deputy Commissioner of Police Barron Collier has offered to the pupil in each school boy or girl, who writes the best essay describing one of the floats in the parade, two tickets to Luna Park, with coupons attached, good for the various attractions within the park, as well as admission to the park itself. The compositions are to be written during the week after the parade, and should describe not only the float selected by the writer, but also the safety idea the float was intended to tell. The use of tickets by the winners will be entirely within the discretion of each child's parents, the school authorities assuming no responsibility.

Come and Have Your Finest Summer

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA is the land of sports. Everyone lives out of doors the year around. And summer is especially inviting.

The days are delightful. The nights are cool. The forty-seven year record of the U. S. Weather Bureau (average mean temperatures recorded in a great central city in this section) proves it:

47 Junes .....66 degrees 47 Augusts .....71 degrees
47 Julys .....70 degrees 47 Septembers ...69 degrees

Summer is the rainless season, too. So whether you stay a week or three months, you'll find each day a perfect day.

You motor over 4,000 miles of paved boulevards, ride, hike, fish, swim, sail and play tennis or golf.

Strange sights, new places are never ending. You explore mountain tops with hundred-mile views and go swimming in the surf on the same day. Orange groves, valleys, old missions, ocean beaches, canyons and a desert like Sahara are all within short distance by motor, train or trolley.

It's this outdoor activity and the endless change that make a Southern California summer the finest rest you've ever had.

Each year hundreds of thousands discover this ideal vacation-land. And thousands of those who come to visit remain to live.

You'll find accommodations here that fit your purse. Live in fine hotels or comfortable boarding houses.

Special round trip fares in summer—May 15 to October 31—enable you to come for little more than the regular one way fare.

You have long hoped for such a trip. Take it now. Your local railroad ticket agent can tell you about fares, trains, give you booklets, etc. Go see him today.

We will gladly send additional information about this land. Mail the coupon now.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14—A disturbance of moderate but increasing intensity had its centre Wednesday night over Lake Ontario, whence it will move eastnortheastward. This disturbance has been attended by general though light rains over much of the country east of the Mississippi River, and in the West Gulf States during the last twenty-four hours.

The barometric pressure was high Wednesday night in the vicinity of Bermuda, over the plains States and along the Pacific Coast. It was low over the plateau region.

There has been a general fall in temperature during the past twenty-four hours in the interior of the Middle Atlantic States, the Ohio and central Mississippi Valleys and the Southern plains States, and a general rise in the temperatures over the Northwest.

In New England and New York the weather will be cloudy preceded by showers on Thursday, and partly cloudy on Friday with moderate temperature. In the Middle Atlantic States, the lower lake region the Ohio Valley and Tennessee the weather will be generally fair, but with considerable cloudiness, with moderate temperature on Thursday, and fair and warmer on Friday. In the South Atlantic and East Gulf States the weather will be generally fair with moderate temperature Thursday and Friday.

COMPARATIVE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M., and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

The Civil Service.

United States.

The Commission will receive applications for examinations, on June 4, for this position:

APPRENTICE COPPERPLATE MAP ENGRAVER for vacancies in the Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, and Hydrographic Office, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. The entrance salary will be as follows: Geological Survey, $900; Hydrographic Office of the Navy Department, $1,500 a year. Both men and women may enter this examination. Competitors will be rated on spelling, 10; arithmetic, 10; letter writing, 10; map copying and lettering, 35; drawing and experience, 35. Applicants must have reached their sixteenth but not their twenty-first birthday on the date of the examination.

The Commission will also receive applications for examination, on June 17, for these positions:

FIRST, SECOND AND THIRD CLASS STEAM ENGINEMEN for vacancies in the Departmental Service, Washington, D. C., and in the Indian Service throughout the United States. The entrance salaries for these positions in the District of Columbia, beginning July 1, 1924, will be as follows: First class steam-electric engineman, $1,680 a year; second class steam-electric engineman, $1,320 a year; third class steam engineman, $900 a year. Both men and women may enter these examinations. Competitors will be rated on physical ability, 40; training and experience, 60. The ratings on the second subject will be based upon competitors' sworn statement in their applications and upon corroborative evidence. The duties of first and second class steam-electric engineman require an intimate knowledge of the construction, operation and repair of boilers, engines, turbines, condensers, pumps and other power plant auxiliaries of motors and generators for both A. C. and D. C., and the starting and switching equipment necessary thereto, as well as of heating plants, elevators and electrical distribution systems. The duties of a third class steam engineman are to assist in the maintenance and operation of heating apparatus and elevator machinery, and other duties of like nature in connection with the mechanical equipment of public buildings, or to act as fireman and be in charge of boilers and all equipment where the services of a higher class engineman are not required.

OPEN TRIAL ORDERED OF WAR CLAIM SUIT

FOR USE OF HIS INFLUENCE

Refused $25,000 Offer to Plead in Paris, Lawyer Says, but Got Results by Correspondence.

Trial was ordered yesterday in the Supreme Court at White Plains of the suit for $10,000 brought by Maurice Leon, lawyer of 69 Wall Street, against William Randolph Hearst for alleged services in obtaining a restoration of news rights for the Hearst press in 1918 when it was blacklisted in France and England because of its attitude toward the war.

Mr. Leon asserts in the suit that in 1917 he aided in getting the Hearst press a new trial from the French Government. The Ribot Government, he sets forth, authorized the Agence Radio, a French radio news service, to furnish its news to the International Service. This arrangement lasted only thirteen days. Mr. Turot, the manager of the French service, is quoted by Mr. Leon as breaking off the service because it was found that Mr. Hearst was, after the United States had entered the war, "continuing a campaign of detestable pacifism."

Mr. Leon includes in his papers a letter sent by himself to Fred J. Wilson, General Manager of the International News Service, saying that the confidence of the French news organization had been "grossly abused" and that the editorials in Hearst publications had been "absolutely incompetent with the written assurances which Mr. Hearst personally had given to me at the beginning of the relations between the International News Service and the Agence Radio."

This was on Jan. 3, 1918, but three months later negotiations were resumed to obtain for the International News Service a second restoration to favor with the French Government.

Mr. Leon swears that Mr. Hearst in a personal conversation besought him to go to France, and offered a fee of $25,000 whether the mission was successful or not. Instead of going to France, however, Mr. Leon sent a letter which, he contends, obtained a rehearing for Mr. Wilson and the restoration of news privileges for the International News Service. This letter was sent to M. Marius Gabion of the Agence Radio and said:

"I do not need to enlarge upon the advantage of such an arrangement at a moment when it is necessary for France to influence American opinion with a view to more efficacious cooperation on the part of the United States. I will add only that the value of this arrangement would be the greater that the effect of this service would be exercised over a certain clientage (Irish, Pacifists, labor and others) who are not yet completely enlightened and which would greatly aid in strengthening the solidarity of the American people in the present stage.

"I have already treated, in a correspondence which was communicated to you, the objections which were raised against any arrangement, whatever it might be, permitting the International News Service to receive news from France. The result of this policy, which deprives the readers of nearly 500 newspapers of French news, is to render them the more easily open to enemy propaganda, which of course has not ceased to function in America, where it appears under the names of pacifism, socialism, internationalism, &c.

"The English Government, which formerly opposed the restoration of telegraphic and mail privileges to the International News Service, is now disposed to accord them if the French Government sees no objection."

The importance and value to the corporation defendants," says Mr. Leon in his affidavit, "of his said news service so as to include news from British and French sources are matters undisputed on this motion."

The affidavit then gives a long correspondence between Mr. Leon and representatives of Mr. Hearst, who is portrayed as denying any obligation to Mr. Leon. One of the letters is from W. A. De Ford, lawyer for Hearst, to Kenneth M. Spence, representing Mr. Leon, in which Mr. De Ford said:

"My advices from Mr. Hearst are that he made no arrangement with Mr. Leon at all to perform any services for him or any of his corporations, and that he neither authorized nor sanctioned any such arrangement by any of his agents."

AUTO IN TWO MISHAPS.

Taking Injured Boy to Hospital It Runs Down Motorcycle.

Within the space of a few minutes last night an automobile owned and driven by Adolph Schneck of 778 Willoughby Avenue, Brooklyn, was involved in two accidents, in which a boy received probably fatal injuries and the occupants of a side-car motorcycle were badly hurt. Schneck was driving through First Street, when, at First Avenue, Solomon Mecker, 7 years old, of 130 East Second Street, jumped onto the spare tire hanging on the rear of his car.

Schneck, unaware of the presence of the boy on the car, increased his speed, and the boy was shaken off. His head struck the pavement and his skull was fractured. Schneck put him in his car and started with him for Bellevue Hospital. In Avenue A, between Third and Fourth Streets, Schneck lost control of the car and it struck a motorcycle standing at the curb, in which were Edward Pass, the owner, 24, of 93 First Avenue, and another young man. Both were thrown ten feet when the automobile hurled the motorcycle against the building there.

Onlookers put Pass in the car with the injured boy, while the other motorcyclist was led off to a near-by physician. When Schneck reached the hospital with the victims of the two accidents it was found that Pass's back had been sprained.

An unidentified motorist ran down eight-year-old Hyman Pivawer of 413 First Avenue at First Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street, and, without waiting to learn the extent of the boy's injuries, sped off. Several cars went in pursuit of the driver, but he shook them off after a half-mile chase and disappeared. The boy was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where it was said that his skull had been fractured.

Mrs. John Major, playing in "The Miracle," was reported to be on the way to recovery last night at Roosevelt Hospital as the result of injuries she received on Monday night when she was struck by a taxicab at Broadway and Sixty-second Street.

CROWD BEATS A NEGRO.

Policeman Has Hard Time Rescuing Prisoner, Accused by White Girl.

Five hundred men and boys threatened to lynch Albert Walton, a negro, last night, when Miss Irene Comfrey, 15 years old, told them that Walton had attempted to drag her into the hallway of her home at 1,968 Park Avenue.

Miss Comfrey and Policeman John A. Kranz of the East 126th Street station described the attack on the negro when he was found guilty on a disorderly conduct charge and held without bail for sentence Friday night by Magistrate Francis E. McGuade.

Miss Comfrey, the sister of Frankie Comfrey, a pugilist, said that the negro spoke to her as she was standing at the entrance of her home and when she ignored him he grabbed her by the arm and started to drag her into the hallway. Her screams attracted a crowd and the negro ran to the corner of Park Avenue and 126th Street, where a small boy tripped him and jumped on him when he fell.

Walton sprang to his feet before the vanguard of attackers reached him, but his flight was cut of by a young man who struck him in the face. As he staggered the other attackers rained blows on him and kicked him. Hundreds were shouting "Lynch him! Lynch him!" when Policeman Kranz ran up, his pistol and nightstick drawn.

The approach of the policeman didn't deter the attackers and Kranz began to club those nearest him. Then, taking a position beside the negro, he threatened to shoot the first person who placed a hand on the prisoner. The sight of the pistol awed the crowd and, as they fell back, other policemen ran up and helped Kranz to escort the negro to the station.

Japan Approves Lausanne Treaty.

TOKIO, May 14 (Associated Press).—The Privy Council has approved the treaty negotiated with Turkey at the Lausanne Conference and has recommended the Prince Regent to ratify it. This is expected in a few days. Since the treaty is effective when any three of the four Powers—Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan—ratify it, and Great Britain and Italy have already done this, the treaty comes into force with Japan's ratification.
